TRF Bank Debits Up Four Per Cent

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during May were up four per cent from the same month a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. The city's bank debits volume during May of this year was $8,688,000. In the same month of 1964 the total figure was $8,394,000. During the first five months of 1965 bank debits amounted to $42,637,000, an increase of four per cent over 1964's $40,898,000.

For Minnesota the May volume of bank debits for reporting cities increased 6 per cent from May of last year. Debits for the first five months of 1965 increased seven per cent from the same period in 1964.

The volume of bank debits reported by the total sample of ninth Federal Reserve district cities for May increased seven per cent from a year ago. The cumulative total for the first five months of 1965 indicated a six per cent increase from the comparable 1964 period.

Bank debits are mostly checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payments for goods, services, debts, etc. They also include transfers of funds which of themselves have no business significance. Bank debits mainly include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships and corporations, and state and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government and savings accounts.

21 County 4H'ers Enrolled in Farm Tractor Project

Operating a modern farm tractor today is a lot different than it was a generation ago. More farm mechanization, demands for greater horsepower, larger farms and stiffer competition have resulted in rapid changes in the tractor. As fast as improvements are made, the operator must learn how to use them.

One group of young farmers, 4-H club members, have an early start in learning about tractor operation and care. This year an estimated 63,000 youths from coast-to-coast are engaged in a 4-H tractor project or activity, says the cooperative extension service. Pennington county has 21 club members enrolled in the tractor project.

Some of the newer "extras" they are learning about are power steering, power transmissions, 10 or more forward speeds and up to five reverse speeds, four-wheel drives, increased horsepower, air-conditioned cabs and two-way radios. They may soon learn about remote controls.

There are four separate study units in the 4-H tractor program which can be completed in a period of four or more years. The first deals with general information about the tractor such as safety, lubrication and engine operation. The second unit gets into mechanical details and the third expands upon efficient operation and maintenance. The fourth and advanced section deals with machinery care and safety including use of tillage tools, planters, sprayers, harvesters and also machinery management.

In addition to the practical training received, 4-H members can earn awards for superior accomplishments. The national sponsor of the program in 40 states annually provides a trip to the National 4-H Club congress in Chicago for the top boy or girl in the state. Medals are given to county champions and the state winner can compete for a $500 educational scholarship.

A state representative will be selected to compete in one of two annual tractor driving contests. The Western contest will take place at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Oct. 3-5. Elimination events leading to the state choice are scheduled throughout the state.

Newfolden Girl Gets Scholarship

Miss Carol A. Rokke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rokke of Newfolden, has received a nursing scholarship in the amount of $300 sponsored by the Minnesota board of nursing, St. Paul. Balloon Release Contest Planned Friday Afternoon

Staging of a "Balloon to the Moon" contest for Friday has been announced by James Foley, director of parks and recreation for Thief River Falls. All youngsters in the community are eligible to enter the event.

Beginning at 1 p.m. Friday, youngsters will gather at the Pennington county fairgrounds on the west edge of Thief River Falls. Each child will be provided with a postal card on which space has been provided for writing the individual's name and address. The cards will be attached to strings on helium-filled balloons, and the balloons will be released simultaneously when registration has been completed.

Postal cards will be self-addressed to the local park and recreation office and will include instructions to the finder to place them in the mail. The child whose balloon travels the greatest distance will win a prize to be awarded during the annual Jaycees Aquacade in late July.

First prize in the contest will be the choice of a man's or lady's watch contrubuted by the Jewel Box. Second and third prizes, also to be based on the distance balloons travel, will also be offered.

No registrations will be accepted before 1 p.m. Friday at the fairgrounds, Foley said. Preparations are being made for 800 balloons and cards, however, and registration soon after 1 p.m. Friday is recommended to avoid disappointment if the number of applicants exceeds 800. There is no age limit for youngsters entering the contest.

Hay Day Held To Give Data About Forage

Alfalfa Pellets Have Many Advantages in Feeding of Livestock

Information of importance to hay producers and livestock feeders was presented at the Pennington county "hay day" held last week at the Pennington county fairgrounds near Thief River Falls. Speakers were Dr. James Justin and Bob Jacobs of the Institute of agriculture, University of Minnesota.

Dr. Justin spoke on forage management, listing a number of recommendations to provide the largest amount of highest quality hay possible. These included using approved varieties such as Vernal and Ranger, fertilizing with about 200 pounds of phosphate and potash (nitrogen is not needed on alfalfa), use of MCP for weed control during the first year of growth, cutting hay in the bud stage for, highest food value, using a conditioner to gain a day's drying time and prevent rain spoilage and use of pole sheds or other cover for hay storage.

Jacobs compared feeding of alfalfa pellets to hay or hay silage, with test results showing a decided advantage in favor of pellet feeding. Costs used in the tests were $30 per ton for alfalfa pellets, $28 for alfalfa-timothy pellets, $20 for alfalfa hay, $8 for timothy-alfalfa silage and $18 for timothy-alfalfa hay.

Average daily gain with alfalfa pellets was 1.77 pounds while timothy-alfalfa pellets produced 1.33 pounds of gain. By comparison, alfalfa hay provided only .18 pound of gain and timothy-alfalfa produced only .30 pound of gain.

It took 729 pounds of alfalfa pellets to produce 100 pounds of gain, he said, or 971 pounds of timothy-alfalfa pellets. There were 3,160 pounds of alfalfa hay required for 100 pounds of gain and 2,721 pounds of timothy-alfalfa hay required for the same amount of gain.

Cost per hundred pounds of gain was $13.87 with alfalfa pellets, $15.88 with timothy-alfalfa pellets, $61.93 for alfalfa hay and $33.02 for timothy-alfalfa hay.

Times Will Move To New Location; Close Wednesday

In order to facilitate moving of furniture and equipment to the new location, The Times will be closed all day Wednesday. Although the equipment move may not be completed, the office will be open Thursday at the new location at 320 Main av. N., the former Gustafson & Son building.

While regular publication time will be observed on Wednesday, all copy for advertising and news items must be submitted early to be included in the Wednesday edition. All news and advertising copy for the Wednesday paper must be received in the Times office by Tuesday afternoon.

Arrangements have been made to publish the Monday, June 28, edition of the paper on the normal publication date. Because of the uncertainty of having type-setting and printing equipment in operating condition soon after the move on Wednesday, however, early copy for the June 28 edition is also requested.

Cooperation by the public during this transition period will be greatly appreciated by the Times staff. An open house at the new location will be announced later, at which time the public will be invited to view the office and watch the printing equipment in operation.

Soil Conservation Practices Tour Set in Marshall

A public educational tour of county soil conservation practices has now been arranged for the morning of June 29, according to Frederick L. Heck, Marshall county soil conservation agent. The county ASC, soil conservation district and extension office at Warren are participating in the tour.

Throughout the tour Andrew Strandquist, county ASC office manager, and John Polley, soil conservation district technician, will be explaining the purpose of the United States department of agriculture participation in farm conservation practices.

After the tour a bean feed will be held at the PKM room, sponsored by the Warren Chamber of Commerce, at which Mr. Everet Shumacher, area ASCS supervisor, will give a short talk.

In order to have an idea of the number attending this tour, Heck would like persons interested to call in reservations to the Marshall county extension office by Friday, June 26. The phone number is 742-9861.

First Vehicles Completed

Goodridge Man Plans To Market Bog Buggy

-by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Carl Elg, Goodridge service station owner, has devised a method of transportation that will undoubtedly prove useful in northern Minnesota. The newly formed Elg Manufacturing company has turned out its first three "Bog Buggies" These are tough, lightweight, four-wheel drive vehicles designed specifically for cross-country travel in muskeg and swampland.

Elg began experimenting with his idea about two and a half years ago. His final product is a tractor-like vehicle of purely functional design, components include automobile and tractor parts plus a framework of high-quality steel. This type of vehicle is a newcomer to this part of the country, though they are commonly used in southern and coastal swampland areas. Ruggedness and versatility of the Bog Buggy should appeal to farmer and sportsman alike. Elg has applied for a patent on the machine.

Power is applied to all four of the Buggy's wheels by a six-cyl-

CLIMBING out of a drainage ditch without getting muddy is easy when one has the proper machinery, as Carl Elg of Goodridge demonstrates on one of his "Bog Buggies". Powerful, rugged and lightweight, these vehicles are designed for travel in roadless swamp country where most other types of land vehicles can't cut the mustard. Thus far, Elg has manufactured three of the machines, and has applied for a patent. More Buggies will be built and sold as the demand increases.

Tractor Pulling Contest Planned for County Fair

Something new in the way of area competition is being devised for the Pennington county fair this year, according to Fred Sorenson, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. The committee will sponsor tractor pulling contests in front of the grandstand Friday evening, July 23, and Saturday afternoon, July 24.

Each tractor entered in the contest is placed in a weight class to make competition equitable Object of the contest is for each tractor to pull a weighted sled as far as possible as additional weight is added. This competition is conducted in each weight class.

The weighted sled—usually built of sheet metal with a tractor or car for extra weight—is hitched to the tractor. Before crossing the starting line, a "pace" tractor is driven alongside the contestant's tractor to establish the required qualifying speed of three and one-fourth miles per hour.

At the starting line the pace tractor drops back and the contestant's tractor starts down the track. Men seated on chairs placed a specific number of feet apart on both sids of the track step on the sled as it goes by, adding extra weight. As the weight-pulling limit is reached, the slip and jerk, or the front end starts to rise off the ground. When this happens, the judge blows the whistle and that tractor's pull is completed.

Rules of the contest are strict. There are rules on drawbar height, tire chains or lugs and many other items. Only normal fuels may be used—no mixtures of any kind. Contestants must stay in the same gear during the entire pull, but may use any throttle setting after proving a three and one-quarter miles per hour speed in that gear is possible.

In a typical contest, tractors weighing up to 4,500 pounds compete in the "A" or light class. Additional classes include: "B", 4,500 to 6,500 pounds; "C" 6,500 10,500 pounds; "E", 10,500 to 14,500 pounds; and "F", 14,500 pounds to 17,500 pounds. Classes "E" and "F" are open to four-wheel tandem drive and tandem tractors.

To make specific weight classes, from tires and take off other extra weight, being careful to keep best traction. Age, make, model or color have no effect on classes. In one recent contest a 1929 model tractor won its class against a number of shiny new models.

Contestants list several reasons for competition in pulling contests. Importance of having a tractor properly tuned heads the list, for this results in better field performance as well as faring better in pulling competition. Drivers have an opportunity to publicly exhibit skill in operating a tractor effectively. Excitement of competition rates high and a contest settles some long-standing arguments about which tracor is most powerful.

Lighter classes will compete on July 23 with the heavier weights on July 24, Soensen said. An entry fee of $10 will be charged, but will be refunded when the contestant makes his appearance for the pull. Further information on the contest will be announced later, but farmers interested are asked to keep the event in mind and give serious consideration to entering.

For Product Promotion

Turkey Producers Ask Market Order

A petition signed by 100 turkey producers and growers in Minnesota requesting consideration of a promotional order has been received, it was announced Friday by Russel G. Schwandt, Minnesota commissioner of agriculture.

This procedure is required in the turkey research and market development act adopted by the 1965 state legislature which provides for the establishment of programs for turkey research and market development and the collection of fees for financing such programs.

"I want to make it clear," Commissioner Schwandt said, "That the law is not a marketing order in itself but permits issuance of such order only after a referendum in which all growers will be given an opportunity to vote." He stated further that he is extremely interested in this type of "self help" program and sincerely hopes that it will have full participation by the turkey growers to insure its success.

As a first step in complying with the statutes in connection with such an order, Commissioner Schwandt has divided the state into five equal areas in accordance with turkey production. This area is in Area I which icludes about the north half of the state.

He also announced the appointment of a nominating committee of one grower from each area to facilitate the election of a 15-member advisory board which will consist of three producers or growers from each area. The nominating committee appointed is as follows:

Objective of the training is to provide trainees with basic skills and the knowledge required to meet speed and accuracy requirements for typing duties and office machine operation and to provide elements of office procedure such as filing and record keeping. Trainees need not be high school graduates.

Preference will be given to persons who are the head of the family or head of the household. In addition to the training itself, trainees will also be eligible to receive transportation and subsistance allowances while they are being trained.

Any man or woman in northwestern Minnesota interested in this program should contact the Thief River Falls office immediately for additional details and eligibility requirements. Clerical aptitude tests will be scheduled for all applicants at a later date. Persons already registered for this class need not apply, but should notify the employment service if they are no longer available or interested in this training course.

CORRECTION

Due to a typographical error in the report on last week's school board meeting, the wrong amount was listed as a successful bus bid by Wiener Motors. The heavy duty chassis was listed as sold for $2,219 rather than $3,319, the latter figure being the correct amount.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

Poison ivy, poison oak, birds that fly, bees that sting...children should know all about these things! So should mothers and fathers! A trip to your public library will bring you into contact (painlessly) with the Minnesota wildlife! The good and the bad of it. So bring your library card, pick your choice of literary material, and head for home or camp with the books tucked securely under your arm. Read them, notice the pictures and make comparison with the 'real thing' you see! (It is a good idea to look without touching growing things...in fact, there's a law about touching some of them!

As you come into your library you'll see Minnesota's Wild flower laws posted on the bulletin board for your perusal! "Look, but don't touch" is about the best one to abide by!

Children should know about other things, too. Your public library is the best source of information on about every subject!

Look at some of the names of these juvenile books and keep them in mind when your youngster visits next time. "Birth of a Forest" by Selsam; "All About the Flowering World" by Lane; "Trees Every Child Should Know". There are also volumes on insects, reptiles and then there's "Pets", by Chrystie. This latter is a complete handbook on the care, understanding and appreciation of all kinds of animal pets.

An interesting series begins with "How Man Began" by Mary Curtis and includes "Man and the Earth", "Man and the Desert", "Man and the Jungle" and "Man and the Sea", all by Dr. Dan Q. Posin. These are exceptionally well-written informative volumes keyed to the juvenile mind; excellent nature studies.

Another interesting volume, but one for the individual interested in sports and keeping the body healthy, is "Physical Fitness for Young Champions" by Antonacci and Barr. This volume contains information on tests, exercises (for muscle building and coordination), drills for endurance and stamina, equipment (home-built), games—really a little bit about a lot of things!

The young scientist might be budding right underfoot this summer. Why not let him bring home "A Physics Lab of Your Own" by Dr. Steven J. Mark and illustrated by Charles Wilton. Perhaps the physicist then biologist and therefore not particularly interested in wildlife, but would rather experiment with the principles of heat, sound, light, gases, etc., than visit the woods.

Perhaps you've the "let's make something" type at your house... rather than the "let's go somewhere or the "what makes it do it" scientist. There are several cookbooks for the "young-to-be-homemaker" on the shelves with recipes that are just right for "trying" and aren't likely to take too much supervision while in the making.

There's an excellent series, several volumes comprising "The Young People's Science Encyclopedia" set. These particular books may not be taken from the premises but the facts and figures contained in them can be consumed on the spot.

So there you have it? Whether its a study of wildlife nature or human nature, your very own public library covers the field. Whether animal or atom, pie or pets, eels or electricity the shelves of the library are loaded down with books and more books.

Make the most of what is yours for the asking...any volume on the shelf!

We'll see you soon, any or every day Monday through Friday from noon until 7 p.m.

Missouri Synod Church Meeting Held in Detroit

Doctrinal stand, missionary outreach, educational programs and relationship with other church bodies are the issues facing the 900 delegates of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod meeting in Detroit, Mich. The meeting began Wednesday and will continue through Friday.

Over 90 registered laymen and pastoral delegates and guests from Minnesota are attending the 10-day convention. According to Rev. Paul Biegner, pastor of St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, the delegates from the Crookston circuit are Rev. John Rolf of Red Lake Falls and Art Ross of Fisher.

A major item of business at the convention, Rev. Tax Return Questions Are Answered by IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I think I will qualify for income averaging this year, but I cannot find a copy of my 1962 return to use in making the computation. Can I get a duplicate?

A—Copies of returns that you filed may be obtained by writing or visiting the district director's office. A charge of 50 cents per page is made for each copy furnished.

Q—I just bought a delicatessen. Do I have to obtain a federal beer license to sell beer and what form should I use?

A—Before you commence operation you should register and pay the occupational stamp tax (not a license) required for the balance of the fiscal year ending June 30. You are required to buy a new stamp on or before July 1 each year thereafter. Use special tax return form 11 obtainable from your district director's office for this purpose.

Q—My refund check is made out to both me and my wife. Do we both have to endorse it?

A—Yes.

Q—I have been requested to come in for an audit of my return. Why can't this be done in the local office I go to for information?

A—Probably the local office you refer to is only a one -or two-man operation.

Audit personnel are usually only located in offices where the volume of work makes their employment practicable. In most cases, audit personnel are located at offices convenient to taxpayers so that long trips will not be necessary.

Q—If I have a gardener during the summer months do I have to pay Social Security taxes on his wages?

A—If you pay the gardener $50 or more during a calendar quarter then you are required to report wages and pay Social Security taxes on them. This will be the case for any person you hire to perform services for you about your home. Besides maids and gardeners, it includes chauffeurs, cooks, governesses and handymen.

Details on these reporting requirements are contained in circular H. Copies of the circular and Form 942, "Employer's Quarterly Return for Household Workers," may be obtained at any local revenue service office.

Q—I am going to take a three-week trip by car around the country next month. Will any of my expenses be deductible, and if so, what kind of records should I keep?

A—A vacation trip is a personal expense and therefore expenses would be no more deductible than they are at home. The expenses you deduct at home, sales taxes, gasoline taxes, etc., will be deductible while you are away. Therefore, keeping a record of gasoline and sales taxes you pay, receipts, cancelled checks, etc., would help you substantiate deductions you claim.

If part of your trip, however, qualifies as a business trip then the rules covering business travel and entertainment would apply. These rules are explained in Internal Revenue service publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses," which you can obtain from any Internal Revenue service office.

Q—I just received a raise and think I have to file an estimated tax return. When I file this, should I take the standard deduction? I am not sure whether I will be able to itemize or not this year.

A—If you are not sure about your deductions, figure you tax based on the standard deduction. Remember, estimated tax declarations are only required to keep taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis.

A declaration generally is required if withholding will not come within $40 of meeting your actual tax liability. Increased withholding may make it unnecessary for you to file estimated tax declarations.

Q—I have been involved in a dispute with your audit people. It looks, now, like I am going to need a lawyer. When I brought this up during a conference at your office they refused to recommend anyone. Why was that? Don't they want me to get professional assistance?

A—If you want to pursue your protest beyond the district conference stage you will probably want to have professional help. However, the revenue service does not recommend who you should use to represent you, since there are many qualified lawyers and accountants.

Officers of the local chapter of the bar or accounting association will be able to give you the names of persons in your area qualified to represent you.

Goodridge Man Hopes to Market Swamp Buggies

inder automobile engine of about 105 horsepower. The wheels can be equipped with tractor tires or dual sets for added traction. The machine has no body as such, and the combination of engine, frame, steering assembly, wheels and seat adds up to a weight of about 900 pounds. Thus if it should become mired down which is unlikely, it can easily be pushed out by hand.

The vehicle has a four-speed transmission, plus a reverse gear. Though obviously geared for maximum pulling power at low speeds, the Buggy can cruise on the open road at 40 miles per hour. In commenting on the machine's power and durability, Elg stated that four-inch poplar trees present no great obstacle, and that it could be driven over a rockpile without damage to its steel-guarded bottom. A steel guard also protects the radiator.

The Bog Buggy can be purchased with a number of accessories. Lights, starter and trailer hitch are standard equipment. Also available are tandem seat, radio and head bolt and tank heater. Elg plans to equip some models with cabs and heaters for winter use. Ignition can be supplied by either a six-volt or 12-volt battery. The engine runs efficiently with regular gasoline, which is carried in a 15-gallon tank. Elg plans to sell the machines at $700 and up, depending on accessories.

Elg himself manufactured the gas tanks, hoods and grills. The welding is done by Paul Mutnanski. Additional employees will be hired as the enterprise grows, Elg said.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

by Bill Dahlquist

The Times is in the process of moving into new quarters, and moving is a novel experience for the great family journal. It has been operating in its present home for nearly a half a century, and that is a long time for one organization to survive and expand in one location.

My own experience with the organization extends over a period of about forty years, during which time I have become fairly well acquainted with the founders and their offspring. I can't recall any time when that relationship was really unpleasant.

With more than forty years of activities in the community, in various forms, to look back upon, I have had occasion to meet many people, and it gives me a great deal of personal satisfaction when an old-timer whose identity has been lost to me, stops me and opens the conversation on matters that no longer are as important as we thought they were at one time. So I will be doing a little looking backward in this column of observations, along with some of the usual complaints about things as they are. It seems that I must be a little disagreeable now and then.

The decade of the "twenties" was the bust end of the boom that ended a couple of years after the war. During the summer of the year 1920 I was a resident of a prosperous southern Minnesota farm community. That was the year the bottom fell out of farm products prices and forced me to shift from trying to sell automobiles to newspaper work. Farmers were not in the mood for buying cars or trucks. Many of them had mortgaged the home farm during the years of war prosperity to buy the neighboring quarter or half-section and they were in the unhappy process of losing the mortgaged home farm as well as the high priced land they had purchased on time.

Southern Minnesota, as well as northwestern Minnesota, experienced the era of mortgage foreclosures and, there as here, that era was followed by an era of bank failures throughout the agricultural communities. Few, if any, banks in our area survived, and most of those that did survive managed to stay in business only by reorganization.

The failures of small banks led ultimately to the failures of large banks and the stock market crash of 1929 that ushered in the New Deal might lead us to just one more old deal, some well informed observers now fear. Once again we are over our ears in debt and there is some justification for a little anxiety about the future that lies ahead of us.

We know now that the remedy that was prescribed for our ills did not effect a permanent cure, but it is not my immediate intention to discuss that question. The New Deal did give us a breathing spell and so our community, along with the rest of the nation, managed to survive for a period of comparatively pleasant years as we devalued the dollar and built up our new pyramid of public and private debt.

Here in Thief River Falls we did well in the closing years of that decade of the "twenties. Land O' Lakes salvaged a bankrupt poultry plant and established a new operation that now is one of our best. Osborne-McMillan located here, and a new hospital was built that served as the nucleus of our present expanded hospital and general health facilities. It was the "bust" years of the "Twenties that brought L.B. Hartz to Northwestern Minnesota and eventually to Thief River Falls where he has operated one of the most successful businesses in the northern half of the state, after starting from scratch.

And the Times, along with many others, survived the lean years. That is what I started to say. And there are a few other observations I would like to pass along for what they might be worth.

But now, here at the Times we are getting ready to move. For the first time in forty years my desk is clean—inside and out. Incidentally, this is the first day of summer.

Ask to Vote on Turkey Growers Marketing Order

Area 1, Fillmore Trites, Henning, Area 2, Gerhard Mitteness, Benson; Area 3, Lloyd Peterson, Paynesville; Area 4, Clem Thurnbeck, Forest Lake; Area 5, Sandord Haugen, Northfield. Mitteness serves as chairman.

This committee has been instructed to submit the names of at least three candidates from each area to the commissioner no later than July 9, 1965. An election by mail ballot will be conducted between July 15 and July 25.

In a letter mailed to turkey producers, Commissioner Schwandt asked that they contact members of the nominating committee with respect to recommendations for nominations to the advisory board. He pointed out that the list of growers to whom the letters were mailed was compiled on the basis of the best information available to the department.

The commissioner urged any grower who did not receive a letter to contact the state department of agriculture requesting to be included on this list. The law defines a producer or grower as "any person growing or causing to be grown in the State of Minnesota 200 or more turkeys and which are marketed for human consumption".

Card of Thanks

In loving memory of Oleander Uglem who passed away June 20, 1964.

We bid farewell-you went away,
We didn't want to have you go
But God had called you-this we know
The little visits we often had
could cheer us so when we were sad
We miss the twinkle in your eye
the friendly wave as you said good-by.
We know the time cannot erase
The pain we feel from your empty place.
Now that your toil on earth is ore
we wait to meet you on yonder shore.
Sadly missed by the family. 1t49p

RLF Trips Legion Junior Team 14-2

Bernie Demarais twirled a three-hitter and belted a two-run homer Wednesday evening as the Red Lake Falls Eagles winning snapped a three-game winning streak for the Thief River Falls American Legion junior baseball team. On Thursday night the locals got back on the winning track by registering a 10 to 6 win over the visiting Warren team.

Tonight (Monday) the Juniors entertain the tough Grand Forks team in an 8 p.m. contest at the fairgrounds diamond. On Tuesday the locals journey to Crookston for a 6:30 p.m. contest and on Wednesday will play an 8 p.m. game at Fertile. Next home game after tonight will be against Lancaster on Thursday at 8 p.m. on the fairgrounds diamond.

After defeating Argyle, Stephen and Newfolden in the first three games of the young season, the local Juniors met a determined opponent in Red Lake Falls Wednesday. Demarais fanned 12 batters and belted a home run in the six-inning game halted by the 10-run rule with a 14-2 score. Billy Dicken's triple, Wayne Smith's double and Pat Fischer's single were the only hits off the Red Lake Falls hurler. Billy Poole took the loss for the locals.

Chuck Tydlacka, batting in the number nine spot in the order, led Red Lake Falls hitters with three hits, including a double, and drove in four runs. The visitors played errorless ball behind Demarais while the locals made five miscues in the field. It was a seven-run cluster in the fifth inning by the Red Lake Falls team that proved the issue, with one of five hits in the inning being Demarias' homer.

Lefty Pat Fischer took the mound for Thief River Falls Thursday and went the distance, registering a 10 to 6 win over Warren on the fairgrounds diamond. He walked four and struck out four in scattering eight hits, allowing no more than two in any inning. Dick Engelstad was the starter and loser for Warren with relief help from Paul Knutson.

Rocky Wilson laced four singles in four trips to the plate for the locals while Wayne Smith belted a pair of doubles and a single in four trips to drive in five runs. Buzz Olson had a double and triple in two official trips to the plate and scored three times. Brad Johnson, with two singles, was the only Warren hitter to get more than one hit and Dave Knutson's double was the only extra-base hit for the visitors.

TRF Man Aboard Ship Which Saves Dominican Ship

Electronics Technician Seaman Orville S. Olson, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nels S. Olson of Thief River Falls, participated in a mission which saved two Dominican ships May 29, while serving aboard the destroyer USS Gearing, in shallow waters near the seaport of Puerto De Haina, Dominican Republic.

The Dominican ships broke loose from their moorings and drifted to sea unmanned in a wind and rain storm. Gearing and another U.S. ship were ordered to search for the ships and save them if possible. Upon sighting the ships, Gearing and her sister ship attached tow lines to the Dominican from the shallow waters to safer positions at sea.

Shooting a consistent 141-stroke net total, the Froseth's Market squad of Chuck Wilcox, Al Adams, Jon Larson and Frank Womack, moved six strokes into the lead in the city golf league competition on Wednesday evening. Last week, after the opening round of the schedule, Froseth's held a one-stroke lead, 149 to 150, over the second place Tunberg Motors. In Wednesday evening's second round play, the Tunberg Motors, shooting a 148-stroke net, dropped to fourth place in the standings.

The Land O'Lakes team, currently in eighth place, came in with the low net total on Wednesday, having a 139-stroke total. Paul Steimaschuk had a gross 47 and net 34, Bob Kloubec had a gross 43 and net 35, Ed Sisler carded a 47 and a net 33 and Ken Moum had a gross 45 and net 37.

Bob Stordahl had the evening's low gross, a fine 35; and Dick Williams and Evan Anderson, with 30's, had the low net individual scores.

Highway Litter Bill in State Totals $300,000

Each year Minnesotans spend about $300,000 to pick up paper and assorted rubbish from our roads and rights of way, according to the Minnesota highway department.

"Since this is a problem that has a painfully simple solution—that of simply not throwing trash on the roadways—it is obvious that the problem can be eliminated by individual effort on the part of the citizens," a department spokesman said. In the past, receptacles for rubbish have been placed along highways for deposit of litter, but this practice has been curtailed because people used them for dumping garbage.

"Root of the problem is simply thoughtlessness on the part of the road users and others responsible for defiling our roads with trash," the department adds. "Public awareness and responsibility are the only effective answers to this costly and unnecessary problem."

Helen Eve Brown Is Accepted for Summer Training

Helen Eve Brown of Goodridge is among 16 University of North Dakota occupational therapy students who have been accepted for clinical training during the summer, according to Mrs. F. John Marshall, supervisor of clinical affiliations in occupational therapy at UND. Miss Brown will participate in the U.S. Army medical specialist corps Occupational Therapy Summer Practicum program.

To be eligible to write the National Registration examination, occupational therapy students must complete a minimum of nine months in clinical experience at selected hospitals or centers.

Affiliation areas include pediatrics, general medicine and surgery, psychiatry and physical disabilities. Each area provides practical experience for the student in applying occupational therapy principles and techniques for specific handicaps.

Emily Hoel Named To NSF Summer Math Institute

Emily Hoel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Hoel of Thief River Falls, is among 31 high school students from seven states who have been selected to attend the National Science foundation-sponsored summer mathematics institute at Morningside college in Sioux City, Ia. The five-week program started June 13 and will continue through July 16.

The students, chosen from among nearly 200 applicants, were selected by a committee of Morningside faculty members and area high school mathematics teachers. To Qualify, a student was required to be in the top 15 per cent of his high school class and to pass several qualifying tests.

The institute consists of three basic courses-number theory, foundations of geometry and matrices and algebraic structures—plus a weekly lecture delivered by guest speakers. Dr. Elsie Muller, professor of mathematics at Morningside, is the institute director.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Lon Goes to Utah

We have been informed that Lon Szymanski, the scoring sensation who led the Goodridge Huskies to their first District 31 championship and into the finals of the Region 8 basketball tournament last season, will definitely be attending Utah State university at Logan, Utah, this fall. He will undoubtedly be a good contender for the basketball team at the western school.

Possessed of a light touch to go with his six foot, nine inch frame, Lon is dangerous from anywhere in the lane, and his rebounding deprived many opponents of second attempts to score on missed shots. He broke all scoring records at Goodridge during his career, in spite of attempts by opponets to key their defenses against him.

It was only in the finals of the Region 8 tournament at Grand Forks this spring, against the regional champion Bemidji Lumberjacks, that an effective defense was shown against "Long Lon". Inability of his teammates to get the ball to him, coupled with "cold" shooting night, resulted in his being held to one of his lowest point production nights of the season.

On the night before, however, against a favored Ada Viking team, Lon made a shambles of pre-game predictions. Area fans, especially those among the Ada rooting section, will not soon forget his record total of 50 points in that game as the Huskies won in a walk-away. As he left the floor with the game well in hand and the final minutes blinking away on the scoreboard clock, the crowd in the jammed fieldhouse gave him a terrific ovation.

So it's on to Utah for Lon, and the best wishes of the community go with him. Incidentally, he was born at Preston, Idaho, about 25 miles from Logan, so his decision to attend Utah State is not entirely foreign. It will be interesting to watch his college career.

Problems for Paul

Back for the summer after completing his sophomore year at Dartmouth college, Paul Klungness is not certain of his athletic eligibility at the eastern school next fall. The former Prowler athletic star saw considerable action for the Darthmouth football team last fall.

The eligibility puzzle arises from his participating with four other students in a teenage fashion panel for a national magazine last year. The students were selected to serve on a panel deciding college tastes in fashions and fabrics, and made a trip to New York City for the judging.

Apparently the NCAA does not look too highly upon such participation by the athletes it governs. The NCAA must prove intent, however, before eligibility of Paul and others can be questioned. Since there was no pay involved for serving on the panel, however, and Paul was not included because of his football prowess, it is expected that his eligibility is not in serious question.

The situation does indicate, however, the power which the NCAA and other similar groups would like to exert over athletes in their jurisdiction. For Paul's sake, and the promise which showed in the past college football season, we hope that he will be eligible for competition in the Ivy League next season.

Angling Anxiety

Area fishermen who ply the walleye waters of Lake of the Woods are beginning to wonder when the fish are going to start "hitting". This is not to say that fishing hasn't been good, for many limit catches of good fish have been made, but the fish have been biting lightly with very few hard "strikes". Often it has been difficult to distinguish between a bite and merely having the sinker bump bottom.

No one seems to have an answer to the question. It is generally early in June that Lake of the Woods walleyes take lures with a vengeance and the "hottest" fishing of the season is noted. Perhaps the late spring, the many windy days and the general lack of sunshine have delayed this frenzied fishing and the best days are yet to come. This is what most fishermen like to believe anyway—that the next trip is going to be the best one.

McCarthy Claims Medicare Bill Is Rural Area Boon

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy said today the medical care bill before the congress will be of substantial benefit to farm and rural residents of Minnesota. Senator McCarthy is a member of the senate committee on finance which is working on the measure approved by the house of representatives.

He pointed out that rural areas have special advantages and attractions for persons over 65 years of age, and the number of non-farm rural residents over 65 years of age—those persons living in villages and in towns—is greater than the number of persons that age and over who live in urban areas.

"Most of the rural citizens who will be eligible under the proposed program in the first years of its operation are those who were born at or before the turn of the century," Senator McCarthy said. "They are people who believe in the American ideal and who worked hard for the promise of success in the land of opportunity, and they should be permitted to share in their years of retirement in the benefits of this program."

In addition to the basic hospitalization plan, the medical care measure before the senate finance committee provides a voluntary supplemental insurance plan and improves and broadens the Kerr-Mills Act in Minnesota.

Of special concern to rural areas are provisions for post-hospital care in approved nursing homes and in extended-care facilities.

It is estimated that the bill would provide nearly $47 million in benefit payments to older citizens under the basic hospital plan in Minnesota in 1967. Under the voluntary supplementary plan, benefit payments in 1967 in Minnesota are estimated at $23 million if 95 per cent participate.

State To Receive $481,490 To Aid Wildlife Work

Minnesota will receive an initial apportionment of $481,490 in federal aid for fish and wildlife restoration projects for fiscal year 1966, it was announced this week. Additional funds will be made available this fall.

Under the Dingell-Johnson Act, $139,934 will be made available for restoration of fish habitat, and wildlife aid funds totaling $341,556 will be available under the Pittman-Robertson Act.

Both acts provide that states may be reimbursed for up to 75 per cent of the costs of approved projects out of federal funds received from excise taxes on fishing equipment and sporting arms and ammunition.

States must expend their own funds for the projects initially and are then reimbursed. Distribution of federal funds to the states is based on the formula which takes into account the number of paid hunting and fishing license holders in each state and the state's size.

A distribution of $15 million will be made to the states July 1, an increase of $800,000 over a similar distribution one year ago. An additional apportionment is made in the fall.

The Vets gained the top rung in the city softball league standings last week by scoring a 9-8 win over the Bridgeman's in a ten-inning tilt on the fairgrounds diamond. The Vets' win, coupled with the Hamm's loss to Bea's Food Market, by a 5-2 score, shoved the V.F.W. squad into a one-game lead.

The Hartz Stores team, with Dwight Tangquist pitching a one-hitter, defeated the Schmidt's Beer 4-0, in a Monday evening game. The lone hit garnered by the Schmidt's was a infield hit by Roger Shern, and he gained the decision on a close play at first base. Dennis Bakke poled out a center-field home run for the Hartz squad.

The week's highlight game proved to be the Vets vs. Bridgeman's game on Wednesday evening. It was a game of rally and counter-rally, with the Vets twice overcoming a Bridgeman's lead to finally edge out Bob Carlson's black-and-orange clad team, 9-8.

The individual batting averages finds Bridgeman's Gerry Erickson, with one-for-one, having a 1.000 average.

St. Hilaire Team Wins Exhibition

In an exhibition game played in St. Hilaire Friday night, St. Hilaire's softball team defeated Bea's Food Market by a score of 5 to 2. John Drury was the winning pitcher for St. Hilaire with Chuck Dicken taking the loss for Bea's. In an earlier game this season, St. Hilaire dumped Bea's 5 to 0.

In its own league, which includes two Plummer teams, Red Lake Falls, Brooks and Oklee, St. Hilaire is undefeated in seven games this season.

Wood Fiber Pollution Studied by Scientists

Problem of water pollution has taken on a new dimension as a result of recent research conducted by the department of entomology, fisheries and wildlife at the University of Minnesota. This research indicates that wood fibers in paper mill effluents, as well as the chemical effluents, may have adverse effects on certain kinds of young fish.

In the past, the general view was that the pollution was caused largely by the chemical effluent, but that fibers were nondetrimental.

The effect of fibers on young fish survival, however, seems to vary according to the kind of fiber, the species of fish and other environmental factors. Fiber from evergreens was more lethal than aspen fiber and had a greater effect upon walleye fingerlings than upon fathead minnows.

Furthermore, mortality of the fingerlings was greater in water containing less dissolved oxygen. Reduced oxygen content is a common characteristic of polluted water.

The study, reported in the Journal of the Water Pollution Control federation, was conducted by fisheries researchers Lloyd L. Smith Jr., Robert H. Kramer and J. Cameron MacLeod.

A good deal of scientific data had been available on effect of chemical effluent—from paper mills—the vast quantities of liquids discharged as a result of paper production. However, little had been known about the effect of wood fibers which may escape from different processing areas of the plants.

Plants vary widely in the amount of fiber loss into streams, but in the past this fiber loss had been felt to be inconsequential to fish survival.

Smith, Kramer and MacLeod conducted laboratory studies with fathead minnows and walleye fingerlings and four types of wood fibers. The fibers included aspen ground wood, conifer ground wood, conifer kraft and conifer sulfite. Wood fibers for all experiments were supplied by pulp and paper mills.

Studies were conducted in laboratory jars where water temperature, oxygen concentration and other content characteristics could be controlled. Effects on fish varied with several factors, including fish species, type of fiber, processing method, oxygen concentration and, to a lesser degree, water temperature.

For example, with conifer ground wood, no walleye fingerlings survived at 65 degrees in water containing concentrations of 100 and 272 milligrams of fiber per liter of water. This compared with 82 to 100 per cent survival in water containing no such fiber. Where the concentration was 74 milligrams per liter, 10 to 20 per cent survived.

Among fathead minnows, however, none of the fiber concentrations had any significant effect on survival.

Immediate mortality alone was not the only effect on walleye fingerlings. Preliminary evidence from this study suggested that long-term effects should also be taken into account. The scientists measured changes in hematocrit, a measure of red blood cells which provides an index of stress on the fish.

This hematocrit analysis pointed to significant changes in blood of fish exposed to wood fibers and was higher with increased concentrations. Additional research on these sublethal effects is now in progress, and it will take into account all life history phases and physiological responses.

The link between mortality from certain fibers and oxygen content, the scientists say, is crucial to an understanding of the general problem of pulpwood fibers and pollution. Low oxygen saturation is common in any pollutant situation. Thus, as the effluent from a plant increases in a body of water, the fiber situation may become more acute.

Patrol Travels 11 Million Miles To Perform Duties

Minnesota highway patrol in 1964 ranked as the most "traveling" organization in the state in covering the 11,904 mile Minnesota trunk highway system in the course of its duties. The patrol traveled 11,751,637 miles in 1964 as opposed to 10,840,716 miles in 1963, and did the job last year with 11 fewer patrolmen than in 1963.

The patrol, known by a small segment of the public for issuing traffic tickets and pursuing speed violators, also renders valuable aids to motorists. A total of 31,218 drivers whose vehicles had mechanical problems were helped and assistance given to accident victims in 8,354 instances. Regulations prohibit patrolmen from towing or pushing vehicles, but they may and do summon repairmen and tow trucks if requested.

In the patrolmens' primary duties, that of protecting life and property of motorists on trunk highways, 54,453 arrests were made and 156,021 warning tickets were issued (almost three times the number of arrests).

Eligibility for Veteran Pension Payments Listed

Unmarried minor children of deceased veterans still are eligible for pension payments even though their mother loses her eligibility by remarriage.

John R. Murphy, manager, Veterans Administration center, St. Paul, said the same situation occurs when the mother becomes ineligible because her income exceeds the limit for pension eligibility. In these instances, payments are stopped to the widow but continued to her children. But if the widow fails to apply for pension, knowing that she is not eligible, the VA will have no record of the children who are entitled to receive pension payments.

Mruphy said that unmarried children of deceased veterans are eligible for pension payments until they are 18 years of age, or until they are 21, if they are attending school, provided their own personal incomes do not make them ineligible.

Complete information may be obtained at the VA center at Fort Snelling.

"Reading books in one's youth is like looking at the moon through a crevice; reading books in middle age is like looking at the moon in one's courtyard; and reading books in old age is like looking at the moon on an open terrace. It Could Happen

Predictions are that the next manned space flight will place two men in orbit for a period of time up to eight days in length. This is a long time for any two persons to be closely confined, and it seems logical they could get on each other's nerves.

And in spite of the most careful checking by scores of responsible people, it seems inevitable that someday the obvious will be overlooked. We can foresee the capsule conversation going something like this:

"All you want to do is read, read, read," complains Commander X. "Six days we've been floating around and you haven't taken your nose out of 'Zenon and the Invaders.'"

"Can I help it if I like science fiction?" Col. Y replies. "At least I keep quiet. If you start humming 'My Blue Heaven' again I've got a notion to unplug your oxygen."

"A guy's gotta do something. Say, shut that window, will you? We're traveling 17,500 miles an hour and the draft aggravates my sinus."

"You hypocondriacs are all alike; all you do is complain. Yesterday it was lumps in the food tubes; the day before it was because you couldn't sleep when the sun came up every couple of hours; and the day before that you cried all day when you stubbed your toe on the ceiling."

"Well, I'm tired of floating around with nothing to do but look at the scenery. It's the same thing over and over."

"I'd just as soon get out of here, too. Give me the key for the re-entry switch and we'll head back for earth."

"What key?"

"The key for the re-entry control panel, of course. Where did you put it?"

"I thought you had it; I left it by your helmet in the restroom at the Cape."

"Oh, no; I gave it to my wife and told her to lock the garage with it so the newsmen wouldn't disturb my guinea pigs. Now what do we do?"

"I'd just as soon sleep; I've got a headache."

"All of a sudden, so do I."

Preserving a Heritage

When representatives of the Pennington County Historical society appeared before the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday evening with a request for space consideration when Carnegie Public library is vacated, they were pleading for an opportunity to help preserve part of our area's heritage. Thier request deserves much more than casual hearing by the council.

For several years the society has been granted the use of a basement room in the Pennington county courthouse for a museum. Space in this room is at a premium The room is well off the beaten track and there is little opportunity for the public to view the artifacts on display. This is extremely unfortunate.

Following a surge of interest in history when the Minnesota statehood centennial was observed in the late 1950's, outward interest in county history has declined. The proof that interest still remains, however, is provided in the number of signatures which several members of the historical society have obtained on petitions circulated for only a short time prior to the Tuesday night council meeting.

As we have pointed out in the past, historical items are being lost forever because the younger generation in pioneer families would rather not be bothered in having them take important historical information with them. Of equal importance is the preservation of items of historical interest as they become available today. History is, of course, no more than the recording of vast events.

We feel that the historical society was not asking for anything out of reason. It was, in fact, making a practical request, and we believe the city council would do well to consider the request with a positive attitude. The municipality, as well as the county, has a responsibility to preserve the heritage of its people.

It is our opinion that the city of Thief River Falls should welcome the historical society's suggestion and cooperate to the fullest extent. The next step would be for the county of Pennington to join in the effort and show its support by levying about one-half mill in taxes for support of the society. Availability of the building and availability of funds for operation would result in a historical museum facility which would prove an excellent attraction for the area.

A casual paging through the register of visitors at the present museum, in spite of its hideaway location and relatively negligible openings, shows that people from 17 states and many Minnesota communities have viewed the items on display. We feel this is indicative of public interest in such material and shows the possibilities which a museum could provide.

We know from personal association with officers of the society that they have a sincere interest in preservation of local history. They have contributed a great deal of time to the society's efforts with no possibility for selfish motives. Indeed, they have incurred personal expenses for which they neither expected nor received remuneration.

Again we say that the city and county have not only an opportunity but a responsibility to provide for perpetuation of county history. A situation like the present may not occur again for some time. Use of the old library building in part for museum purposes would provide a worthwhile use for the building and benefit the entire area.

An Ominous Calm

While news columns the past months have been filled with accounts of the daily struggles in Viet Nam, an ominous calm prevails about the nearest communist stronghold, Castro's Cuba. When all seems quiet in an explosive atmosphere, the thoughts of a calm before the storm begin to grow.

United States' attention has been focused for some time on the Viet Nam war, with ever-increasing military aid being supplied by this nation. Occasional ambushes by the North Vietnamese, offensives by United States aircraft and South Vietnamese forces and other incidents have tended to direct our attention toward Asia and far beyond our own shores.

One can not help but wonder what foxy Fidel is plotting as his next move. It does not seem that his disposition is such that he is content to let communism creep out from his nation in its quieter forms. He is more disposed toward action, and any action of his making is sure to spell additional trouble for the free world and Southern and Latin America.

Congratulations, Harry

It is deserving of special mention that a Thief River Falls resident has been elected to the presidency of a large state organization. Harry Hendrickson was recently elevated to the post of president of the Minnesota Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Officers of such an organization do not attain their positions simply by conducting a short campaign. Harry has moved up the ladder from his first state elective position as trustee, gaining knowledge and experience along the way. He has devoted many years of service to the Eagles, both locally and on the state level.

We are sure he will provide excellent leadership for the organization during the coming year, and he has announced his intentions to vigorously promote the youth guidance project. The Eagles have contributed immeasurably to Thief River Falls youth through the many programs they conduct.

Most members of organizations have little idea of the work load handled by state, district or even local officers of their groups. The responsibility multiplies each step up the ladder. We congratulate Harry for the confidence which the state organization has shown in him and wish him successes in his state programs throughout his year in office.

Attitudes and Accidents

It is estimated that in 1965 a highway death will strike some 50,000 families and more than four million persons will sustain injuries in traffic accidents. Prime cause of these accidents will be excessive speed, human error; lack of judgment and failure to respect the rights of other drivers—all results of poor driver attitude.

There are many people in our state and nation today who constitute a hazard on the highway. All drivers are guilty of driving errors at one time or another, but we refer to those in particular who have severely affected vision, poor reactions, extreme nervous conditions and hot tempers as well as habitual drinkers and persons influenced by drugs.

This was brought to mind recently when we received notice from the state that the time has come again to renew our driver's license. While a written examination and road test are required for the initial receipt of a license, renewals are granted automatically upon application. No provision is made for consideration of changes which may have taken place in the years following the original issuance of the license.

One can't help but feel that the expense would be justified to have all drivers complete a road test before being issued a driver's license renewal. It would help make drivers mindful of their privilege to drive and stay alert to changes in traffic and driving conditions through the years.

Increase in the number of driver education courses offered through the schools has been encouraging, and drivers who complete these courses have consistently fewer accidents than drivers of the same age who did not receive formal driver education. In our age of mechanization where the automobile is now an absolute necessity, driver education should be mandatory in the schools and a requirement for receiving a first license.

A better knowledge of laws and rules of the road would change the attitudes of many drivers—attitudes which cause errors and result in death and injury to far more people than needs to be the case.

A stranger sauntered up the sidwalk before a modest new ranch home in a small Midwestern city.

"Nice house you have here," he observed to the owner. "Worth about $20,000, I imagine."

"Nope," retorted the owner. "It's worth every cent of $33,000. Are you looking for a place to buy?"

"No," replied the stranger, jotting something in a notebook. "I'm just the new tax assessor."

CULVERT installation was the most rigorous phase of road construction accomplished Saturday at the 27-acre tract of land purchased last week by the Pennington County Sportsmen's club from the farm owned by Rueben and Alfin Jorde. Excavation was done by a bulldozer owned by contractor Clarence Williams and also by muscular club members equipped with shovels. Sportsmen's club volunteer workers, pictured left to right, are Brian Scholin, Vernon Scholin, Allan Paulson and Christ Haugen. The road remains to be graveled, and a "graveling bee" has been scheduled for the July 10-11 weekend. All volunteers will be welcome.

For Recreation Area ....

County Sportsmen's Club Buys 27-Acre Tract of Land

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Success was realized last week by members of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club in one of the most significant and hardest worked-for projects in the club's 35-year history. After years of planning, negotiating and juggling of finances, the club now holds the deed to a sizeable tract of river property which will be developed into a recreation area and future clubhouse site.

The 27-acre tract of land was formerly a portion of the farm owned by Rueben Jorde of Thief River Falls and Alfin Jorde of White Bear Lake. It is located about three miles north of Thief River Falls on CAR 77. The transaction was completed Wednesday, June 16, when a check was made out to the Jorde brothers and was signed by Gay Warnecki, club secretary, and James Wills, club treasurer. An easement for use of the bank of County Ditch 18 was signed by Adolph Christopherson and City Engineer D. H. Stewart surveyed the property. The land was purchased for the sum of $1,600

A number of club members, together with bulldozers dispatched by Clarence Williams, local contractor, worked Saturday to begin improvement of the land. The ancient road into the wooded area had to be improved to be passable—a job which included installation of a new culvert. The earthmoving equipment was also used to scoop out a ramp for a boat launching site.

Future plans for the area include construction of a clubhouse and picnic tables. There has also been speculation of target-shooting facilities for rifle and shotgun practice. The entire area will be fenced, and its use will be restricted to club members and to organizations which have received special permission from the club to camp or picnic on the property.

Money for the purchase has accumulated in a building fund for about the past 20 years, according to Vernon Scholin, club president. It was raised chiefly through club-sponsored promotions. During recent years, various other tracts were considered, including one which was bought and resold. From the outset, the area now owned by the club was considered first choice, and after much negotiating, a satisfactory arrangement was made for the purchase.

It is hoped that the opportunity for easy access of club members to the new recreation area will bring an increase in club membership, which has declined greatly in recent years. From a peak membership of 985 in 1944, the club now has only about 160 members.

The club was formed in 1930 by three members of the local Izaak Walton league chapter — Ole A. Ness, Carl E. Johnson and H. E. Olson. Within the first year, the three men enlisted 120 members. One of the projects which attracted the most members during the early years, Ness told the Times, was the annual stocking in the river of 10,000 to 25,000 walleye fry.

Crops Look Good As Dry Weather Aids Field Work

A ten-day period of fair skies and no rain has been a boon to farmers who have had to work day and night to catch up on field work. According to the crop report released June 17 by the Soo Line Railroad, northern Minnesota crops look good and are just out of the jointing stage. Generally the crop is about 2½ weeks later than average.

Brief showers beginning late last week have brought just enough rain to "settle the dust". The forecast calls for mostly fair skies today, tonight and tomorrow with locally cooler temperatures today and a warming trend beginning tomorrow. Highs today will be in the 70's; lows tonight will range from 44 to 50.

North Central Airlines recorded the following high and low temperature and precipitation readings at the municipal airport during the past week: 76 and 55 on Wednesday; 75 and 51 on Thursday; 78 and 53 on Friday; 85, 62 and .06 inch on Saturday; 81, 52 and .12 inch on Sunday; 78, 48 and .03 inch on Monday; 73, 47 and a trace on Tuesday; and a low last night of 47 with .14 inch of rain recorded.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendrickson of Thief River Falls were overnight guests Thursday at the Vernon Lee home at Cloquet.

Market Livestock Show Slated for St. Paul in Sept.

A state 4-H market livestock show will be held September 27-29 on the Minnesota state fair grounds. The show is a successor to the annual 4-H junior livestock show in South St. Paul.

The show will support the production of quality market livestock by 4-H'ers in tune with today's market needs and consumer demands, according to Leonard Harknes, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota. The Minnesota Livestock Breeder's association will sponsor the event.

Special awards will be given to 4-H members who are recognized during the show for their achievement, Harkness reports. Cash awards will range from $200 to $300 for breed champions. Blue and red ribbon winners will receive cash awards based on animal species and the live animal placing.

Special awards are planned for carcass quality in addition to those provided for live animal placings. Size of the show is expected to remain the same, excluding the quota on lamb trios and increasing the quota on swine.

A new show arena along with additional animal washing facilities is now under construction for seating the 1,500 people expected to attend.

An assembly emphasizing meat animal evaluation has been planned for Monday, September 27. Later in the week at South St. Paul a program will focus on the marketing and processing of livestock.

Concluding the judging of exhibits on Tuesday afternoon September 28, the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a banquet providing an opportunity for businessmen supporting the show to dine with 4-H members and extension workers. Plans have begun for the market show to be incorporated with the state fair in 1966.

Private support for 4-H comes from community organizations, service clubs, business, industry and individuals.

Request Denied To Hay Marshall Soil Bank Land

Request for permission to harvest hay from conservation reserve land in Marshall county has been denied by the USDA state disaster committee, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county USDA disaster committee.

Action was taken by the state disaster committee after considering the following factors: Temporary grazing of the diverted acres under the feed grain and wheat programs was authorized through May 31, 1965; seasonal grazing of the conservation reserve acres was authorized through June 30, 1965; the livestock feed program has been available; and it should be possible to produce emergency forage crops.

Sportsmen's Club Buys 27-Acre Tract of Land gether with the Crookston conservation club, was instrumental in the acquisition and improvement of the Thief Lake Wildlife Management area. Club members constructed the first successful earthen dam at the source of the Thief river, despite vigorous opposition from area farmers armed with dynamite charges. In an attempt to start the Thief Lake breeding flock, the club imported 1,000 young mallards.

In later years, the two clubs petitioned Congress to appropriate funds for acquisition of the Mud Lake area for a federal wildlife area. This campaign proved successful when the federal government purchased the land in 1935. The area is now known as the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge.

In 1961 a controversy developed over the proposal of further acquisition by the state government of wetlands in this area for waterfowl production. Through efforts of the Northwest Association of Conservation clubs, many state legislators toured the wildlife areas in northwestern Minnesota, which brought about a generally favorable reaction in the state capitol to the "Save the Wetlands" program.

When asked to account for the decline of membership in the Pennington club in recent years, Ness replied that few projects of general local interest have been undertaken by the club in recent years in comparison with past years. Now, thanks to the perseverance of a number of sportsmen's club members, such a project has been completed.

Card of Thanks

In loving memory of Oleander Uglem who passed away June 20, 1964.

Just a year ago today
We bid farewell you went away.
We didn't want to have you go
But God had called you-this we know.
The little visits we often had
Could cheer us so when we were sad
We miss the twinkle in your eye
The friendly wave as you said goodby.
We know that time cannot erase
The pain we feel from your empty place.
Now that your toil on earth is o'er
We wait to meet you on yonder shore.—Sadly missed by the family.

Marshall ACP Work Active During 1964

Agricultural Conservation program practices were carried out on 965 farms in Marshall county in 1964, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. These farms represent about 384,308 acres of farmland.

The total number of farms participating in ACP throughout the country in 1964 was about 1.1 million.

Under the Agricultural Conservation program, conservation measures on Marshall county farms represented a total investment of around $277,982. ACP cost-sharing amounted to about half this much and farmers matched the public investment from their own resources. With similar investments made through ACP and by farmers in most agricultural counties throughout the nation, the people of America in 1964 received a half-billion dollars' worth of ACP conservation work.

Program practices completed on participating farms in Marshall county included: 5,741 acres of permanent vegetative cover; 6,021 acres of increased acreage of cover in rotation; five acres of tree planting for forestry; 183 acres of tree planting for erosion control; 134 improved cover for soil protection; 40 reservoirs for livestock and 392 square feet of filter strips in cover;

Also 7,730 acres of permanent open drainage; 23,093 acres of winter cover for erosion control; 42,312 acres of stubble mulching; 25 acres of permanent cover for wildlife; and 5.8 acres of shallow water areas for wildlife.

The ACP for 1965—the 30th program year—is now well underway, and most farmers who intend carrying out needed conservation measures on their farms this year have already requested ACP cost-sharing to help expand soil, water, woodland and wildlife conservation work, Dahl stated.

The chairman said that where a farmer plans such conservation measures as permanent new seeding, planting trees for forestry or for soil erosion, improving cover for soil protection, building reservoirs for livestock, construction of open drainage systems, winter cover for erosion, stubble mulching, permanent cover for wildlife, construction ponds for fish or seeding down ditchbanks or field borders in cover, the practices should be installed during the next few months.

Three-fourths of the nation's calcium need is supplied by dairy foods. In addition, milk and milk products provide approximately 15 per cent of the food energy in the national food supply.

Certain Types of Fire Equipment Outlawed in State

Fire extinguishers using carbon tetrachloride as an extinguishing agent have been outlawed for use in Minnesota in a law passed by the state legislature, according to Patrick Barry, deputy state fire marshall stationed in Thief River Falls.

The law also bans the use of several other vaporizing liquid fire extinguishers, including chlorobromomethane, and amends the previous act making it mandatory that all fire extinguishers required by state or local laws bear the label of an approved testing laboratory. The law was sponsored by the state fire chiefs' association, state fire marshal's office and supported by all other fire service organizations.

Removal of carbon tetrachloride extinguishers is a public health measure, Barry said. Vaporizing liquids in the carbon tetrachloride class have been determined to be extremely toxic and many deaths and permanent injuries have occurred by inhalation of their fumes. The liquids are particularly dangerous when they are brought in contact with high temperatures and hot metals.

The law now provides that the chief of the fire department of each city, village or other governmental subdivision in the state where a fire department is established, and employees of the state fire marshal are empowered to order the removal of any extinguisher which contains any of the listed extinguishants.

They are also empowered to order the removal of any extinguishers which does not conform to standards set up in the law or is in dangerous or inefficient operating order. Orders for removal shall be in writing and direct the owner to comply within a period of 15 days.

Theodore Johnson Awarded Medal Aboard Carrier

Postal Clerk Third Class Theodore C. Johnson, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman T. Johnson of rural Thief River Falls, has been awarded the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Midway, currently operating off the coast of Viet Nam.

He received this award for having served 30 or more consecutive days as a crew member aboard the Midway in a designated combat area.

Aircraft from his ship have been making daily strikes against military installations in North Viet Nam and Viet Cong concentrations in South Viet Nam.

"If you think you came into being for the purpose of taking an important part in the administration of events, to guard a providence of the moral creation from ruin, and that its salvation hangs on the success of your single arm, you have wholly mistaken your business." —Ralph Waldo Emerson

Lack of Economics

Much discussion is given to the need for an increasing supply of talented scientists and engineers to meet the demands of this technological age. That is vitally important. But, even so, it must not be allowed to obscure the need for greater understanding of our economic system, and of education which will provide that understanding.

That point was recently made by an officer of a leading oil company. He pointed out that only five per cent of our high school graduates have ever had a course in economics, while seven out of nine of the instructors teaching the subject have had less than a one-year course. Even worse, only one college graduate in four is even exposed to a course in economics. And, in his words, surveys show ". . ." that about nine out of 10 people are convinced that every corporation makes a profit in the average year, when in reality more than a third actually show a loss.

Four out of ten citizens think our businesses make too much profit, yet they have no idea what those profit levels are. The median public estimate is a profit level of 20 per cent on sales or about five times the four per cent on sales which are actually earned."

All the scientific knowledge that man can devise will do little good unless there is understanding of what makes our economic system tick and of what it means in terms of freedom, not just material abundance, to all our people.

The Smog Lingered

Some years ago oil companies were required by the federal government to spend $50 million on specialized emission control equipment which was supposed to solve the Los Angeles smog problem. The millions were spent but the smog remained. Only after considerable research, much of it sponsored by the oil companies themselves, it was determined that the Los Angeles smog was caused primarily by motor vehicles, not industry.

This was a case where the all-knowing federal bureaucrats ordered the expenditure of private funds on something which did very little, if any, good. Squandering public funds is bad enough, but ordering private funds spent in a foolish manner is even more ridiculous. The order was given, however, and the investors' money was spent.

President Johnson now states, and rightly so, that more research is needed in carrying out effective, well-founded air and water conservation programs. President Ikard of the Americtn Petroleum institute recently wrote President Johnson a letter pledging support of his industry, and noted:

"Past experience in this field points up the waste of money and time that can be involved in false starts. Well-meaning programs can founder where they are based on supposition unsupported by scientific knowledge developed through adequate research."

Ikard's point is well made. Take for instance the fertilizer plant built by our government in Korea at a cost of millions, and which was not able to operate because that country had no raw materials for fertilizer production. Or consider the sugar beet plant authorized for the East Coast last year when growers in this proven area of Minnesota and North Dakota were pleading for increased acreage. The east coast plant couldn't contract enough acreage for operation and the company was finally allowed to plant sufficient acreage of its own plant needs.

The smog of such folly still hangs heavy over the wisdom of governmental edict.

A Love of Labor

In testifying before the House education and labor sub-committee last week, the secretary of the U. S. Department of Labor left no question as to his alignment with organized labor. Secretary W. Willard Wirtz testified in favor of repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947—the section commonly referred to as the right-to-work law.

Organized labor has made repeal of the section one of its main objectives for this session of Congress. At present 19 states have exercised the option to provide 'right-to-work" provisions — enabling individual employees to decide for themselves whether or not they wish to become members of a union. In other words, they have a right to work—whether they hold union membership or not.

We are not familiar with all the purposes of the Department of Labor, but we doubt that one of them is to serve as a political spokesman for the nation's labor unions. The laboring man should be considered by the department whether he holds a union card or not. Apparently officials of the department do not interpret their functions in this light.

Thinking of the department is reflected in the following statements made by Wirtz in testimony before the committee:

"The principal issue is whether an employer and the representatives of his employees are to be free to make an agreement of their own choosing. The real issue here is whether a company and a labor union should not be permitted—so far as the law is concerned—to agree that all employees of the company who are represented by the union should share the expenses of maintaining the union and having it represent them in their dealings with the employer.

"The Congress has specifically recognized in other areas that national uniformity is important and that differing state practices have a negative effect. The deliberate judgment of the Congress, confirmed by Supreme Court decisions, is that the ground rules of labor relations should be uniform throughout the country."

We see in this testimony the continuance of government policy toward an organized and regulated society. The individual is being minimized and forced into a situation where he is merely one member of a mass of humanity, thereby losing his identity, his opportunity of expression, his full free choice and, too often, his pride and sense of self-reliability.

We disagree with Secretary Wirtz. The real issue is not ". . . whether an employer and the representatives of his employees are to be free to make an agreement of their own choosing'.' The real issue is whether an individual is to be free to make a decision and to negotiate with his employer if he so desires.

There is this difference: If two parties would like to make an agreement between themselves, this would be of no concern to me. If the two parties would like to make an agreement about me, I would be concerned. The point of view differs in an egg-throwing contest when that point of view is expressed by a spectator or by an egg.

We are sure the labor department—and organized labor—would like to have the "uniformity" mentioned by Secretary Wirtz in testimony. They are looking at the comparative ease of manipulating blocs of people as opposed to individuals. Arranging people in neat little columns and compressing them to statistics is easier than dealing with individuals who retain their right to think, and to reason and to decide.

Cumulative Poisons

Submitted to this newspaper this week was a communication from Emanuel J. Seidel of rural Badger, son of Joseph Seidel, Pennington county highway engineer. The letter dealt with quotations and personal commentary regarding toxic insecticides, which may be of interest to people in this area.

With the summer onslaught of insects, Seidel correctly notes that many people will buy the handiest bug bomb available and "lavishly spray every fly, mosquito or other pest without reading directions or selecting the least toxic chemical for the place and problem at hand". Seidel adds that "there is no known way to immunize a person for farm and garden chemicals. They are all cumulative poisons."

He quotes Theron G. Randolf, M.D., as stating: "All injected chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides are accumulated in the fat, and have a depressing effect on the metabolism. Many of them have an effect on the nervous system also. Children and old people have a lower tolerance to those compounds than do other age groups."

Dr. Malcolm M. Hargraves, blood specialist at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, warns that DDT and its solvents cause leukemia, aplastic anemia, Hodgkins disease, jaundice and other blood disorders, many of them fatal. He adds that there has been a definite increase in the incidence of the diseases mentioned since DDT came into common use, and insists it can't be accounted for by better reporting methods or diagnostic techniques.

Dr. W. C. Hueper of the National Cancer institute lists symptoms as headaches, hypersensitive skin areas and numbness, tingling sensations, itching and twitching of the muscles and nerve involvement which interferes with walking. The brain also reveals signs of intoxication such as loss of memory, inability to concentrate, dizziness and "foggy" brain.

Among the most susceptible are people on reducing diets who have to live on their own fat supply, since chlorinated hydrocarbons are stored in the fat tissue of the body.

Seidel cites a number of instances where pilots have crashed because of inhaling their own plane's spray or dust, where people driving through clouds of insecticides have become extremely ill, and where people already somewhat unstable mentally have broken down with acute mental illness.

All of which means that such chemicals must be handled with extreme care and that pesticides of a mildly toxic nature should be used whenever possible. Several non-toxic insect repellants are available to provide relief from insects if used frequently. When it comes to cumulative poisons, what you don't know could very well hurt you.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume Number Fifty-four | Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota | Wednesday, June 23, 1965 | Number Fifty

Yield Signs Studied In Highway Research

In recent years, the use of "yield signs in place of "stop" signs has increased rapidly. Use of the new sign is becoming so important that a research study of the effect of "stop" and "yield" signs on drivers and traffic is being conducted for the highway research board.

In an interim report of the partially completed study, findings show that the driver controlled by a "yield" sign is more likely to take the first opportunity to enter the traffic stream.

Although the "stop" signs and "yield" signs are just a few of the many used on streets and highways, they are of particular interest to traffic engineers because of their widespread use, low initial cost and ease of installation.

As an important part of the study, researchers measured the following items at five different traffic intersections: traffic volume vehicle speed, deceleration-acceleration characteristics, delay to "minor street" vehicles waiting to enter "major street", spacing of vehicles arriving and departing the intersection, size of openigs between vehicles on "major street" and driver obedience characteristics.

The manual on uniform traffic control devices, which is adhered to by the Minnesota highway department, explains that generally the "yield" sign serves a purpose similar to that of the "stop" sign, in that it assigns right-of-way to traffic on certain approaches to an intersection. Since it does not require all vehicles to stop, it should not be used where visibility limitations or prevailing high speeds or volumes of traffic make a full stop necessary.

On Minnesota highways, yield signs are considered warranted at entrances from minor roads to major roads where a full stop is not necessary at all times and where there is a safe approach; on entrance ramps to expressways where adequate acceleration lanes are not provided; in the medians of divided highways where the median width exceeds 30 feet; and at any intersection where a special problem exists and where an engineering study indicates that use of a "yield" sign could correct the problem.

According to Minnesota highway department traffic engineers, "Yield" signs are preferred in locations where the major street traffic is not too heavy and "stop" signs are abused by many motorists. Experience has also shown that in many situations the "Yield" sign moves traffic more smoothly, because a full stop makes traffic wait longer and makes entry into the traffic stream more difficult.

Traffic engineers point out that the responsibility rests just as heavily on the driver approaching a "yield" sign as on the driver approaching a "stop" sign, the manual states that this sign requires the driver to yield to all traffic, which is so close as to constitute a hazard.

Adoptive Homes Needed for Many Children in State

Because of the increasing number and rate of illegitimate births, the number of children in need of adoptive homes has increased by geometric proportions in the past few years, according to the Children's Home Society of Minnesota. The state-wide nondenominational adoption agency accepted and placed 100 children in 1953 but placed 245 children last year and still can accept fewer than half the number of children referred to it.

Today the society has one couple for every child in its care. However, with the ever-increasing number of children that are becoming available for adoption, it is necessary that the number of couples seeking children must also increase.

Adoption procedures have gone through a great transformation since the society was organized in 1889.

It has been a long time since an adoption agency has appealed for adoptive parents for normal, healty, white, young children. There have been many appeals for children with special needs such as older children, handicapped children or children of a minority racial heritage.

For the first time since the years in which groups of children were taken around the state in an effort to enlist families to take them into their homes, the Children's Home society is beginning to face an insufficient number of qualified adoptive applicants. To be sure, there are still couples who have been approved for consideration and will wait a short time before the right child is placed with them; but the number of couples coming to initiate inquiries at the present time is not keeping pace with the trend of the increasing number of children in need of homes.

Therefore, the Society encourages couples and families to consider the adoption of a child or an additional child. Young couples who find they are not able to have a child biologically should give serious thought to adoption. Families with one, two or more children might consider adding another child through adoption.

The Society has no limit as to number of children placed with any one family. As long as there is reasonable financial security and ability to meet the basic needs of an additional family member, an application will be encouraged.

Any couple that is interested in adopting a child, regardless of what their religion or race may be, are welcome to make application through the Children's Home Society of Minnesota. Interested couples should contact the director of casework, Children's Home Society of Minnesota, 2230 Como Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota, 55108.

Several area residents were among 90 rural Minnesotans who returned last week from a legislative "fly-in" to Washington, D. C. They included Roy E. Wiseth, Goodridge; Milo Larson and David Bechant, Oklee; and Neil Kruger, Warren.

Arranged by the Farmers Union the trip was designed to seek improvement and extension of the federal farm programs. Farmers, businessmen and conservation leaders from 55 counties were in the delegation which spent two days on capitol hill.

More than 400 legislators were contacted to urge a four-year extension of the feed grains and wheat program, together with increased support levels, a better dairy support program and extension of the wool and sugar programs. Conferences were also held with several Minnesota congressmen and senators, Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture.

Oklee Group Gets $72,000 To Build Recreation Bldg.

Oklee Development corporation has received a 20-year loan amounting to $72,000 from the Small Business administration for construction of a recreation center, according to word received from the state's U.S. senators. The center, to contain six bowling lanes, a restaurant and community room, will replace the Oklee Recreation center which was destroyed by fire on March 3, 1964.

The new structure will be an "L" shaped building extending 138 feet along the north wall of the municipal liquor store building with a wing northward for a frontage of 114 feet to the south wall of the Bergeron store. Total floor space will be in excess of 8,100 square feet. Target date for opening of the new establishment is September 15. Jesse DuChamp of Plummer will be general manager.

Approximate cost of the new center will be $90,000. In addition to funds provided by the SBA loan, the Security State Bank of Oklee will participate to the extent of $7,200. About $18,000 was raised through the sale of shares to nearly 200 individuals in the community.

4H Numbers Grow Despite Decline In Farm Families

Number of 4-H youth engaged in agricultural endeavors is increasing although the number of U.S. farms is diminishing. The agricultural program has the second highest enrollment nationally of some 40 project areas offered to 4-H club members. Pennington county has a total of 470 club members.

If the current upward trend continues, 1965 enrollment could well top the 950,000 mark. This prediction is based on last year's figures of nearly 893,000 members reported by the cooperative extension service.

Among the reasons for the upswing, 4-H leaders believe, is recent emphasis on science in 4-H projects and a quickening of interest in working close to nature. The realization that nine out of 10 farm youth will seek employment elsewhere is another factor.

The boy or girl who raises a calf or chicks or pigs, they say, develops an appreciation for sustaining life, good health, adequate nutrition, clean housing and sound economics.

Crops and garden require a knowledge of soils, chemicals, farm machinery, safety and conservation. Record keeping is another required task. Adults working with 4-H'ers provide many opportunities for rural youngsters to learn just what jobs are ahead.

BEEN SHOPPING LATELY?

Sure! People go shopping for many things. Even a Church! But, then, they take Dad along!

Before you go shopping for a Church, make sure you know what you're looking for. For a Church isn't a theatre to provide entertainment, nor a club to fortify one's social position, nor a foundation to channel our charities.

A Church is a SCHOOL that trains whole families in spiritual perception.

It is a FACTORY that makes earnest Christians. They're in evidence all over town.

A Church is a TOWER, giving a glimpse of life's horizons, far beyond the petty problems of each day.

A Church is a WORK-SHOP where one volunteers his talents in the most challenging tasks that confront humanity.

And, of course, a Church is HOME — the place where we're appreciated, where we're one of the Family!

But it doesn't hurt to admit that in one respect our churches are like our stores: There wouldn't be one in town if we didn't need what they offer!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Government project, "Headstart for school" to begin June 28th

A new government project called "Headstart For School" will begin on Monday, June 28th. This project is designed for all children who will be starting first grade in schools which do not have a kindergarten. Pupils who will be starting first grade in St. Hilaire are invited to join in the project with Red Lake Falls. Sessions will be from 10:00 a.m. until 2:30 each day Monday through Friday from June 28th until August 20th. These will not be compulsory but are designed as a help to those beginning first grade. There is absolutely no cost involved in this project. A Red Lake Falls bus will pick up the pupils at the St. Hilaire school at 9:30 each morning and they will return about 3:00 p.m. It was suggested that neighbors living in an area could get together and form a car pool so it would only mean driving one day a week or maybe even less. Anyone having any questions may call either Mr. Bydahl or Mrs. Wilbur Hallstrom for further information.

1,500 Attended Zion Church Anniversary

Attendance estimated at 1,500 total was noted for the 75th anniversary of Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls Saturday evening and Sunday, June 19 and 20. Opening event of the diamond Jubilee was a banquet held Saturday evening and attended by about 250 people. Speaker was Dr. T.C. Hanson, president of the Northern Minnesota district, American Lutheran church.

Dr. Hanson called the laity of the church the "living Bible", stating that the laity may be the only Bible many men will ever read. Therefore it is vital to the growth of Christianity that church members represent the hope of the gospel in its truth and purity.

Mrs. Hilda Feragen Gulseth of Thief River Falls was listed as the oldest living confirmand of the congregation. Lyle Guttu of New York City, confirmed in 1951, and Mrs. Gida Risberg Knower of Enumclaw, Wash., confirmed in 1928, were the confirmands coming the greatest distance to attend the event.

Speaking at the Sunday diamond jubilee festival service, Dr. Walter M. Pederson, pastor of the congregation from 1943 to 1961, used the topic, "Man's Response to the Eternal Word". Basing his sermon on the parable of the seed, he illustrated that man's response to God is reflected in relationship and conduct toward our fellow man. Mrs. Pedersen was soloist at the morning services.

Rev. E.L. Tungseth, pastor at Zion from 1926 to 1943, spoke at the "Confirmation Homecoming" program Sunday afternoon. He urged those attending not to merely associate events of the anniversary with the past, but to build upon the foundation established by earlier pioneer members.

Lyle Guttu who will be ordained this month, gave the Sunday evening message. Each moment in time is new and has never before occurred, and therefore any word spoken must speak to a new situation, he said. He added that the Bible must be dealt with in freedom to become the "truth of our time".

Taking part in the afternoon program Sunday was the senior member quintet composed of Ruth Haugen, Josephine Vigness, Mary Iverson, Herman Solum and Elias Angell, and also the jubilee choir. Combined chapel and children's choirs sang at the evening service and Duane Rafteseth was vocalist.

Former confirmands attending the anniversary events were the following: Mrs. Ardith Thompson, Borry and Mrs. Ann Aspelund Hendry, Minneapolis; Mrs. Marion Parbst Sarver and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haug, Ada; Mrs. Eileen Holmen Verant, Hibbing; Mrs. Ardith Gulseth Jaranson and Mrs. Charles Wiggins, Bemidji; Duane Rafteseth, Borup; Mrs. Norella Solum Krogstad, Stephen; Mrs. Helen Lindland Larson, Moorhead; Mrs. Pearl Listol Nelson, Goodridge; Mrs. Gudrun Howick Olson, Detroit Lakes; Mrs. Connie Botten Hillstad, Clearbrook and Mrs. Shir-

VA Clarifies Word Meaning

Words "compensation" and "pension," as used by the Veterans administration to describe monthly payments to veterans of their dependents, are not synonymous.

John R. Murphy, manager, VA center, St. Paul, said that compensation is payment made because of a service-connected disability; that is, the disease, injury or death for which the payments are being made either originated or was aggravated in active military service. There is a difference in the rate of compensation for wartime and for peacetime service, and the financial condition of the recipient is not taken into consideration, he said.

On the other hand, Murphy explained, pension is paid on a basis of need for disabilities or death due to non-service-connected causes. The income of the recipient has a direct bearing on whether or not the pension is payable and on the amount of payment.

Information concerning either benefit is available by mail, phone or personal inquiry at the VA center at Ft. Snelling.

New Minister Is Assigned To TRF Methodist Church

Rev. Merrill M. Harris, recently appointed by the Minnesota Conference of the Methodist church to the Community Methodist church in Thief River Falls, has come to this community after serving Grace Methodist church in Minneapolis for the past 11 years. Previous to that, he was pastor at St. James and Balaton.

A native of Minneapolis, Rev. Harris was graduated from Central high school in 1935. He received his A.B. degree from John Fletcher college in Iowa in 1939, and his Bachelor of Theology in 1947 from the University of Dubuque (Iowa). That same year he was ordained an elder of the Methodist church and at the same session was received into full membership in the Upper Iowa conference. He transferred to Minnesota in 1948.

Rev. Harris and his wife, Alberta, married in 1939, are the parents of two sons, Paul and John, and one daughter Merrillyn. Paul is a counsellor at the Bar None Ranch, near Anoka and John is a fire control technician with the U.S. Navy. Merrillyn is beginning nurse's training at Methodist hospital, St. Louis Park, working there as a nurse's aide this summer.

State Military Academy Holds Ninth Graduation

Friday marked the end of 54 weeks of intensive training for 41 of Minnesota's finest as the Minnesota Military academy (MMA) held its graduation ceremonies at Camp Ripley armory.

This year marks the ninth in the academy's history and it has become the primary source of new officers for the Minnesota National guard. The men who graduated from the course have gone through two summer camps at Camp Ripley and nine weekend training assemblies at the East Maryland Avenue Armory, St. Paul. The course of study and training is devised by the infantry school at Ft. Benning, Geo., and is supervised by the academy, commanded by Capt. Robert Blevins, Minneapolis.

Graduation does not complete young men. The graduates become elegible for commission as 2nd Lieutenants in the Minnesota National guard and must complete the basic officers course at Ft. Benning or other army training center within a reasonable time in order to become branch qualified.

The academy has graduated a total of 361 officer candidates for the guard and reserve since it's inception.

Langen Pleased By Amendment to Agricultural Act

"I am pleased that the House of Representatives has passed the bill to assist farmers who have been prevented from planting crops this year due to floods and other natural disasters," said Congressman Odin Langen in support of a measure to amend the agricultural act.

Langen, who had recommended such action to the House agricultural committee, explained that the action permits farmers in disaster areas to comply with the technical requirements of acreage reduction agreements if floods or other natural disasters prevent them from planting the crops involved, and thus to be eligible for the benefits to which they are entitled under such agreements.

"Under present law," said Langen, "if a farmer planted a crop and then lost it due to floods or other disaster, he still was eligible for the benefits called for under his contract, including the payment-in-kind of certificates. But the farmer who lost his chance to even plant the crop through natural disaster was left stranded. This bill rectifies this oversight."

Langen explained that the government still would get all that it contracted for, since the acreage was reduced and the farmer was not permitted to plant any other price-supported crop on the acreage, and there would be no additional cost to the government.

Post Office Meeting Is Stormy Session Thurs.

Session Erupts Into Arguments On Mail Service

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

What was listed as an informational meeting on post office procedure in this area erupted into a stormy session Thursday afternoon in the courtroom of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. Basis for the flying words was the post office department's prior announcement that it would remove mail from Soo Line trains 9 and 10 and substitute highway carriers in its place.

Principal post office department figures at the meeting were Frederick Batrus, deputy assistant postmaster general, bureau of transportation, Washington, D.C., and Adrian P. Winkel, director of the Minneapolis region for the post office department. Other officials presenting information at the meeting were Gordon T. Foster, director of the regional transportation division, and Will E. R. Hanusa, chief of the schemes and routing branch of the regional office.

Most of the fire Thursday afternoon was ignited by Robert Wurst, city attorney and representing a number of concerned communities in the area, and H.O. Berve, local attorney who presented opinions in his own behalf. The flames were further fanned by Paul Rasmussen, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission, who delivered the most eloquent talk of the afternoon.

Dryden Opens Meeting

R. J. Dryden, Thief River Falls postmaster, opened the meeting and introduced Winkel who presided at the session. Winkel introduced Batrus and the deputy assistant postmaster general outlined the changes being undertaken in the department.

Batrus said that an intensive study was begun in 1961 and that changes being currently made are a result of this study. Use of postal service has increased at four times the rate of population growth, he said, growing from 45 billion pieces of mail in 1950 to 72 billion pieces at the present time. Projections indicate that the volume will rise to 100 billion peices of mail by 1980.

Centers Explained

Sectional centers have been devised to include the nation's 34,000 post offices in 553 sectional centers. Each of these centers has been assigned a number of three digits; for instance, Thief River River Falls sectional center is 567. Individual post offices in each sectional center area generally within two hours of driving time from the center office are assigned individual numbers for identification. Thief River Falls post office is numbered 56701. These numbers are known as zip code numbers, and are designed to permit precise scheduling of next-day delivery and reduction of handling, Batrus, said.

State Control of Baudette Bridge Constitutional

According to the Baudette Region, the law authorizing the state highway department to take over the Baudete International bridge and collect tolls has been declared constitutional in an opinion handed down by Attorney General Robert Mattson. The question was studied following a request by State Auditor Stafford King for an opinion.

The attorney general stated that the tolls collected should be deposited in the state trunk highway fund and not in a separate fund.

Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service office reminded farmers today that Wednesday, June 30, is the last day that soil bank land can be pastured without the loss of 1965 payments under the soil bank program. TRF Day at Races Set in Winnipeg

Thief River Falls day at the races will be observed on Saturday, July 10, at Assiniboia Downs in Winnipeg under the general sponsorship of the public relations committee of the local Chamber of Commerce and in cooperation with Assiniboia Downs. One race on the eight-race feature will be listed on the program as a Thief River Falls race.

Bruce Boreham, director of public relations for Assiniboia Downs, was present for a committee meeting here Thursday to make arrangements for the special day. Accompanying him was J.R. McMillan, a member of the Assiniboia Downs Turf club.

Free tickets to the grandstand at Assiniboia Downs are being made available for July 10 through the local Chamber of Commerce office. The race program will start at 6 p.m. and be concluded by 9 p.m., Boreham told the committee. Area people, including farmers in the community, who are interested in attending the racing program, are invited to secure the number of tickets they need from the Chamber of Commerce office.

Mayor Orin Green of Thief River Falls will present a specially-prepared horse cooler blanket to the owner of the winning horse in the Thief River Falls race. Presentation will be made in the winner's circle where photographs will be taken, and the horse will then be walked past the grandstand. Similar "days" for other towns in the area have been observed at the race track in other years.

The eight races on the night's program will be of various lengths and for various classes of horses. Winnipeg is on Daylight Saving Time so there will be no time difference from our area. It was also noted that highway 59 offers an excellent route to travel to Winnipeg, and that a cutoff permits racing fans to reach Assiniboia Downs without driving through the city itself.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of lace styled with a full skirt and fashioned with an overskirt of organza. Having guests? Call the Times

by Virginia Gjernes

Undoubtedly some of you have read the "Help Wanted" column in your copy of the "Thief River Falls Times". Another assistant librarian is needed. What a lot of you might not know is just what a librarian does to while away the time spent on "duty"!

Here's a little run down on that "duty" time! First and foremost is the service to the public! Generally speaking, the average Mr. or Mrs. Public comes into the library seeking books on information in one or another category. When the book or books are found, the borrower checks them out and totes them away.

Your library turns out approximately 300 volumes on various subjects each day. The librarian on duty at the desk checks out these books. Now, for every 300 that goes out, just about the same number come into the library carried in the hands of the borrowers! Again, the librarian on duty at the desk checks these books in and places them on the rack for putting back on the shelves so other borrowers may take advantage of the material! Checking books in and out and replacing in the proper place on the shelf consumes time and energy...try handling 900 books a day!

But..checking books in and out is not even half the battle! New books come in almost daily and need to be processed (there are 14 individual steps which must be under taken before the book is ready to reach the borrowers' hands!). Add and multiply and see the answer you get there!

Then there is telephoning to be done, correspondence to keep up with, somehow!

Unfortunately, when books are used and re-used, they need to be mended because of the wear and tear. Your librarians are fortunate in a manner of speaking, because our books get a lot of wear and tear! But the mending of these volumes is a most important part of the librarians work! The books must be kept in readiness for the borrower, because giving the borrower the book desired is of vital importance! So, mending is a constant, never-ending job.

New books are constantly being written and requested by borrowers, so ordering of new books is an essential, never-ending job, too!

Speaking of new books...have you had time to read some of these: "The Giant Dwarfs", by Gisela Elsner, a prize-winning novel about middle-class prosperity viewed through the eyes of a child. Better not read it unless you're ready to look through a distorting mirror to see the commonplace and the bizarre intermingle; turn a bit savage. But there are laughs, too...satirical laughs!

"I Saw You From Afar", by Carol Morse Perkins and Marlin Perkins takes you far away to visit the bushmen of the Kalahari desert in Africa. Perkins is director of the St. Louis zoo, when he isn't writing books or gathering material for his TV program "Wild Kingdom". His wife is a photographer. You'll enjoy meeting the bushmen, even though their homes are simple grass shelters; their beds holes in the sum-warmed sand.

Another novel is "The Prime Minister's Daughter", by Edelman. This one concerns itself with politics, marital tangles and love... the teapot-tempest scandal sort!

Teenagers will welcome "The Teenage Chess Book", by Reuben Fine and "Surfer!", by D.S. Halney Jr. Some mothers will devour "How to Teach Your Baby to Read" by Glenn Doman and youngsters will like "Chris Muldoon", by Rita Shields and "The Velvet Room", by Zilpha Keatley Snyder. This last is not new, but it is good reading!

See you at the library...maybe your book will be number 301!!

Lutheran Bodies Join Together In New Counsel

Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, along with the ALC and LCA, were drawn together in a new cooperative agency when the Missouri Synod decided by an overwhelming majority voice vote to endorse a proposed constitution of the Lutheran Council in the United States of America, and approved partnership in it. The new organization will unit most of the nation's 8,600,000 Lutherans in a joint program of theological study and christian service.

The favorable action by the delegates of this 2.7 million-member denomination virtually assured formation of the agency of Jan. 1, 1967. The 2.5 million-member American Lutheran church endorsed the LCUSA constitution in October, and approval seems certain by the 3.23 million-member Lutheran Church in America next June.

The consultation, comprised of seven representatives from each of the four Lutheran bodies, has been working for more than two years on details of the new agency. It will succeed the National Lutheran council, of which the ALC and LCA are members.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Our new home is not as centrally located as the old one that has provided shelter for us over a period of many years. Being across from the post office was a convenience but there will be little difference in the distance to the city clerk's office and the court house. Considering how the city has been expanding in recent years it would be impossible now to get unanimous agreement as to where the center of the business section is located at this time. In recent years the business and industrial area of the city has been extending outward in all directions and a center can no longer be clearly defined.

One of the contributing factors to this expansion has been the large increase in car parking facilities in the business area, much of which has been provided by business firms for the convenience of their own customers. And the parking facilities made available by the city itself, for the convenience of the public, are important assets for the community. I like ample parking facilities much more than I like parking meters, and I believe most of our people feel that way about the problem.

I mentioned the fact that the city has been expanding in all directions, and it is encouraging to note how many old buildings have been replaced by new structures in recent years. Some of the old buildings that were in sufficiently good condition to justify a face-lifting have been remodelled and modernized and, for all practical purposes are just as good as new. But centrally located building sites are getting scarce, and that is a healthy condition, making necessary a continuing expansion of the business and industrial area.

We have had several inquiries as to our plans for an open house in our new quarters. About the only thing that is quite certain about the open house is that there will be one. I can speak for the management in saying that they will be proud to be able to show visitors around and it may be possible to have some of the machinery in operation when company comes. But much remains to be done before then.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, exploded a shot a few weeks ago that was heard 'round the world when he observed, in a New York speech that there is a series of "disquieting similarities" between our prosperity and that which swamped us in the fabulous 'twenties.

A fellow doesn't have to be particularly bright to recognize the fact that our nation is now experiencing one of the worst booms and I use the adjective "worst" advisedly.

All units of government at all levels, federal, state and local, now have record high debts, and individual indebtedness is at an all-time peak. President Johnson is now recommending that we debase the currency. Getting off the silver standard will be the first step. The second step will be the dropping of the gold standard.

We now have a dollar that, compared with 1928, has a buying power of less than twenty-eight cents. The buying power is steadily dropping.

That is what Mr. Martin had in mind when he spoke of stormy weather ahead, and the fact that he has shown concern about the dollar's future deserves more thoughtful consideration than it is receiving by the irresponsible politicians who are directing the financial affairs of our country. Our federal government is setting the worst possible example for the nation by it's encouragement of the crazy idea that we can spend ourselves rich—spending more and taxing less.

Hang on to your hats.

Our Congressman, Odin Langen, distinguished himself recently by being the only member of that body of law makers to express his disapproval of the Garrison Diversion project that would divert Missouri River waters to irrigate a large area of North Dakota land, converting what has been referred to as a desert into crop land. I am sure it was not pleasant for Langen to oppose a project requested by his neighboring state but it was another boondoggle that will add further to the difficulties involved in the problem of curbing crop production to the needs of the nation. There may come a time when such a project is needed.

According to an Associated Press report Langen opposed the bill because it would add to the problems of agriculture and would require needless expenditure of public funds. "This is the kind of a bill you are supposed to look the other way when it comes to the House. In this project, eventually a million acre irrigation project is planned," he stated.

It takes courage to stand alone.

Referring to President Johnson's "all-out war on human poverty", Henry Hazlitt, writing in Newsweek, comes up with the following conclusions with which I am completely in accord. He states:

"The way to cure poverty is not through inflation, "share-the-wealth" schemes, and socialism, but by precisely the opposite policies—by the adoption of a system of private property, free trade, free markets, and free enterprise. It was largely because we adopted this system more fully than any other country that we became the most productive and hence the richest nation on the face of the globe. Through this system more has been done to wipe out poverty in the last two centuries than in all previous history.

"The way to combat the remaining pockets of poverty is to keep this system; to reduce government intervention instead of increasing it; to reduce government spending and punitive taxation—in brief, to increase the incentives to the initiative, effort, risk-taking, saving, and investment that increase employment, productivity, and real wages."

In commenting editorially on our nation's recent space triumph, The Wall Street Journal points up a fact that we all have reason to be proud of. That fact was the complete publicity that was given to the experiment, revealing to the entire world the mechanical failures experienced by the astronauts as well as the brilliant successes.

Admitting that the Russians have to their credit in this field of space exploration, the Journal points with pride to the much greater publicity that has been given to our efforts in space, those that have failed as well as those that have succeeded. Says the Journal:

"We doubt if there's another nation on earth, certainly not the Russians, who would have the self-confident courage to put their efforts on the public display we have offered on every space flight. Everybody was told ahead of time everything we were going to try to do every minute, daring to let the world know at once our mistakes as well as our accomplishments."

Postal Session Thursday Grows Into Hot Meeting

sectional center to provide interchange of all first class mail by the next day. An objective is also to provide overnight service within the entire state, and to other points in the region. When fully operational, the plan should permit next-day delivery throughout 95 per cent of the nation, Batrus added.

Foster and Hanusa noted that there are 21 sectional centers in Minnesota. They emphasized that the new system should provide better service at a substantial saving in cost. Winkel opened the meeting to questions from people in attendance.

Discussion Begins

Attorney Wurst presented the concern of the area regarding continued mail service on Soo Line trains 9 and 10 which the department had announced would be discontinued on July 1. He questioned the earlier pickup and later delivery of mail and the dependability of highway transport during northern Minnesota winters. Attorney Berve presented his personal views on the question of improved service and the economic situation of the area, asking whether or not the meeting was a hearing where public opinion could be presented.

Winkel and Batrus stated that the meeting was not a hearing in the general sense, where testimony would be transcribed for study. Comments by the public would be heard, however, and opinion carried back to the respective departments. Batrus noted that the postmaster general, John A. Gronouski, was responsible only for providing the best possible service at the least possible cost. While the economy of the area affected may be noted and considered, it is not a determining factor in postal department operations, the officials indicated.

Rasmussen Speaks

Rasmussen, whose Railroad and Warehouse commission had also petitioned the post office department to retain service on Soo Line trains 9 and 10 and other trains in the state, sounded a note of action. The commission is concerned about the mail movement of grain samples over which it has jurisdiction.

Rasmussen said the Thursday meeting was "superficial and futile" and would accomplish nothing. He cited a number of communities, including Minneapolis and St. Paul, which had petitioned for continuance of the service, and said that all such petitions fall on deaf ears.

"The state can do nothing but protest," he said. "Nothing which the people want can be accomplished unless the post office department concurs." The post office department can be as arbitrary as it wishes until Congress enacts legislation which will compel the post office department to hold hearings on areas of dispute. "There can be no hearing when one side makes the decisions," he noted, and added he believed the meeting was held merely as an appeasement because of the letters of protect received by the postal department.

Winkel said no other meetings had been planned in the state. Asked by a Cloquet resident if a meeting would be scheduled in that area, he said a general information session would be scheduled if desired.

Revised Report Is Required for State Employers

Robert J. Brown, Minnesota commissioner of employment security, today cautioned all employers covered by Minnesota's employment security law that contribution and wage reports for the second quarter of 1965 (April, May and June), now being mailed to employers, are accompanied by a sheet of revised reporting instructions based on changes enacted by the 1965 Minnesota legislature and approved by Governor Karl Rolvaag on May 25.

Because of the shortness of time, it was impossible to revise reporting forms in time for the second quarter, reports for which are due not later than July 31. Acordingly, the special instructions became necessary to adapt the old form currently in use. A revised form will be available for the next quarterly report.

Brown said it is necessary to institute the changes now, even though benefit provisions do not become effective until July 1, 1966, because claims filed then will be based partly on wages earned in the second quarter of this year.

For benefit claims filed on or after July 1, 1966, the claimant's benefit entitlement is based on wage credits and "credit weeks" earned during his base period. The definition of "wage credits" was amended by the legislature (effective July 1, 1966) to mean remuneration earned rather than wages paid.

"Credit week", as defined by the legislature in the law, is any week in which an employee earned 26 or more in covered employment. However, on all claims filed before July 1, 1966, the claimant's entitlement to benefits is based on wages paid during his base period and the schedule of benefits set forth in the law which remains in effect until the new benefit provisions become effective.

It is necessary that employers provide the Minnesota department of employment security with the three items of payroll information for each of their employees as outlined in the special instruction sheet enclosed with the second quarter reporting forms, Commissioner Brown emphasized.

The revised taxing provisions of the law will become effective Jan. 1, 1966. At that time, employers will begin paying unemployment compensation taxes on the first $4,800 in wages paid to each employee (instead of on the first $3,000 at the present time).

We Have Moved

Economists, sociologists and others have agreed that the United States has developed a mobile population. In fact, the number of moves that the average person makes in a lifetime has spiraled upward rapidly. Having just completed a move to new quarters, we apparently fit into the pattern which has been established for our nation.

Newspapers are generally not the type of business which moves often from one location to another. Members of the Times staff, after the move completed last week, are acutely aware of the reasons for this geographic stability. There are about a million of these reasons—and all of them have to be transported, placed and reorganized during a move.

To the general public, a newspaper office is simply a voice on the other end of a telephone line, an employee who takes a classified ad, subscription or news item over the counter or a place that sends in the mail copies of a newspaper awaited on a regular basis. To a few others it is a counter, a few desks, several typewriters and a lot of noise and confusion. To the newspaper itself, however, the office is only a facade and the printing shop poses the real problem for moving.

There is an almost unbelievable number of pieces of equipment which must be transported during a move. In addition to heavy machinery which requires precision in operation, there are countless drawers of type, metal forms, type cases, galley racks, paper stock and other items. Virtually all of it requires special care in handling, and much of this handling was done by Times shop employees. They did an exceptional job.

For all intent and purposes, we have completed the move to our new quarters. There is certain to be considerable juggling of items until the best places are found for a number of them. As it now stands, however, we are ready to continue our news, advertising, subscription and commercial printing business in the normal routine.

Hard to Understand

Like so many things with which people on the outside are not familiar, the plan to remove mail from Soo Line trains 9 and 10 by the postal department is hard to understand. This lack of understanding was evidenced Thursday at a public meeting held in the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

A number of concerned citizens told postal authorities in no uncertain terms that they did not understand how earlier mailing requirements combined with later delivery could add up to better service. The postal officials could not understand why their elaborate plans to provide greater service were not accepted with a little more appreciation.

Most of the people attending the meeting had added concern in addition to mail service as it exists today. This was the anticipated loss of Soo Line trains 9 and 10 if the revenue provided by handling the mail is lost to the two trains. While the Soo Line had petitioned for discontinuance of the trains on the grounds that they are losing money for the company, the hauling of mail is a substantial part of the total financial volume of the trains at the present time.

It is also difficult to understand the collective federal mind. One or more departments of federal government are granted huge appropriations to create work for unemployed—paying salaries and subsistance to young men so they can cut brush, dig ditches and do other menial labor. This is loudly hailed in Washington as some sort of vital necessity to stimulate the economy.

The post office department, however, in attemping to justify the change in mail service here, estimates a saving in labor costs of more than $60,000 annually for this area only. No personnel will be discharged, they indicate, but the saving will be realized by placing present personnel in vacancies created by death or retirement elsewhere in the department. No matter how a person tries to explain this, it still means a loss of jobs. The question of whether this is or is not good since a tax-supported payroll is involved is not particularly relevant in this case.

On a dollar for dollar basis, the people in this area would be much more content if their tax dollars were spent in subsidization of trains 9 and 10 inefficiently than in the proclaimed efficiency of hiring non-skilled school dropouts and others with lack of individual initiative to carry out make-work projects simply so they can be listed as employed.

We can sympathize with the post office in its efforts to provide the best possible service at the least possible cost, for it has its own budget within which it must operate. We will also concede that the excellent mail service which trains 9 and 10 provide to towns along the line is more accidental than by design. By comparison, however, if a man strikes oil while drilling a post hole, we doubt he would attempt to plug it and begin drilling in a less likely spot. This is what the post office department is doing.

Echoing in our mind after the meeting Thursday was the very honest comment made by Frederick Batruss, assistant deputy postmaster general from Washington, D. C. He said, "We may be wrong, but we don't think so." Our thought is, "We think you are wrong, and if you are, with trains 9 and 10 likely to be removed there will be no recourse in reverting to the status quo. We like our mail service the way it is. Can't a sincere attempt be made to work the existing service into the overall plan to the mutual benefit of all?"

There are only a few of the views of those of us on the outside looking in. We do not like to unduly criticize individuals who we believe to be quite sincere in carrying out their jobs, and lord knows that governmental efficiency is too often sadly lacking in our complex nation today.

On the other hand, we don't appreciate having services vital to this area and the entire state arbitrarily (a word used frequently Thursday) be denied to us. There is much more at stake than the ability of the postal department to deliver first class mail on its self-determined schedule. These factors, even if recognized, have been ignored by the postal department. This can not be called justice.

Don't Spend It Yet

If you have been thinking about all the things you will do with the money to be saved by removal of federal excise taxes on cosmetics, cameras, film, household appliances and other items, it is suggested that you temper the urge for at least a little while. The final axe may not yet have fallen.

There is definite possibility that the state of Minnesota may pick up the taxes dropped by the federal government—an idea that has been advanced by Gov. Karl Rolvaag. A special session of the legislature could be called by the governor, but he has announced that he is awaiting a ruling on his veto of the legislative reapportionment bill.

Gov. Rolvaag, in considering reinstatement of the excise taxes in Minnesota, is showing remarkable inconsistency. He told the legislature this session, you will recall, that he would oppose any sales tax program proposed for his signature. A sales tax is a tax levied against the purchaser on goods he buys. An excise tax, by whatever name it may be called, is a tax levied against the purchaser on goods he buys. We fail to see any real difference.

Repeal of the taxes by the federal government is long overdue. This action is said to be the third major tax reduction in recent years, and as such the nation's taxpayers should be overjoyed. Taxpayers were happy over the income tax reduction a year ago—until they found out at the end of the year that their taxes withheld were not sufficient to meet the tax statement at income tax filing time.

Should Minnesota pick up the taxes the federal government dropped, we will be right back to where we started. Don't count on any major blessings by the federal action.

See America First

There is considerable merit in President Johnson's request that Americans do their summer traveling in our own nation, helping the balance of payments situation in the United States. The idea is not original, but the thought is good, and it is nice to have the President endorse it.

We might be even a little more selective and urge Minnesotans to visit Minnesota first. It all depends upon the inclinations of individuals, but there are few places more inviting than Minnesota's lakes and recreational areas. Water sports—swimming, boating, fishing and others—are most popular, with camping, golfing, spectator sports, horseback riding and just plain relaxing also being popular pastimes.

Just the other day we heard a talk by a young seminary graduate who will be serving a New York City parish this fall. In his section of the city, neighborhoods comprise no more than a city block, and each block averages 4,000 inhabitants. Why a vacationer would like to wallow in humanity on a trip to the metropolitan jungle, for example, is beyond comprehension. A casual drive along Minnesota's scenic North Shore would be much more inviting.

It is understood, however, that there will be no travel bans to Europe this year, and that is also proper. The President's suggestion to see America is well-taken, but those who can afford the quick hop to Europe should not be denied that privilege.

There is a touch of the "do-as-I-say-not aside" philosophy in this story, however. The chief executive's daughters have announced that they will tour Europe this summer. Maybe they have seen all of America they care to see.

May Pheasant Count Shows Drop From '64

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, announced today that the annual roadside census of pheasants during May shows a decline of 57 per cent from last year's census.

Conservation department field personnel traveled 2,931 miles of census routes and observed an average of 46 pheasants per 100 miles. The counts are made early in the morning and only under ideal weather conditions in order to be comparable with counts made in previous years.

Shields said the decline in the pheasant counts came as no surprise since counts of wintering flocks revealed heavy mortality during the severe storms of March 17-18. He said results of the May census means that the state has less than one-half as many pheasants as a year ago, approximately one-third as many as in 1963 good year.

Prospects for a good hatch of pheasants this spring also appear dim, Shields said. Spring weather has been extremely wet with rainfall during the critical month of May about two or three times the normal amount. However, good hatching weather through the remainder of June and July could improve these conditions.

Field work has also been delayed so that small grain fields were either planted late or not at all. Small grain fields usually produce about 40 per cent of the hatch and production of pheasants from these areas can be expected to be down considerably this year.

Planting of diverted acres under the federal feed grain program of land retirement has also been delayed by the weather. As a result, many of these fields will offer little suitable nesting cover for pheasants this spring.

Shields said one note of encouragement has been the participation of farmers in the program of seeding some of their diverted acres at a rate of at least two bushels of oats per acre. Game research had shown that most diverted acres were being sown too late in the spring and so thinly as to be undesirable as nesting sites.

Under a new ASCS program started this year, participating farmers received cost sharing of two to four dollars per acre for up to 10 acres for nesting cover seeded prior to May 10, provided two bushels are seeded per acre.

Shields pointed out that most of Minnesota's pheasant crop is produced on privately owned agricultural lands and that farming practices must be revised to improve habitat on these lands if the status of the pheasant populations is to be improved.

Request for Teal Season Permits Due by July 15

Duck hunters who plan to take part in the experimental early teal season in September were reminded today by state game and fish director, Ted Shields, that post card applications for hunting permits must be mailed by July 15.

Hunters must print the word "teal", their name, address, county of residence and write their signature on the back of a regular U.S. postal card. This card must be mailed to the Minnesota Conservation department, 390 Centennial Building, St. Paul, Minn. 55105. There is no charge for the permit and they will be mailed to the hunter prior to the September 11 opening date.

Length of the season and bag limit will be determined after it is known how many hunters intend to take part. The season is limited to a total of nine days and the bag limit to four teal daily and eight in possession by federal regulations.

Hunters must have a permit, a small game license, and a federal duck stamp. Youths from 12 to 16 years of age need not have a duck stamp but must have a permit and either a license or a firearms safety certificate.

State Purchased 142,775 Acres in Wildlife Areas

As of May 12, the Minnesota conservation department had purchased or optioned 142,775 acres of wetlands under the "Save the Wetlands" program started in 1951, it was reported this week. Cost of the acquisition to date has been $4,650,116. For the next two year period, approximately $1,184,000 will be available for wetlands purchase.

There are presently over 600 wildlife management areas or wetlands on which land purchase has been completed or which are in process of acquisition.

Under the wetlands program, marshes and adjacent upland areas essential for the production of ducks, furbearers and upland game are brought into public ownership to prevent drainage or filling. The areas are open to public hunting during the regularly established seasons.

The conservation department's game and fish division has approved proposals to date for the purchase of 175,000 acres at an estimated cost of $7,000,000, but due to lack of funds many of these projects will not be completed during the next two years.

Many Autos Mean Caution Needed

No matter how careful an automobile driver may be, there is always the chance that he will be involved in an accident during a lifetime of driving, reports the Minnesota highway department.

The possibility of these mishaps on the Minnesota highway and road system is apparent when it is considered that there are 1,850,000 licensed drivers in the state and more than 1,443,000 automobiles, plus a large number of out-of-state visitors, who all together travel some 16,238,000,000 vehicle miles annually.

It is not always the bad driver who is killed or injured in an accident; defensive driving is the best weapon to preserve life on the road.

AAA To Become Distributor of Gov't. Stickers

American Automobile association at the request of the U.S. Department of the Interior, will become a major distributor of the new $7 recreation-conservation sticker, according to Arthur C. Tomlinson, executive secretary of the Minnesota AAA.

The sticker, issued by the federal government and designed to be attached to automobile bumpers, is being made available to AAA clubs under an agreement between AAA and the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. It will be issued annually, and will be good all year for multiple admissions of a car and its occupants, from April 1 through March 31, to designated areas under control of the federal government, including the national parks. A fee of 50 cents will be charged for admission to the designated areas for those who do not wish to purchase the sticker.

Revenue from the sale of the sticker will go into the land and water Conservation fund and will be made available for appropriation by Congress to help meet state, local and federal outdoor recreation needs.

Langen Supports Federal Penalty On Assassination

"Events in Dallas, Texas, over a year and a half ago vividly portrayed the inadequacy of state and local laws to deal with a crime of such national and international significance," said Congressman Odin Langen as he supported the House passage of a bill to make the assassination of the President or Vice President a federal crime. Langen noted that the bill passed by the House closely paralleled the basic provisions of his own bill, introduced early this year.

"The killing of the President or Vice President of the United States is certainly of valid and vital concern to all of the people of the nation," said Langen, "and is of concern to the Congress of representatives of the people. Our chief executives belong to all 50 states and therefore their welfare and protection should be considered on a national level."

Langen complimented the judiciary committee for "wisely recognizing that the crime of assassination against a chief executive is a crime of interruption of the government of the United States and the destruction of its security. The bill before us adequately clarifies the areas of jurisdictional uncertainty so that in any future emergency, federal investigative procedures could facilitate apprehension of the lawbreakers."

Seek Entries for County Tractor Pulling Contest

Entries are now being sought for the tractor pulling contest to be held Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, July 23 and 24, at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls. Pulls among entries in the higher tractor weights will be held Friday afternoon and the heavier machines will compete on Saturday, according to Fred Sorenson, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event.

Committee members gathered Monday to view a movie of the state contest and to ask questions of Milton Sands, Alvarado, northern district director for the state event. Sands supervised the first tractor pulling contest at the Marshall county fair in Warren last year, and the event attracted such interest that it is being repeated again this year. A number of local committee members plan to attend the Marshal county event.

Entries Sought

Sub-committees for the Pennington county contest have been named and are making preparations necessary for the pull. Area farmers interested in entering the contest may secure entry forms from Vernon Nelson, State Farm Insurance agent; Marvin Lundin, Times editor; or the Chamber of Commerce office. A $10 entry fee must accompany the entry form and will be refunded when the entrant makes his appearance for the contest.

Pulling classes are determined by tractor weight. Class "A" is for tractors up to 4,500 pounds; Class "B" for tractors 4,500 to 6,500 pounds; Class "C" for tractors 6,500 to 8,500 pounds; Class "D" for tractors 8,500 to 10,500 pounds; Class E" for tractors 10,500 to 14,500 pounds; and Class "F" for tractors 14,500 to 17,500 pounds. Classes "E" and "F" are open for four wheel drive, duel wheel, dual engine, tandem drive and tandem tractors.

Age, make, model or color of tractor have no effect on any of the classes. Contestants learn the importance of adjustments that give tractors extra power and can adapt these to their field work. Competing tractors must use a gear that will permit them to attain the speed of three and one-fourth miles per hour. A pace tractor will be provided and opportunity for practice in pulling the weighted sled used in the contest will also be arranged.

Drivers competing in the contest must have a driver's license. Minors must have the permission

Westaker Church Plans Dedication

Members of the Westaker Free Lutheran church of Newfolden have scheduled a series of special services to celebrate the dedication of the recent addition and renovation to their church home.

Services are scheduled Friday and Saturday, both at 8:30 p. m. Ladies of the church will be in charge Friday, sharing a common theme, "Labourers Together with God", with the Luther league which will direct the Saturday service.

Sunday services will be held at 11 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. The latter will be the dedication service at which Rev. John P. Strand, president of the Association of Free Lutheran congregations, will officiate. A free will offering dinner will be served following the 11 a. m. service.

Westaker Congregation was organized Feb. 13, 1887, and shortly thereafter a log church was built on the northeast quarter of Section 20 of Newfolden township, on land owned by Conrad Sorenson. The present building was built in 1899 on the southwest corner of Section 17 on land owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson.

Improvements were made on the structure from time to time. In 1948 the interior of the church was renovated and approximately 10 years later two wings were added to the south to provide kitchen and cloak room facilities.

In November of 1963 the church was moved to its present location in the village of Newfolden. A basement was prepared prior to the moving the church and provision was made for extending the length of the building to the north. The extension was begun in 1964 when the shell was erected, but work was not completed until this spring.

Cost of labor and material has been estimated at $12,504 with an additional $3,100 in value received from donated labor, material and machines. Indebtedness resulting from the extension and remodeling is $6,184.

Pastors who have served the congregation include Rev. Elias Aas, 1887-1889; Rev. Hans Ostuguien, 1889-1905; Rev. Martin Bjornson, 1905-1912; Rev. Albert Gliseth, 1912-1919; Rev. John Hjelmeland, 1919-1927; Rev. G.P. Ronholm, 1927-1945; Rev. E.J. Ranum, 1945-1952; Rev. Gordon Bernison, 1953-1958; Rev. E. Oscarson, 1958-1962; Student Pastor R Lee, 1963; and Rev. Gene Sundby, 1963 until the present time.

Trinity Votes To Buy Recreation, Parsonage Area

Trinity Lutheran church will develop a youth and congregation recreational area together with a new parsonage site as a result of action taken by the congregation on Sunday. Members voted to purchase from Joel Rosengren a plot of several acres of land south of the Oakland Park Nursing home.

The land lies in two levels along the Red Lake river. Potentials of the larger, lower level are for year-round outdoor youth activity including a softball diamond, picnic grounds and campfire area for summer and sliding, skiing, tobogganing and skating for winter months, all under church supervision. Family and church organizational picnicking will also be possible and it is expected that Trinity will make the facilities available to other church groups of the Thief River Falls area.

According to Rev. R. A. Wangberg, pastor, the higher river bank level will serve as a site for a future parsonage with the intention of constructing ". . . an adequate home for the pastor and his family which will also enable the parsonage family to fulfill its intended ministry in the life and activity of the congregation."

The decision made by the congregation to purchase this property for its dual purpose was recommended by a special parsonage committee which has been investigating possible sites and by the board of trustees which also studied the committee recommendation. The board of youth activities had also expressed approval of a special youth recreational area.

Plummer To Have Monopoly on July Fourth Programs

Plummer will have a virtual monopoly on Fourth of July celebrations in the immediate area, according to a random check made by the Times this week. According to Gene Mattison, president of the sponsoring Plummer Commercial club and chairman of the Fourth of July celebration, a full day of activity is planned in the Plummer community.

Since the Fourth of July falls on Sunday and the following Monday will be a national holiday, Plummer will hold its celebration on Saturday. All area business places and offices will be closed on Monday in observance of the national holiday.

Mattison noted that the parade which will begin at 1 p.m. is expected to be about one and one-half miles in length. Among units participating will be the Thief River Falls city band, local National Guard units, Bridgeman Half-pints, Northwest Dairy princess, antique automobiles and a number of other floats and marching units.

DEMOLISHED by a tornado Sunday afternoon was this barn located on the Everett Yonke farm, located about four miles southwest of Thief River Falls. Also reduced to rubble was an empty silo which stood beside the barn. Four other buildings were blown away or heavily damaged. Fortunately, however, none of Yonke's 19 milk cows were killed or injured, and damage to the house was limited to loss of some shingles, about 25 broken windows and water damage resulting from heavy rains. Yonke and his family were away from home when the storm struck, but it was sighted at about 3 p.m., neighbors reported.

Sunday Storm Causes Much Damage in Area

Time Changed In Mail Service

Changes resulting from the removal of mail from Soo Line trains 9 and 10 will take place effective Thursday, July 1. Announcement of the changes was made today by R. J. Dryden, Thief River Falls postmaster.

Mail must be deposited at the Thief River Falls post office by 5:30 p.m. to be dispatched to the Twin Cities and points in southern Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin for next-day delivery. Final dispatch will be made at 7 p.m. for all points, Dryden said.

Mail for all offices in this sectional center area can be mailed any time before 9 a.m. for delivery the same day. The post office lobby will be open until 9 p.m. for the convenience of box holders and for deposit of mail addressed to communities in this sectional center area.

The post office box at the Soo Line depot will be removed on Thursday and there will no longer be opportunity for late mailing there. Changes are being made in accordance with schedules announced by the post office department earlier this month. Highway vehicles will be used to replace rail mail service in many instances under the postal department's revised program for mail collection and delivery.

Two Farms Hit Television Tower Toppled in Wind;

Weather activity was highly turbulent in the upper midwest on Sunday, and several tornadoes were sighted in Minnesota. One of these violent storms came within about a mile of the city of Thief River Falls, touching down on two farms and turning a television tower near the city into a mass of twisted steel.

The funnel approached the city from the southwest, and was first sighted at about 3 p. m. Soon after that time, it meted out destruction to the Evero Yonke farm, located about four miles southwest of town. Totally demolished were the barn, silo, pumphouse, machine shed, hay shed, granary and tool shed.

Yonke's farmhouse was damaged to a lesser extent. A number of shingles were blown off the roof, and 22 windows were broken. Rain water accounted for most of the damage inside the house, Yonke said. The storm must have created a stiff breeze in the house, however; Yonke reported that a calendar which had hung in the kitchen was found in an upstairs room after the twister had passed.

Yonke was fortunate in one respect; his 19 dairy cattle were grazing in the pasture, out of the storm's path. One calf was in the barn, but escaped injury. At the time of the disaster, Yonke and his family were visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, John E. Bornholdt. The Yonke farm was also struck by a tornado in 1962, but damage was limited to some broken trees.

Clean-up and repair work is progressing at a satisfactory pace, with groups of up to 20 neighboring farmers lending assistance. Much remains to be done, however, and Yonke will welcome anyone who cares to lend a hand.

The twister continued sweeping its devastating path to the outskirts of Thief River Falls, where it reduced to splinters a wood silo on the farmstead owned by Marvin Johnson, located about a mile northwest of the city limits. Miraculously, the sotrm did only minor damage to the farm, only a few feet away, and missed the house completely. The force of the wind was reportedly sufficient to drive a board lengthwise through the wall of a quonset building situated near the silo.

Next to fall victim to the whirling wind was the 480-foot steel television tower owned and operated by the Sjoberg Cable TV company. This structure, supported by 18 guy wires of steel cables an inch in diameter, was designed to withstand winds up to 140 miles per hour, but the tornado yanked it off its concrete base and twisted it into a snake-like shape.

Neither the wind nor the falling tower damaged the control building located beside the tower, so television reception was not halted. Sjoberg employees have rigged two temporary towers, and a

School Board OK's Teachers Contracts

Approval of two teacher's contracts completed the junior and senior high school faculties for the 1965-66 school term when the Thief River Falls board of education met in special session Monday evening. One elementary school resignation was accepted, leaving four vacancies on the elementary school teaching staff.

Resignation of Miss Myrtle Forester, fourth grade teacher at Northrop elementary school and member of the local district's teaching staff for 38 years, was accepted by the board.

New contracts were approved for Imogene Heitmann, Harvey, N. D., 1965 graduate of the University of North Dakota, to teach junior high school English; and Margaret Stahl, Blomkest, 1965 graduate of Mankato state college, to teach junior high school economics.

Supt. M. R. Hankerson reported that 150 completed applications have been received to date for the junior college to be opened here this fall and that applications are still being received. He emphasized that no quota or deadline is being observed for enrollment at the junior college in spite of rumors to that effect which have been circulated lately. All applicants may be assured of gaining admittance to classes this fall.

The superintendent also presented to the board a preliminary report on the annual financial statement of the school district, indicating that fund balances show the district to be in healthy financial condition. Further information will be presented when the report has been completed.

Several members of the board,

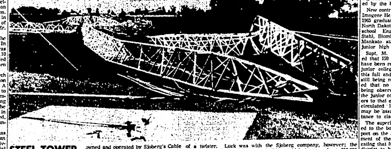
Vocational School Closed July 2-20

All departments in the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school will be closed from July 2 to July 20, according to Arnt Aune, director. Classes for business, auto body repair, welding, cosmetology and architectural drafting will reconvene on July 20.



STEEL TOWER owned and operated by Sjoberg's Cable TV service of Thief River Falls was quickly and efficiently transformed into a mass of steel cables and angle iron after catching the full force of the tornado which smashed its way through the Thief River Falls area Sunday afternoon. The 480-foot structure, supported by 80 guy wires of cables one inch in diameter, was built to withstand winds up to 140 miles per hour, but not those of a twister. Luck was with the Sjoberg company, however; the tower fell clear of the control building which houses about $10,000 worth of electronic equipment, and television reception was not broken. A new and stronger tower is expected to be received by the end of the week, and completed in several weeks, Sjoberg said, depending on weather. The new tower will feature new-style antennas which will eliminate co-channel interference. Sjoberg announced.

Breiland and Harrison Marital Vows Spoken

Miss Linda Kay Breiland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Breiland of Thief River Falls and Barry W. Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Harrison of Indianapolis, Ind., exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, May 22, at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city. Rev. Dennis W. Rodin officiated at the double ring ceremony. Approximately 140 guests attended the candlelight ceremony.

Mrs. William Halbasch, Thief River Falls, presided at the organ and played the traditional nuptial music by Lohengren and Mendelssohn. She also accompanied Harold H. Anderson, friend of the family, as he sang, "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony and "O Promise Me" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of bridal satin and Raschel lace, designed and made by her mother. The satin bodice, covered with lace, featured long lace sleeves coming to a point over the wrists, scalloped V-neckline forming a deeper V back. Satin covered buttons adorned the back. The full three-tiered lace over satin skirt was styled with an overskirt of scalloped satin that extended into a full-length chapel train. A seed pearl tiara held the fingertip veil and she carried a bridal bouquet of red roses, white carnations, lily of the valley and ivy. For sentiment she carried a handerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Breiland, and she also carried out the theme of something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, her gift from the groom.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Donna Breiland. Other attendants were Mrs. Gary Anderson as bridesmatron, Donna Carlson as bridesmaid and Peggy Breiland, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. They were identically attired in floor-length gowns of light blue peau de sole brocade, with plain blue sashes and matching headpieces, white shoes and gloves. Each carried a single long-stemmed red rose and wore a pearl pendant a gift from the bride. Serving as flower girl was Peggy Sue Poppenhagen, Crookston, cousin of the bride. She wore a floor-length gown of nylon chiffon over satin with lace jacket and fingertip veil and carried a basket of red roses and white carnations. Ring bearer, Ronald Breiland, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a lace covered satin pillow, designed of the same material as the bride's gown.

Attending the groom as best man was David Fritchie of the Grand Forks AFB. Groomsmen were Duane Anderson, Roseau, uncle of the bride and Donald Bjerke, of this city. Steven Breiland, brother of the bride, served as junior groomsman. Acolytes were Jerold and Dale Breiland, cousins of the bride, and serving as ushers were Tim Breiland, uncle of the bride, and Herb Goethe, a sponsor at the baptism of the bride.

The groom and his best man were attired in the US air force uniforms while the other attendants wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and cummerbunds. They also wore cuff link and tie sets, gifts of the groom, and red carnation boutonnieres. White carnation boutonnieres were worn by the fathers of the bride and groom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Breiland was attired in a navy blue sheath dress and Mrs. Harrison wore a turquoise dress. Both mothers wore white accessories and identical corsages of pink roses and white carnations. Honored guests, also presented with corsages, were Mrs. Florence Anderson, Roseau, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Effie Thompson, Karlstad, great-aunt of the bride.

For the reception, given by the parents of the bride, the church parlors were decorated with pink and white streamers, white wedding bells and pink, red and white roses. Mrs. Alvin Burstad served as hostess. The reception was served by the Martha unit of the church with Mrs. William Schak as chairman and the members of the Outerlimit homemakers club with Mrs. Robert Hendrickson as chairman.

A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a minature bride and groom, centered the serving table. The top tier later served as centerpiece at the bridal table. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Elmer Kimble and Mrs. Kenneth Breiland, Cousin and aunt of the bride, respectively. The Swedish-silver cake server used was a gift from the brother of the bride.

Mrs. Tim Breiland, aunt and godmother of the bride, and Mrs. Herb Goethe Goodridge, sponsor at the bride's baptism, poured. Margaret Haneway registered the guests and Kathy Breiland cousin of the bride, presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Pamela Harrison, sister of the groom, and Cynthia Breiland, sister of the bride. Waitresses were Sharon Thune, Grand Forks, N. D. Yvonne Longevan and Joan Kraemer and the gifts were arranged by Mrs. Leo Nelson, Mrs. Eldor Ornquist, both of this city and Karen Mattison of Baudette. All wore corsages, gifts from the bride.

Relatives and guests attending from out of town were from Grand Forks, N.D., Indianapolis, Ind., Warroad, Karlstad, Roseau, Baudette, Goodridge, Bagley and Crookston.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1965 graduate of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school of business. The groom is a 1963 graduate of Arlington high school, Indianapolis, Ind., and is presently serving in the United States air force.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a three-piece turquoise linen suit, white accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet.

A white satin band secured the veil of nylon tulle and she carried a Bible topped with a cascade of white baby roses, stephanotis and ivy foliage. Her only jewelry was a white gold cross with a cultured pearl, her gift from the groom.

Migrant Council Receives Grant To Hold School

To conduct a summer school program for approximately 200 children of migrant workers, the office of Economic opportunity in Washington, D.C., has approved a grant of $15,586 to the Polk County Migrant Council, Inc. Kenneth Taylor of Thief River Falls is executive secretary of the council and office for the council is maintained here.

According to Dr. J. A. Jenson, Crookston, council chairman, the school is conducted at Washington elementary school in Crookston and is designed to accomodate children up to 14 years of age. Most of the instruction is for children up to fifth grade level and a day care center is also provided for pre-school children.

Prior to this year, individual church groups conducted their own programs for children of migrant workers. This year the various Protestant and Catholic groups united to form the council which has a broad-base religious background. About three weeks of the six-week session of school classes remain to be held.

Before the grant was announced, school was financed by donations, welfare grants and volunteer assistance. The lunch program was church groups which provided donated food and services on a weekly basis.

With the money now allocated to the program, Dr. Jensen said, teachers can be placed on full salary lunch program can be up - graded other items. Some of the funds will also be used to provide better textbooks and workbooks for the students. The day-care center for pre-school children is provided so that school age children can attend school rather than staying home to care for younger children while their parents work.

Dr. Jenson emphasized that the grant will provide extension to an existing program which has been conducted, in varying degrees, for a number of years. Announcement of the federal action on the grant was announced to council officials by Congressman Odin Langen and the state's two senators, Eugene McCarthy and Walter Mondale.

Storm on Sunday Causes Damage On Area Farms

new and stronger permanent tower is expected to arrive within this week and will be erected in about three weeks, barring unfavorable weather.

The funnel proceeded northward and overturned a large trailer house owned by Allen Harder and located on the Gust Homme farm about one-quarter mile north of the Sjoberg tower. Damage was amazingly slight, however; no dishes or household fixtures were broken and the outside was only dented. A picture window was on the side which came to rest on the ground, but was not broken despite the fact that several articles of furniture fell on it. No one was in the structure at the time of the mishap, and it was soon righted by muscle and tractor power.

Severe weather was general in the area on Sunday. North Central Airlines reported wind gusts in excess of 60 miles per hour, and rain totaled .57 inch. Light, pea-sized hail also fell for a brief period, but crop damage was negligible. Thunder shower activity dumped much greater amounts of rain in other parts of the area.

Contest Entries Sought for Fair Tractor Pulling of their parents or guardians to compete in the event. Tractors may be stripped down to meet weight limits for the various class or weight may be added for pulling power.

Other Fair Features

The tractor pulling contest is only one of several attractions slated for the county fair which will begin Thursday, July 22, and continue through July 25. The Trans-World Auto Daredevils will open the grandstand program July 22. On Saturday evening the Venita Rich talent revue finals will be conducted. On July 25 a horse show will be staged in the afternoon and the evening show will feature Edwin L. Baron, world famous hypnotist.

Jack Thompson carnival will be on the midway all four days. Again this year there will be no admission at the outside gate and a 25-cent charge will be made for auto parking on the grounds.

County 4-H club members are reminded that entry blanks and records for county fair entries must be submitted to the Pennington extension office on or before Thursday, July 1.

Kasperson Named Potato Growers Exec. Secretary

Peter Sinclair, Stephen; president of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association, has announced the appointment of Martin Kasperson to the position of executive secretary of the association effective July 23. Kasperson, former Marshall county agricultural agent, will fill the position held by Lyle W. Currie for 11 years. Currie resigned to go into business.

Kasperson is a native of South Dakota, born and raised on a beef and grain farm in that state. He graduated from South Dakota State university in 1949 with a degree in agriculture economics, with minors in agronomy, husbandry and mathematics. After graduation from the university he worked two years with a regional farm equipment distributorship as product information director. He served five years in the army during World War II, with service in Ireland, England, North Africa and Italy.

After returning from the army he joined the South Dakota extension service as assistant county agent at Huron, S.D. and later as county agent at Madison, S.D. He then moved to the state extension office at Brookings, S.D. as district 4-H club supervisor in 22 counties in southeastern South Dakota.

Leaving South Dakota, he was appointed county extension agent for Marshall county at Warren, in which capacity he served until May of this year, at which time he transferred to Big Stone county as county agent, with headquarters at Ortonville.

Kasperson has been active in Chamber of Commerce work, is a member of the American Legion and a member of Our Savior's Lutheran church. He is presently serving on the professional improvement committee of the Minnesota County agents association. He is married and has a son James, age 16, and a daughter Susan, age 8.

Our Land

Careless disposal of leftover weed killers or empty containers could result in contamination of ponds, streams or lakes and subsequent fish kill. This warning, according to extension agronomist Gerald Miller at the University of Minnesota, applies especially to trifluralin, a new herbicide for soybeans.

Some Minnesota farmers, Miller says, are using tribluralin to control weeds in soybeans this year.

Laboratory studies indicate this herbicide is toxic to certain species of fish in very small quantities. But, because of the low rates used, method of application and nature of the chemical, it is unlikely that toxic amounts will move out of treated fields and into ponds, lakes or streams.

Trifluralin is applied at ½ to 1 pound per acre, and is disked into the soil thoroughly before planting soybeans. The chemical has a very low water solubility of less than 50 parts per billion. It is strongly absorbed in the soil. All these features add up to little movement out of treated fields, Miller says.

But, there is a potential for contamination of water from careless disposal of leftover quantities of trifluralin or empty containers. Follow these simple precautions.

1) Avoid washing out spray tanks near farm ponds or springs.

2) Avoid draining surplus spray into ponds, springs or drainage ditches leading to fish inhabited waters.

3) Avoid disposing of containers near ponds, streams, ditches or wells.

4) Follow all label directions carefully.

Dilute leftover spray with large amounts of water and dispose in an area where it cannot get into fish inhabited waters. Rinse out empty containers, bury them and use the rinse in your field spray.

These precautions are good to follow with any herbicide, Miller concludes.

There are approximately 71,000 dairy farms in Minnesota, with approximately 1,265,000 cows kept for milk.

Work on Herbicides Viewed at Field Day

Recent developments of herbicides for use on corn, soybeans and small grains were discussed at Rosemount Tuesday at the agricultural experiment station's annual field day. Gerald R. Miller, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota, was on hand to discuss with visitors research being conducted at the station on improving herbicide performance.

Miller said that while herbicides are becoming increasingly more effective, there still remain three factors which limit their performance.

First, performance varies with weather and soil conditions. Second, since some chemicals have limited tolerances on some crops, there is the possibility of crop injury. And third, some weed species are resistant to pre-emergence herbicides. This is particularly true for late germinating or deep germinating weeds that come up through pre-emergence applications.

Weed control research presently underway at the experiment station is aimed at developing new herbicides or herbicide combinations that overcome the limitations of present chemicals.

"Ideally, what we're after," Miller told visitors, "is a herbicide that will assure us of full season weed control, consistent performance even under varying soil and weather conditions and control of all weeds without damaging crops or leaving a residue."

One possibility being explored is the development of new herbicides. According to Miller, several new materials which are still in the experimental stages are being tested for crop tolerance, weed control ability and overall performance.

Another possibility is the development of herbicide combinations which make it possible to control different kinds of weeds with one application. Combination treatments also make it possible to lower the application rate of both materials, thus reducing carryover problems and possible crop injury.

Researchers are also studying new techniques of soil treatment, the effect of more timely applications with respect to size of weeds and crops and the use of additives like wetting agents and oils for improving herbicide effects.

Another phase of the research efforts at Rosemount is aimed at improving crop tolerances to different herbicides. For example, this year more than 80 wheat percents and 10 commercial wheat varieties are being tested for resistance to herbicide injury.

Crops and soils field days are held each year at the branch experiment stations located throughout the state to enable area residents to see first hand some of the latest research efforts by university scientists.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Immunity is the ability of an individual to resist or overcome an infection or substance which is foreign to the human system. Natural immunity is an immunity which many persons have to resist many infections, says the Minnesota State Medical association.

For example, during the period of an influenza epidemic only a relatively few persons may be affected because apparently most persons are born with a natural immunity to certain types of infection."

Acquired immunity is the type of immunity which may be built up over a period of time sometimes by an entire nation or a race. Studies show that over a long period of time the white race has built up an active immunity against tuberculosis, whereas among some other races this is not the case. It was found when the Indian was exposed to tuberculosis the disease spread very rapidly because Indians were not equipped over the [illegible] with the ability to ward [illegible].

Acquired immunity [illegible] of two types. [illegible] is brought about [illegible] is infected by an[illegible] person having a disease. When he recovers he is able to over-come the germs and ward off the disease. Another method by which immunity can be built up is by injecting the indivual with the dead germs. In this way active processes are created in the body of the individual which fight off the germs and produce an immune reaction.

In the case of typhoid fever, for example, it is customary to inject people with typhoid fever germs and their presence in the body produces an immunity for a specific length of time, usually several years. The same procedure is followed for a number of other diseases, including smallpox.

Through modern medical research we Americans have become so accustomed to this type of immunization that we scarcely appreciate its value. Not too many years ago people questioned its safety, however, and some doctors will recall that groups were organized to fight off vaccinations of various types only a few years ago, including smallpox and diptheria. In some instances, these delaying tactics were thought to be responsible for unnecessary epidemics of disease.

Passive immunity involves injecting the individual with the antitoxin or serum from another human being or from an animal. Thanks to modern medical research even a streptococcus infection, diptheria and other near-fatal diseases can today be warded off by injecting the patient with an antitoxin produced from an infected animal or human being.

Jr. Legion Team Splits Two Games

Coach Ralph Skay's American Legion junior baseball team split in two games played during the past week, dropping a 4-2 decision to Lancaster Thursday and edging Middle River 5-4 last night. Both games were played on the fairgrounds diamond.

Tonight at 8 p. m. (DST) the juniors will play at East Grand Forks and on Thursday at 7:30 p. m. will host Warroad in a league contest. On Friday the team journeys to Fertile for an 8 p. m. contest and Monday night will play a 7 p. m. game at Red Lake Falls.

Lancaster took advantage of some loose fielding by the Thief River Falls team on Thursday to tally four unearned runs. Billy Poole went the distance for the local club, yielding only two hits, walking four and striking out nine. Robert Bengston collected the win for Lancaster, giving up four singles, walking eight and striking out 13. The visitors committed only one error.

Middle River collected seven hits including two doubles and played errorless ball but was unable to cash in on many scoring opportunities last night. Bill Dicken collected the win for Thief River Falls with relief help from Billy Poole in the fifth inning. The locals scored four runs in the first inning when Lorenson walked four and Drees drove in two runs with a single.

Ronnie Lorenson took the loss for Middle River, with 11 walks being the root of his pitching difficulties. He collected 10 strikeouts and gave up only three hits. Nicky Drees collected two singles for Thief River Falls while Mark Anderson and Duane Lorenson doubled for Middle River. Thief River Falls pitchers collected eight strikeouts and issued seven walks.

Fireworks Illegal In State Warns Sheriff, Police

With the Fourth of July holiday to be observed this weekend, a warning in regard to the use of firecrackers and other firworks has been issued by Charles Richard, Pennington county sheriff, and Capt Alan Noreen, acting chief of the Thief River Falls police department.

The officers warned county and city residents that state law forbids the sale or use of fireworks in Minnesota. The only exceptions are paper caps used in toy pistols and public fireworks displays for which a permit has been issued.

It was pointed out that the law was enacted a number of years ago due to the many injuries which were sustained by Minnesotans, primarily children, in use of the explosives and displays. Problems are created here due to this county's proximity to North Dakota where fireworks are sold, the law enforcement officials said.

Violation of the law against sale or use of fireworks is a misdemeanor, punishable by a maximum of $100 fine and or 30 days in jail. In spite of the ban on use of the explosives, injuries of at least a minor nature have been noted in this area every year.

Area residents noting persons using fireworks or firecrackers in violation of the law are requested to notify the local police or sheriff's departments.

"As for the passions and studies of the mind: avoid envy; anxious fears; anger fretting inwards; subtile and knotty inquisitions; joys and exhilarations in excess; sadness not communicated." Entertain hopes; mirth rather than joy; variety of delights, rather than surfeit of them; wonder and admiration, and therefore novelties; studies that fill the mind with splendid and illustrious objects, as histories, fables, and contemplations of nature."—Francis Bacon.

Reciprocal Readiness

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, employers throughout the nation are giving a great deal of cooperation to the government's drive to find employment for unemployed young people during the summer months. In view of the cooperation generally evidenced by the nation's business community, this is by no means surprising.

Job offers by private employers during the past week brought the total job opportunities for youth to 375,000, and the number has been growing rapidly. Employers have been creating jobs which would not normally have been available in order to lend assistance in an area which the government apparently regards as critical. The nation's employers have shown their readiness to help.

It is refreshing to have the federal government asking "will you" instead of proclaiming "you will". It is also worthy of note that employers have responded to the plea in such numbers, even after being trodden upon by the many facets of government in the past.

President Johnson and his department heads would do well to bear in mind the cooperation they have received. When employers ask assistance from the government, it would be well for the government to extend the same cooperation which employers have given. With past circumstances in the record, however, it is doubtful that such consideration will be given. A little reciprocal readiness to cooperate on the part of government would be appreciated by the nation's business fraternity.

Safe Boating Week

There has been a vast increase in recreational activities of all kinds in this country, a result of the combination of higher family incomes and increased leisure. Boating has been among the leaders. It is enjoying a boom of sensational dimensions just about everywhere there's water enough to float a hull. And boating is a fine and healthful sport—if!

The "if!" has to do with safety. For boating accidents and casualties have soared too. And their root cause is ignorance of the basic rules that spell safety.

During the July 4-10 period, National Safe Boating Week is to be observed. It certainly is needed. Here are a few of the fundamental rules and precautions that every boater, regardless of the size and kind of his craft, should observe:

Don't overload. This is one of the surest roads to disaster. Carry at least one Coast Guard Approved lifesaving device for each person aboard a motorboat. Children should always wear buoyant vests. So should everyone else when conditions are hazardous.

Extreme care should be taken in storing paints, varnish removers, waste and rags. Pouring gas from an auxiliary can into outboard motor tanks may lead to dangerous spills and the release of explosive fumes. Refueling tanks are available to eliminate this danger.

Watch out for other craft and for troubles your wake may be causing—you are responsible. Learn various distress signals. Boats speeding among fishing craft are a hazard as well as a nuisance.

Learn the rules and the laws—and, beyond that, use your common sense.

Drive to Stay Alive

What is the number one form of outdoor recreation in the United States? According to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, driving for pleasure is the leading form of outdoor recreation. Thirty-four per cent of all auto travel is by people who are sightseeing, vacationing or just out for a Sunday drive.

Most of the nation's driving is done off the super highway—on roads that take motorists and their families camping or boating, hunting or hiking, fishing or skiing. In 1963, about 416½ billion miles were driven on rural roads and only 384½ billion miles on urban streets and highways.

The coming Fourth of July weekend will be an active one for motorists with the Monday holiday affording an extra day for travel and recreation. This is one of the problems being faced by the safety division of the Minnesota highway department, according to Earl M. Larimer, director.

Terming the coming weekend "one of the busiest and most dangerous weekends of the summer", Larimer noted that "the more patient a driver is, the less likely he is to take chances in traffic. The more courteous he is, the more likely he is to avoid hazardous acts and to see the mistakes of others in time to avert a collision.

"Forecasts have been made of the number of persons that will be killed and injured on the nation's roads and streets during this weekend," Larimer said, "and I only wish we could say that none of them will occur in Minnesota. But I can say there will be fewer deaths and injuries if everyone will drive with the capabilities we know they possess."

Over the past five years there has been only one Fourth of July weekend when no fatalities occurred in Minnesota. That was in 1961. Drivers are advised to expect delays in heavy traffic and to anticipate hazardous mistakes from other drivers.

Defensive driving is a term that has often been applied to the observance of patience and courtesy on the road. It is part of a pattern in driving to stay alive. A hap- of a pattern in driving to stay alive. A happy holiday should not be turned into a time of sorrow by an unnecessary accident. Please use caution when driving this weekend.

Stop Patent Piracy

Patent piracy is a serious problem to a considerable number of businesses. And one of them is vitally important to the health of us all—the pharmaceutical industry.

The patent pirate, through bribery or some other means, manages to steal valuable patent secrets from American drug companies which have invested large amounts of money, time and manpower in researching, developing and testing the products involved. These are then sold to pharmaceutical concerns in other countries, which are beyond the reach of American law. They, obviously, having spent nothing on product development, can sell for less.

Our own Defense Department has purchased foreign-made drugs produced from pirated American patent secrets, simply because the offered price was lower. Thus, in effect, our own government has been aiding and abetting the pirates. Pending legislation would prohibit this. Under its terms, the federal government could buy a foreign product made from a stolen American patent only if the national security is involved.

As Senator Williams has pointed out, in supporting legislation of this nature, the foreign firms have no investment in research, often do not manufacture under the strict controls used by American firms and pay wages far lower than American rates. He called this "unfair competition"—which it most certainly is.

The public interest in the matter is clear. Patent piracy undermines and discourages research and development efforts essential to the discovery and production of valuable new drugs. Every possible step should be taken to stop it.

Students Take Warning

Attorney General Robert W. Mattson has issued a warning to persons about to enroll in a private trade or business school to investigate before signing any application or contract. Most schools of this nature in Minnesota are reputable, the warning indicates, but there are a few whose salesmen will promise almost anything to get a signature on an enrollment application.

The attorney general's warning notes the following:

One such school for example is offering courses in computer training. In recent weeks many of its students and prospective students have contacted this office to complain that the salesmen claim that local firms which use computer equipment regularly call the school to hire its graduates, that the school is established at the request of various computer manufacturers, that the school is a division of IBM, or that the salesman is an employee of IBM. All of these claims are false.

If you are considering a private trade or business school, here are some suggestions:

1. If the salesman says there is a need in your area for people with this training or if he quotes a starting salary, check with local firms to see if this information is accurate.
2. If the salesman insists that you sign up immediately and you have not had an opportunity to check the school's reputation, DO NOT SIGN.
3. Read the application or contract carefully before you sign. If it does not conform to the information which the salesman has given you, DO NOT SIGN.
4. If you are unsure about the reputation of a particular school, check with your high school guidance counselor, your local better business bureau or chamber of commerce, or the state department of education.

halts
harmful particles in gasoline
(just before they enter your tank!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency . . . could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It halts harmful particles (present in all gasolines), right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American. Regular or American. Super-Premium.

the BIGGER we get the easier we DEAL

This has been one of those years. Great. Buickwise, we mean. And no wonder. The 1965 crop of Buicks are all beautiful. They ride well, handle well. Buick engineers, you see, have a way of doing things that please people.
So what's this ad for? To brag about Buicks? No, sir.
We have something that'll interest you more. It's called how to get yourself a Buick the easy way.
Because we've had such a great sales year, we can make it easy. The easier we make it, the closer we'll come to breaking our all-time Buick sales record.
This goes for any Buick: Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark or Special. You name it — we'll deal.
It all adds up to this: If you'd really rather go first class, go Buick.
We'll make it worth your while.
Wouldn't you really rather go first class? Go Buick!

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his Double-Checked used cars, too.

Local Residents Make Extended Trip East

Mrs. Maynard Molskness and her daughter, Faye Anderson, returned recently from an extensive trip throughout the northeastern states.

This was a guided educational tour under the direction of Harold E. Haas, educational superintendent of the Northern Union conference of Seventh-day adventists. The majority of the 39 persons on the chartered bus were teachers in the Seventh-day Adventist elementary schools of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Iowa.

The trip took the group through 16 states, two provinces in Canada and to the Atlantic Ocean by three of the Great Lakes in addition to many other interesting sights.

The trip started from Minneapolis on May 28 and continued by way of Battle Creek, Mich. and Gettysburg, Penn. and on to Washington, D. C., where the group spent two days during which time they toured the U. S. capitol, U. S. Senate and House of Representatives (in session), White House, supreme court, Library of Congress, son's and Lincoln's memorials, Arlington cemetary, Kennedy's grave, the tomb of the unknown soldier, Lee's mansion, Mount Vernon, Bull Run battlefield, Ford's theater where Lincoln was shot and the Smithsonian Institute (where they saw such things as the Hope diamonds, Lindbergh's plane "The Spirit of St. Louis", the flag that flew over Ft. McHenry when Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner" and Freedom 7, the first U. S. space vehicle.

They went on to Philadelphia, visited Independence hall, saw the Liberty bell, visited the Betsy Ross home, to Valley Forge and on to New York City where they rode a subway and then a ferry to Staten Island passing the Statue of Liberty at night.

Two days were spent at New York City, one of which was spent at the world's fair. Also they visited Bob Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" museum, China town, toured the United Nations building and took the ferry to Liberty Island where they climbed up to the crown on the head of the Statue of Liberty.

They spent a day at secluded Camp Berkshire estates in New York, and traveled on to Boston, where they saw the Old North church, Paul Revere's home, Bunker hill, went aboard "Old Ironsides", and later saw Lexington, Concord, Concord bridge, Minute Man statue, homes of various American authors, and into New Hampshire and Maine (Portland) where they saw many things of denominational interest, such as the first Seventh-day Adventist church at Washington, New Hampshire.

They were in Quebec and Montreal, and on to Ottawa where they toured the Parliament building and listened in on the House of Commons where the Prime Minister and his cabinet were answering questions asked by the opposition.

On Thursday they visited Niagra Falls (both Canadian and American) after which they went on to Berrien Springs, Mich. where they stayed at the new dormitory at Andrews university. (Other denominational colleges visited during the trip were: Atlantic Union college, South Lancaster, Mass.; Columbia Union college at Washington, D. C.; and Kingsway college, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada.)

Peace-Corps Test Offered Saturday

The test measures general aptitude and ability to learn a language, and is used by the Peace Corps as a tool in matching volunteers and jobs. Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

Teenagers Spend Week on Survey In Canada Towns

Nine high school teenagers from northern and western Minnesota spent the week of June 20-26 serving as Ambassadors for Christ to Dryden and Red Lake, Ontario, Canada. Leading the Ambassadors for Christ youth mission were Rev. Paul R. Beigner of Thief River Falls and Rev. Lowell Kramer of Callaway.

The teenagers gave up a week of their summer vacation to go from door to door and house to house in a witness-survey effort. Dryden, Ontario, was chosen because it is a booming paper mill town of 7,000 that is 60 per cent unchurched. Red Lake, Ontario, was selected because that gold-mining district is 85 per cent unchurched, Rev. Blegner siad.

The teenagers and pastors made a total of 834 calls in Red Lake and Dryden in 10 witnessing sessions that each ran from 1½ to 2½ hours in length. The calls were made primarily in the interest of two mission parishes of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod located in Dryden and Red Lake. A total of 151 families were discovered as prospective members through the witness-surveys. The youth called in teams of two, while the pastors went singly. Many calls took from 30 to 45 minutes each. Ambassadors for Christ is a youth evangelism effort sponsored by the Missions department of the Minnesota North District of the Missouri Synod. Ambassadors for the Christ is under the supervision of Rev. Karmer, district director, and under the direction of the district missions department head, Rev. Blegner. Plans are for more Ambassadors to be recruited from both high school and college levels trained and deployed this fall and winter in similar witness-survey efforts.

Mondale Proposes Senior Citizen Rent Supplement

A proposal by Senator Walter Mondale to provide rent supplements to residents of senior citizen housing projects has been approved by the Senate banking and currency committee. The senator's proposal was made in the form of an amendment to the housing and urban development act of 1965.

The Mondale amendment would include low and moderate income senior citizen housing constructed by churches, labor unions and other non-profit organizations under the federal government's direct loan program in a limited experimental rent supplement program.

As originally proposed, the housing bill provides rent supplements only to low income families living in rental units financed through FHA insured loans under section 221 (d) 3 of the national housing act. The bill proposes appropriations of $50 million the first year, $100 million the second year, $150 million the third year and $200 million the fourth year to finance the main rent supplement program.

Under the Mondale amendment, up to $5 million of each year's appropriation for the main rent supplement program would be set aside to finance the experimental program for other types of housing, particularly that constructed specifically for the aged.

"Despite the considerable efforts of existing programs," Mondale said, "our senior citizens remain one of the most ill-housed groups in the nation. Forty per cent of all rental units occupied by those over 65 are substandard," he said, "despite the fact that three-fourths of the poorest elderly spend more than one third of their incomes on rent each year."

One Nation Indivisible

"... That this Nation, under God ..."
Words that bind a Nation's wounds
—healing hearts that have affliction known.
We pause, this day, to remember and to forget:
Yet, not to forget the battles lost or victories won, or soldiers' silent sleep,
Who, by their death, gave life; life that throbs and pulsates in this Nation's womb.
We pause to remember our gifts from God from whom our blessings in abundance flow.
We find our God, at home in church, in hearts that this day
sing out in joy,
We thank Thee, Dearest Lord.
Now, bless us, and this Thy land and all therein . . . our own, our native land!

DEMOLITION of the former Sande Implement company building was accomplished in a relatively short time last week by Harry Dahl Construction company of Thief River Falls. The building, located at First street and Main avenue, was razed to prepare the site for construction of a new city library building. Final plans and specifications have been ordered by the city council from Hammel & Green, architectural firm. The city has been granted $87,700 through the library division of the Minnesota department of education and has received assurance that an additional $33,000 will be made available for library construction. Estimated cost of the building, exclusive of architect's fees and interior furnishing, is $171,000. It is expected that construction on the 93x170 building will begin about October 1.

Variety Is Weather Story During the Month of June

by Jim Wilts
Times Reporter

If variety is the spice of life, June of 1965 must go on record as one of the mostly highly seasoned months in recent years. The overall mean temperature and total precipitation figures closely approximated those of the average June, but the rainfall was concentrated into two 10-day periods at the beginning and end of the month. The 10-day stretch in mid-June was generally fair and cool.

The most dramatic of the month's weather phenomena occurred June 27 in the form of high winds, heavy rain and a tornado which narrowly missed Thief River Falls. This storm destroyed buildings on two nearby farms, overturned a mobile home northwest of town and toppled the television tower owned by the Sjoberg Cable TV company. Many days during the month were windy.

For the first time since 1957, the mercury failed to reach the 90-degree mark at any time during June. Daily highs were generally in the 70's, with only a few in the 60's and 80's, which added up to an average high of 75.3. Night time lows were in the 40's and 50's except on June 19 when a low of 62 was recorded. Low for the month was 42 recorded June 10 and the average low was 50.9. Mean temperature for June was 63.1, or 1.2 degrees below the June average of 64.3.

Precipitation recorded during June totaled 3.79—only .03 inch above the June average of 3.76, 1.17 inch below the total recorded in the miserable month of May and exactly four inches below the total recorded in June of last year. The bulk of the month's rain, 2.54 inches, fell during the first 10 days. Clear, cool weather generally prevailed from June 10 to the 18th, and another 1.25 inch fell during the showery period from the 19th through the 28th.

The dry spell in mid-June was a boon to field work in the area, which had been at a near standstill due to excessive rain in May and early June. Greatest amount of precipitation recorded on a single day was 1.18 inch on June 2. Much of the month's foul weather occurred on week-ends, as fishermen, campers and family picnickers will recall.

The following is a list of daily high and low temperature and precipitation readings recorded by North Central Airlines at the official weather station at the mun-

Poppler's To Open In New Location

Poppler Furniture store will open for business in its new quarters Tuesday, occupying the more spacious building vacated recently by the F.W. Woolworth company. Stan Larson, proprietor and manager of Poppler's, told the Times that the moving was in progress last week but the office will be maintained in the present location until Tuesday.

Larson stated that it will not be possible to conduct a grand opening of the new store for some time but that business will not be interrupted by the moving operations. The new quarters will provide double the display space and the moving involves the transfer of not only what is left of the present store stock but also the new arrivals that have been stored in two local warehouses along with new shipments scheduled for arrival in the near future.

The store has been completely redecorated and both the main floor and the basement will be carpeted.

As soon as the present building is vacated by Poppler's, an extensive remodeling and redecorating program will get underway to make room for the Larson Music company operated by Justus Larson and his son Jon as a partnership. The remodeling will include a new front and facilities for a drive-in from the rear for loading purposes. The building has been purchased by the Larsons.

The company dates back to 1920 when L. H. Larson, the father of Justus, bought the Thief River Music company. Justus has been active in the business since 1930 and the present father-and-son partnership dates back to 1959.

Larson hopes to have the remodeling and redecorating completed in time for an August opening in the new location. The new facilities will greatly increase the company's display space and will make possible more complete assortments of musical merchandise and radio and television displays.

Issue Injunction To Halt Ditch in Lost River Area

A temporary injunction restraining the Roseau county board from further ditching in the Lost River area was granted Friday, June 25, by Judge H. O. Chommie of Thief River Falls at the request of Robert Peterson, attorney for a group of Roseau area citizens seeking the action. The order bars further work on the Ditch 61 system in the area which the citizens claim will permit excessive water to flow into the Roseau river in the spring and increase the flood hazard.

The plaintiffs asked that the board be permanently restrained from digging in the system. Judge Chommie scheduled a hearing on the question for 10 a.m. Thursday in the Roseau county courthouse. After hearing the issues, Judge Chommie is expected to hand down a legally binding decision.

Opponents stated that, "We are chiefly opposed to the opening of the Lost River watershed. We feel that over 100 sections of marginal land will be drained in the United States and Canada if this digging is permitted to continue. We wonder, too, about the potential of seepage from Lake of the Woods through the drainage area."

They pointed out that the elevation of Lake of the Woods in 1951 was 1,066 feet. "The elevation of Roseau is 1,047," it was concluded.

Argyle Woman Is Killed in Crash East of Argyle

Death marked the opening of the Fourth of July weekend in this area Friday night when Mrs. Arthur Hogberg of Argyle was killed in a two-vehicle acident eight miles east of Argyle. Investigation was made by the Marshall county sheriff's department.

Mrs. Hogberg, 74, was the driver of the car traveling north on CAR 1 about 10 p.m. Friday. As the car crossed SAR 4 eight miles east of Argyle it was struck by a truck loaded with hay bales and driven by Ray Donarski of the Florian area. Donarski was driving east on SAR 4.

The accident victim, who was killed instantly, and her sister, Miss Hilder Johnson of Warren were both thrown from the car. Miss Johnson, about 75, received severe facial contusions, a possible facial fracture and multiple other bruises about the body but was listed in generally good condition by Dr. E. E. Pumala, Marshall county coroner. Donarski and a young boy who was a passenger in the truck were not injured.

Dr. Pumala was rushed to the accident scene by John Sedlacek, Warren police patrolman, since Sheriff Oscar Erickson and Deputy Milan Sorenson were on duty in other areas of the county. Mrs. Hogberg's death was listed as the fourth in Minnesota for the Fourth of July holiday which officially started at 6 p.m. Friday.

Marshall-Beltrami SCD Will Observe 15th Anniversary

Soil Conservation service is observing it's 30th anniversary in 1965, according to Ralph E. Rundell, soil conservation technician for the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation district. The Marshall-Beltrami district traces it's history back to 1950 when farmers in seven townships in Marshall county and eight townships in Beltrami county voted to establish a district.

The original board of supervisors consisted of Oliver P. Howland, J. H. Claussen, Nicoly Urdahl, Axel Sund and Lyndon Magnuson. Additional townships voted to join the district in 1953 and 1961.

Original problems for which farmers were seeking assistance were better field drainage, farmstead windbreaks and better cropping systems. To help solve these problems, the board requested assistance from the Soil Conservation service and technical assistance was furnished.

Don E. Lawrence served the district until 1954, John C. McMartin served the district from 1954 to 1961 when he was transferred to the state office in St. Paul. Robert Kloubec of Thief River Falls has served as work unit conservationist since 1961.

Since the district was organized, 63 groups of farmers have initiated group projects. Group drainage means the cooperation of two or more farmers or landowners to construct drainage ditches to form a common outlet for surplus water. Farmers in the district was organized. A total of 146 acres of trees have been planted with about half of these being farmstead windbreak plantings.

Cost sharing on many of the conservation practices has been provided by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service; in many cases providing the incentive for farmers to do the job as it is needed.

Cooperative agreements have been signed with 335 farmers in the district, covering 212,000 acres. Basic conservation plans have been completed on 172 farm in the district with these farmer cooperators. A conservation plan is a detailed plan for the farm and includes the conservation measures the farmer plans to apply. These plans are based on detailed soils maps prepared by the SCS.

Presently serving on the board of supervisors are Lyndon Magnuson, chairman; Ole Prestebak, Oliver P. Howland, Peter Aune and Grant Satre. Soil Conservation service technicians are Robert Kloubec and Ralph E. Rundell.

CRASH of the automobile pictured above into the rear end of the hay wagon occurred at about 10:40 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 1 about seven miles west of Thief River Falls. A tractor towing three of the hay wagons, owned by Donovan Bruggeman and driven by Lynn Elleson of Thief River Falls, was traveling east at a low rate of speed and was struck from the rear by the auto which was driven by Sandra Sue Nyvall of St. Paul. Mrs. Henry Nyvall of Thief River Falls, a passenger in the Nyvall vehicle, was treated for minor injuries at Northwestern hospital and released. Miss Nyvall credited the use of safety seat belts with saving the two women from serious injury. Extensive damage was done to the front end of the Nyvall car. The highway patrol reported that the wagon was not equipped with a taillight and the mishap is under investigation.

SUMMER PRUNING

Don't let your trees and shrubs become misshapen or overgrown this season. Many trees and shrubs can be pruned during summer. Often there's more time then, and it's easier to see just which branch needs to be removed from the shade tree or shrub.

All shade trees, except for the oak, can be pruned during summer. Removal of branches, removal of the dead wood, or control of the height: these are all tasks that can be done. Any wounds over 2 inches in diameter should be covered over with a protective wound dressing.

Summer-flowering shrubs can be pruned after they have finished their blooming period. July and August would be too late to prune many of the spring-flowering shrubs such as lilac. However, it's possible to remove a branch to shape the shrub, without injury to the tree or shrub itself.

Summer-blooming spireas such as Froebel can be pruned by shearing off the old flower heads as soon as they have finished blooming. Usually they return into bloom shortly after the first of September.

Roses, like the hybrid teas, can be cut back after each bloom if this is desirable. This practice will allow plenty of time for the new wood to develop and become mature before the fall season.

Pruning maintenance of deciduous trees and shrubs is important to the landscape. To get your best dollar value out of plant materials, don't overlook pruning.

Pests such as insects, diseases and weeds can be troublesome and make gardening a chore. It's a good idea to keep tab on the many different pests that can attack the garden.

Thrip is one of the principal problems with the gladiolus. This is a very small insect which usually invades the bud scales of the flowers or the basal portions of the leaves, causing distortion of the bloom. DDT gives effective control.

Aphids are often troublesome on many different ornamental plants. Usually they will be in the garden during the early part of the season and later in the fall. To control the aphid, use malathion. This may be applied either as a spray or a dust.

Spider mites, which include several different species of spiders, are troublesome on evergreens as well as on annuals and perennials. Usually they will cause partial wilting on the plant or curling of the leaf and russeting of the tissue on the lower sides of the leaves. To control this particular garden pest, use a miticide such as ovex, aramite or tetradifon (Tedion).

Summer weeds are often a problem—especially those which germinate late in the season such as purslane. Regular cultivation is one effective way of controlling these weeds. The garden rake will help to keep a dusty mulch on the garden and prevent some germination. Summer mulches, using organic materials such as compost or well rotted barnyard manures, will also help to control the weeds.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

Exciting, isn't it? The old building across the street from the "old" library is now a thing of the past! It is gone, soon to be replaced by a new building . . . a new library to serve you! How proud Thief River Falls citizens must be! Perhaps none of them are scheduled-for-a-trip-to-the-moon just yet, but they are progressing, and this is good for any city, large or small. The new library, the junior college, the "face-lifting" that is going on all about our town is really something to shout about . . . loud, long and proudly!

Something else to shout about . . . reach for "Two Roofs and a Snake on the Door" by Elliott Chaze. You'll laugh at the zany antics and the witty writing of this author. This new one is a biography; his other writings are fictional, generally speaking.

Mystery lovers shouldn't walk by "The Ashes of Loda", a Harper novel of suspense by Andrew Garve. They might as well pick up "Echo Answers Murder", too, by Nigel Fitzgerald. Like his name suggests, green, green Ireland is the scene of this colorful murder! Watch for "Cunning as a Fox" by Kyle Hunt.

Oh, yes, Paul Gallico fans will welcome "Mrs. 'arris Goes to Parliament". Jesse Hill Ford's new novel "The Liberation of Lord Byron Jones" will soon be the talk of the best-seller lists so be sure and make your reservation for this.

Earle Stanley Gardner's worshippers will want "The Case of the Beautiful Beggar". The more serious minded, especially among those who've always had a secret yen for the theatre, will want to check out "About Those Roses", for Frank D. Gilroy's effort is well worth the time it takes to read it—providing you are interestd in "what goes on before an audience!" The volume also contains the full text of "The Subject Was Roses", the play which marks the debut of a Broadway playwright!

Fiction readers will want Herman Wouk's "Don't Stop the Carnival" . . . this one is about a middle-aged New Yorker who escapes his glittering Manhattan life (which he finds unbearably boring) and rushes to buy a hotel on an island in the Caribbean Sea. (At least somebody's dreams come true!) What happens on his island and in his hotel, is what makes the book! So., read it and see.

"Black Like Me" has lost none of its popularity and John Howard Griffin's words will remain in your mind for a long time to come. If you haven't read this one as yet, take time to do so. You'll be a little wiser and a little stronger for having done so.

Travelers . . . the arm-chair variety . . . will want to take home V. S. Naipaul's "An Area of Darkness". This story of India is vivid, well-written . . . an expose and an appeal!

Richard Collier's "The General Next to God", the story of William Booth and the Salvation Army, should be on your "must read" list. And if history really is your forte, then remember to ask for "The Adventures of a Prisoner of War—1863-1864" edited by R. Henderson Shuffler. This is different, indeed, from most historical volumes.

While the business of tearing down and building anew goes on, your library will continue to serve you only the best in reading fare. You'll be doing yourself a favor to come in, take your choice and then come back again for another helping of informative, educational, inspirational mental nourishment!

"We'll see you soon at Carnegie Public library. Summer reading is a matter of "must" for most!

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Mumps is more than a case of swollen glands, warns the Minnesota State Medical association. Mumps is a virus infection which infects the salivary glands. There are three sets of these glands. The parotid glands, located right at the angle of the jaw and extending up onto the cheek, somewhat in front of the ear, are those which are affected in mumps. This is in contrast to the cervical glands of the neck located lower in the anatomical structure of the body an more commonly associated with swollen glands.

The virus which causes mumps has been isolated and researchers have found that it is not responsible for any of the other childhood diseases. Fortunately, the complications of mumps in childhood are very few and far between. This is why many doctors belive that it is safer to have mumps in childhood when there is less danger of complications.

While the danger of complications resulting from mumps in childhood are fewer, there are certain problems which can occur. One of these complications is the involvement of the auditory nerve which controls hearing. When this happens the result could be partial or even permanent loss of hearing.

The day when we can actively immunize against mumps may not be far off, although we don't have such vaccines at this time. Normally there is no reason why a child who is in good health, free from other forms of infection, should not be exposed to mumps. Exceptions to this rule could include children with heart diseases, or some other physical disability which requires special precautionary measures.

Children by far are most frequently affected by mumps. However, adults do get the disease; and when adults get mumps, it can be a rather serious matter. The adult is usually much sicker than the younger child. The fever is higher and above all, the chances for complications are far greater. In the male the genitals may become infected. In the female, the breast may become involved. In both sexes, the pancreas may be affected. These effects can be permanent. In the male, the disease may result in the wasting away of a testicle.

Can a person get the mumps more than once? Yes, although the possibility is very remote.

What are the symptoms? Swelling on one or both sides of the face after exposure to the virus. If only one side swells at first, the other side can swell up within 12 days, or it may never swell at all.

The swelling, which may or may not be painful, ordinarily lasts a week to 10 days. Headache, sudden fever, backache and vomiting are additional symptoms. Keep the mumps patient in bed and consult a doctor as soon as possible, concludes the association.

Summer Health Tips for Youngsters

For more fun this summer for the young members of your family the Minnesota State Medical Assocation suggests the following health tips:

Sunning—The only safe way to sun, for adults, and children comes in small, closely-timed doses. Most doctors agree that a baby born in the spring or summer months may take a little sun at the age of three or four weeks—but there are definite precautions to follow. Doctors advise starting a baby's sunning with one minute a day, then adding an additional minute each day until you've worked up to a maximum of 15 minutes. This, of course, should be done during the cooler portions of the day when the sun isn't directly overhead. As a general rule of thumb, a baby should not be in the sun between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., or on any extremely hot day

When the baby is outside, he should be placed on a blanket or pad in the open air. A carriage, where he cannot get any breeze, is generally much too hot His eyes should be protected by a hat, or placing his face away from the sun. If for any reason the baby's sun schedule is interrupted for a day or so, the sunning time should be cut back when it's possible to begin again. The Association says to remember also that cloudy days can be responsible for severe burns, especially when you're near water.

Prickly Heat—This is a rash of tiny red pimples which occurs whenever a young child becomes overheated, espically in the summer. Generally it appears first in the folds of the neck. If it appears, the Assocation advises keeping the child cool with frequent sponge baths, a dusting of powder, and light clothing If the rash does not respond to treatment, spreads rapidly or is accompanied by fever, diarrhea or vomitting, call your doctor. It's not prickly heat.

Outings — During summer outings never leave a baby in his carriage out of sight, or never leave a young child unattended. An accident or severe fright can take place in moments. In the car, remember that a child is safer in the back seat than the front seat, and safer in a baby car bed or seat than in a lap. Toddlers should have seat harnesses. Doors should be locked and children kept from sticking their limbs or heads out car windows.

The Association also warns parents that any child who does not know, or does not heed traffic safety rules has no business with a bicycle.

Everyone talks about energy but few people know what it really is and what role it plays in the health of a growing adolescent.

Energy is the internal power which is necessary to breathe, move, digest food and keep the heart and other organs functioning, explains the Minnesota State Medical association. It even requires energy to express joy, anger, fear or other emotions.

The sun is our source of energy. It will be recalled that energy cannot be treated or destroyed. However, its form and the place where it is obtained can be changed.

Where do human beings get their energy? People get their energy from plant and animal food. Only plants have the ability to grow by combining the energy from the sun with the elements from the soil, water and air. When animals eat the plant food the energy is transmitted to them. People, in turn, obtain their energy when they eat the plant and animal food.

All body tissues, including bone, muscle, fat and blood, are produced when energy combines with certain other materials from the food we eat. On a cold winter's day increased amounts of energy are necessary to be changed into motion and heat for keeping the body warm. On a sweltering summer day the energy supply is taxed to keep the body's cooling mechanism in operation.

The wonderful human machine uses energy when the food we eat is first digested and carried to the cells of the body. Then it is combined with oxygen to supply energy and motion. It is used to replace worn out or injured tissues and also to build new tissues during growth.

Growth and weight are determined by the balance between the energy supplied and the energy needed by the body. When a person eats more calories than the body requires for energy, the excess is stored as fat. When fewer calories are supplied by food than are used by the body for energy, the stored fat deposits of the body will be tapped to make up the difference. Age, activity and size including height, weight and body will determine the calorie requirements.

How can you tell whether you have too little energy or too much? Is it really possible to tell if you need to stop gaining weight or whether you actually need to lose weight? Don't play guessing games. Ask your doctor, concludes the association.

We dust flowers and vegetables to protect them from harmful insects and forget that these poisonous substances can also kill human beings. We spray noxious weeds to beautify our lawn and forget that these chemicals absorbed through the skin are capable of causing serious illness or death. We forget that household pesticides used to rage war on ants, moths, roaches, flies and mosquitoes can also take a toll in human life.

Each year more than half a million persons die from poisoning. Many of these needless deaths are the result of a lack of respect for modern pesticides, observes Minnesota medical association. Pesticides are dangerous.

Follow the directions exactly before starting to work with them. No matter how often a pesticide has been used in the past, persons should acquaint themselves again with the directions. Before using a pesticide, first determine whether it is really needed, then select the product which is best suited to do the job. This information can be found on the label of name brand products.

Store pesticides in the original container, plainly labeled with inlabeled or mislabeled containers. Don't tempt the curiosity of children, people and pets. Keep pesticides under lock and key, out of reach of anyone who has no business handling them. Work in a well ventilated area to minimize the danger of inhaling pesticide dust or fumes. Avoid getting insecticides on the skin when mixing or applying them.

People who suspect a sensitivity to a particular pesticide should consult a physician before exposure. Wear gloves, aprons, masks, goggles or other protective clothing when recommended by the manufacturer. Wash or bathe thoroughly after using a pesticide. Contaminated clothing should be removed afterward and laundered.

Don't smoke when using and mixing an inflammable type of pesticide. In addition to obvious possibility of fire or explosion, there is a possible danger for some of the poison to accumulate on the cigarette or the lips and to find its way into the mouth.

Use only the recommended dose of any chemical. When treating plants allow ample time before picking or eating crops which have been treated. Wash fruits and vegetables thoroughly before eating them and cover water and food supplies.

Help to prevent the danger of needless exposure by checking carefully to see that spray equipment is in good repair with tight fitting connections on hoses and nozzles. In case of accident, follow the directions for treatment included on the pesticide container, the association advises. These directions usually include washing directions usually include washing the affected area with lost of fresh water. Call the doctor or get the patient to the hospital immediately.

Motoring Safety Is a Family Matter

Should children be disciplined while the car is in motion? Definitely not, says the Minnesota State Medical Association.

It's not only very difficult but it's very dangerous to attempt to discipline children in a car.

Disciplining children while the car is moving should be avoided even by the parent who is not behind the wheel. Inevitably the parent who is driving enters into the discussion with the parents who is doing the disciplining. The result: frayed nerves which detract from maximum behind-the-wheel performance. Admittedly, it's difficult to discipline children in a car. Quite naturally children are going to want to play. They are going to want to stand up in the car. They can be counted upon to want to make noise, to sing. Parents should also realize that children are likely to become restless if the car trip is long are all a part of the child's normal behavior and not too much should be expected of the child while he is a passenger.

Discipline should be discussed with the children before the trip. If a problem does arise while the car is in motion it's wiser to stop the car and deal with the problem accordingly. If the problem is such that everyone is affected it might be wiser to head for home rather than attempting to cope with problems within the car as well as on the highway.

The station wagon, has become a popular family vehicle. Because of its roominess, there is an increased temptation for children to want to play while the vehicle is in motion. To insure discipline in a station wagon the Association advises the parents to place the younger children in the front seat where they can be best observed.

By no means should children be allowed to put their head or arm out of the window of a moving car. Often the temptation is greatest when the rear window in a station wagon is open. Children should never be allowed to remain in a parked car unsupervised. The temptation of the dashboard gadgets; the steering wheel and the foot pedals can be overwhelming.

A parked car full of children parked on a hill can be a one way trip to disaster if suddenly a youthful hand releases the brake. The cigarette lighter provides a natural attraction for youngsters. A hot lighter has been known to cause serious burns. Then too, the possibility of setting fire to the car always exists.

Maximum family motoring safety can be expected when parents set a good example, concludes the Association.

Open Red Lake Fishing Area for July 4 Weekend

Opening of an area about two miles in length and a mile into the lake for recreational fishing was announced last week by Dan Needham, treasurer of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians. The area opened on lower Red Lake is in the Sandy Beach recreation area and was scheduled to be open on a three-day experimental basis for July 3, 4 and 5 only.

Should the experiment prove successful, Needham said, it is possible the Red Lake tribal council will open the area to angling on a permit basis each weekend during the summer. There is a boat launching area at the site and it is expected that a number of reservation residents will provide boats on a rental basis.

Holiday Weather Predicted Fair

Fishermen, campers and picnickers were advised to look forward to a fine Fourth of July weekend, according to Saturday's weather forecast. Fair skies and a general warming trend were predicted for Saturday and Sunday. Highs today of 72 to 80 were in store for the area.

High and low temperature and precipitation readings recorded by North Central Airlines at the municipal airport are as follows: 78, 54 and .21 inch on Thursday; 75 and 57 on Friday; and a low this morning of 50.

Larson Wins $30 For Buttermaking

Eldon L. Larson of the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery association was among the five winners of the June educational butter contest sponsored annually by the Minnesota department of agriculture. With his third place score of 99.81, Larson was awarded $30. There were 166 exhibitors in this second of four statewide contests being held in 1965 to determine the Minnesota state champion butter-maker.

A good feeding program and strict culling make the difference between having a herd of milk cow and having a prime, productive herd.

NFO Picnic Set At Detroit Lakes

Ken Stofferahn

Ken Stofferahn, director of the National Farmers organization in South Dakota, will be guest speaker at the Seventh District NFO picnic to be held Sunday, July 11, at Detroit Lakes city park. Main activities will begin about 11 a.m. The park is located on the south end of the main street on the north shore of the lake.

The district NFO will furnish frankfurters, buns, ice cream and refreshments. Families are asked to furnish their own dishes and other food which they may deisre. An attendance of 2,300 people is a goal of the picnic committee headed by Duane Okeson, Detroit Lakes.

Stofferahn operates a 480-acre farm at Humboldt, S.D., raising corn, hogs and feeder cattle. He has a degree in agriculture from South Dakota state college and has been a member of NFO since April of 1961. He was the chairman of South Dakota's first district organization.

Daniel Johnson, Pennington county NFO president, also announced the county meeting to be held Thursday at 9 p.m. in the Highlanding hall.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

You may recall the thermometer outside the kitchen window as one of the first measuring divices you learned about as a child.

And as with many of us, you probably thought of temperature as how warm (or cold) it is right now. You probably didn't think of temperature as something you add or subtract, like pounds or quarts. Or did you?

Fact is, temperature is added and subtracted for a variety of reasons, ranging from calculating crop planting times to estimating spraying time for insect control to deciding when to refill your fuel tank in the winter.

The system is often referred as to "growing degree days," and a useful and simple mathematical scheme it is. It works this way. You start with a base temperature, chosen according to what you're adding growing degree days for.

Then for each day when the average daily temperature is over that base temperature, you add the difference in degrees between the two. Example: Suppose you're figuring growing degree days for sweet corn, and the base temperature is 50 degrees.

If on a given day, the average temperature is 80 degrees, you have accumulated 30 degree days. Then this value is accumulated each day.

Continuing the sweet corn example, you can determine within close limits when the plant reaches various stages of development. It ordinarily takes between 1,750 and 2,000 growing degree days for sweet corn to reach the right stage for canning.

Of course, a canning company doesn't depend on this method alone. After a certain sum of degree days has been reached in a season, careful field inspections are increased. But the "growing degree system is a most useful yardstick for the inspectors.

This system and a variety of weather data are explained in "Climate of Minnesota: Temperature and Its Application," a recent publication from the University of Minnesota's agricultural experiment station.

Authors are Donald G. Baker, soil climatologist at the University of Minnesota, and Joseph Strub Jr., supervising meteorologist, U. S. Weather bureau at Minneapolis.

The reasoning is, then, that when the daily temperature average is greater than the base figure, a certain amount of growth, presumably proportional to the growing degree day, occurs within the plant.

Of course, some cautions must be used in applying the methods, as canning companies recognize.

Yet the system has a number of variations for different uses. Sometimes, hourly temperatures are used instead of average daily temperature.

At least one canning company uses the growing degree system to estimate root growth of corn to decide when to stop cultivating.

Entomologists have used this method to predict the hatching date of various insects.

A similar scheme is called heating degree days, used by fuel and power companies to determine probable fuel requirements of homes and industrial plants. For heating degree days, the scheme is reversed; you add up the degree days below the base figure.

Baker and Strub say that in Minnesota, the success of the growing degree day method is limited mostly to the period from spring planting until early July—largely because soil moisture normally remains adequate only through this period—without additional modifications.

In their publication, Baker and Strub present a variety of tables and maps showing average growing days for Minnesota. For example, the system is quite useful in helping determine the northern limits of various crops in the state.

The publication also presents a variety of findings on temperature effects and temperature normals and temperature extremes in Minnesota and nearby states.

Copies of "Climate of Minnesota: Temperature and Its Application" are available from the Agricultural Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Last year industrial friends of 4-H provided over four million copies of educational publications and other materials to aid 4-H'ers in their projects.

Fog, rain and snow were NOT major causes of highway accidents in 1964 that claimed 48,000 lives. About 90 per cent of the crashes ocurred in clear weather on dry roads.

Any horticultural show or fair has three objectives. The first is to be educational; the second is to promote pride in the produce grown in the community; and the third is to stimulate improvement of better gardening through competition.

Showmanship or grooming is as important as condition or quality of exhibits. There are some definite rules to follow in preparing specimens for exhibition.

First of all, the premium list should be checked to be sure of exact number of specimens required. All exhibits should be labeled as to variety to achieve the educational objective.

Good showmanship involves uniformity of size, shape, color and maturity of produce shown. Specimens should be typical of the variety that is best for show. Showmanship also includes the proper cleaning and trimming of specimen. Washing is permitted for root crops and potatoes but they should not be scrubbed so hard the skin is damaged.

Root vegetables should have 1½ inches of top remaining above the crown of the root. Tap roots of beets should be trimmed to 1½ inches in length. Onions should not be skinned. Each onion should have a hard, dry skin and the necks should be small and well cured.

Cabbage should have one or two outside wrapper leaves on each specimen. Sweet corn should be exhibited in the husk. Bean pods should have the stem attached but tomato specimens should not have stem remaining.

Apples and pears should not be polished. They should have unbroken stems attached.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

BY Bill Dahlquist

It apprears that President Johnson is beginning to recognize the very obvious fact that our country, alone, cannot win a war with China when fought in China's back yard. While we still have a big advantage over the Chinese in military equipment per fighting man, we are so hopelessly outnumbered by them that they could survive the loss of a hundred casualties to our one and still maintain their combat strength. Population and distance favor them, and these advantages more than offset their weaknesses. We, alone, cannot conquer China.

We alone could not defeat the Chinese in a war fought in Asia even if our nation were in a strong financial condition. Unfortunately our nation is in what could become a desperate—financial condition, and a war fought half way around the world cannot be won with a printing press currency and an inflation that already is out of hand here at home.

Under the circumstances the crafty thing for us to do would be to withdraw from this Asiatic mess and keep out of it until other free nations recognize the need for defensive action and offer to do their bit in a concerted effort to hold the line. And while these other free nations are coming to the conclusion that one nation alone cannot defend the free world, let's get our own house in order here at home and serving notice on the rest of the world that we will distribute economic aid only to friendly nations that prove their willingness to help themselves.

Our government's interferrence with a revolution that exploded in Santo Domingo, a large island that is close to Cuba, is another matter. I am satisfied that our intervention in a revolution that was so close to home can be justified, although the manner in which the intervention was conducted left a few things to be desired. Here again we acted alone and only after being subjected to considerable criticism did we make an effort to bring in other friendly American nations to participate in the policing and the maintenance of some semblance of law and order.

We have finally recognized the fact that in the defense of our own area, the North and South American continents, we need the cooperation of other nations. Interference with the right of other nations of the Western Hemisphere to stage a revolution now and then is risky business, and the decision to interfere should not be made by one nation alone—not even the strong and well-meaning Uncle Sam.

Bloomington City Manager Raymond Olson told the League of Minnesota Municipalities' recent convention that federal involvement in local local affairs can't be halted until local communities prove that they are capable of solving their own problems. In commenting editorially on Olson's statement the St. Paul Pioneer Press suggests that he should have added "and willing to solve them."

I am in full accord with this portion of the Press comment "and would have liked the Press editorial if it had stopped at that point. We may take for granted, of course, that local communities, large cities or small towns, will never oppose grants of aid because they are capable of solving their own problems. But before any grants are made available the local communities should be required to prove the essential nature of the proposed improvement and their inability to pay all of the cost.

The distribution of aids to smaller units of government by units that have a broader tax base to draw on has been shamefully abused. It has encouraged wasteful spending that is much in evidence both in St. Paul, in Thief River Falls and most other communities thruout the nation.

Those who represent us in the state legislature or in congress are under great pressure from their constituents at home who seek appropriations for this or that "need", the need of which generally is not so urgent that the folks back home could if they had to, foot the bill directly. They do not realize that the cost must inevitably be spread across the board and all of the taxpayers are forced to participate in the cost of each other's folly.

And this folly continues until the burden becomes too heavy and bankruptcy is the inevitable result.

Yes, for units of government whose financial affairs are mismanaged, there is a form bankruptcy too.

Richard Kleeman, writing in the Minneapolis Tribune, wants to know how come Minneapolis was not designated as a site for a Junior College. Goodness, gracious something must be done about this and quick. A special legislative session should be called.

As a friendly suggestion I would propose that the Legislature solve this problem by discontinuing the General College at the University of Minnesota and use the rooms vacated for a Junior College. Then everyone should be happy.

The United States Supreme Court is another branch of our federal government that is rapidly losing the respect of informed citizens. Its big error has been its meddlesomeness in the problems of reapportionment of state legislatures. It opened the door to these problems when it handed down a decision that both houses of the state legislatures should be elected on the basis of population, in spite of the fact that the state senates have been elected on an area basis as long as our government has existed, and as the upper house of our federal Congress has been selected as provided for in our Constitution.

Raymond Moley, writing in Newsweek, is bitterly critical of the Court for its conduct in mishandling the problems which its initial mistake created. In commenting on these problems Moley states:

The Supreme Court had ample warning when, in 1962, it first plunged the courts into a crusade to remake the nation's system of representative government. For Justice Frankfurter in his dissent in the initial case of Baker vs. Carr made it eloquently clear that the Court, by a tortured interpretation of the Constitution, opened the way to a "mathematical quagmire."

"The Baker vs. Carr decision was, he believed, wrong on all grounds, especially those which would overburden the courts with details of reapportionment in a conflict which would permit the "legislatures to play ducks and drakes with the judiciary.

"When, in 1964, the Court went even further with its idea of "one man, one vote" Frankfurter was not there to dissent. But Justice Harlan was equally vociferous.

"These warnings have been amply justified by what is going on now. The utmost confusion prevails. Instead of reforming some of the lower houses of state legislatures, the Court has plunged itself into reforming both houses and, as was inevitable, the redistricting of the representation of the states in the national House of Representatives.

"Lower Federal courts, confused and without "guidelines" or the facilities to redraw districts, are being overruled by the Supreme Court. And the high tribunal is overruling not only legislatures and state courts, but the wishes of the voters of the states as they are registered in initiative and referendum elections. Apparently nobody is responsible but the Court, and the Court itself is utterly confused.

"A tide o filigation has swept the nation. States where there had been no hint of civil-rights problems have been man-, or rather court-handled. In one state, three Congressional reapportionment have been compelled since 1961. In another case, a Federal court was reprimanded for overruling a state supreme court; and in another, a state court was overruled. The U.S. Supreme Court has overruled a California reapportionment plan for the state senate which had received the approval of the voters of the state four times. Apparently, the only kind of democracy that is to be tolerated in the present dispensation is Supreme Court democracy."

Admittances during the year totaled 3,223 as compared with 3,592 in 1964, 3,287 in 1963 and 3,250 in 1962. Adult patient days totaled 30,881—the highest in the past four years and more than 1,400 above the previous high set in 1964. March had the highest number of patient days with 3,199 while June had the lowest number with 1,947. Average per cent of occupancy was 60.7 per cent—the lowest since 1962 when the percentage was 58.9. Last year the average was 73.6 per cent.

Average daily census at the hospital was 85, compared with 81 in 1964, 74 in 1963 and 65 in 1962. Use of the new addition resulted in a larger daily census but a smaller percentage of occupancy. Average stay per patient was nine days.

Total operating income per patient day was $31.03 with total operating expenses being $30.89—leaving a net operating income of 14 cents per patient day. This compared with $2.38 in 1964, $2.38 in 1963 and a loss of six cents in 1962.

There were 282 births reported, an increase over 279 in 1964 but considerably fewer than the 330 births in 1963 and 342 in 1962.

Plant Resistance To Insects Is Studied

An army of small, dark colored bugs descends upon a field of sweetclover and feeds voraciously. One row of plants is devastated by the insects, and in an adjacent row, the plants withstand the attack with negligible damage. And on a few individual plants, the insects turn up their snouts and take hardly a nibble.

Why the difference? It might be a simple case of what sweetclover weevils like to eat, or it may be that one kind of sweetclover has some adverse effect on the insects. But whatever the reason, this ability of some plants to resist insects is showing the way to a frequently useful method of insect control.

Plant resistance to insects is not a new idea, but applications of the idea are spreading. University of Minnesota research has shown such resistance to exist in sweetclover, and the hope now is that such resistance may be bred into new varieties.

This summer, under the direction of entomologist E. B. Radcliffe a total of 505 different samples (accessions) of sweetclover from around the world is being raised, subjected to weevil attacks and checked for resistance.

Such research began in 1963 when Radcliffe and the late F. G. Holdaway evaluated 181 sweetclover accessions on farms near Crookston. Differences were striking.

Defoliation from weevils that year ranged from about 80 per on the most susceptible species to a mere 18 per cent on the most resistant, a sweetclover known as Melilotus infesta.

Similar and equally encouraging results occurred in 1964. Again, M. infesta accessions suffered less than a third as much defoliation as the most resistant commercial sweetclover—regardless of weevil numbers.

To date, none of the commercial varieties has an economic level of resistance. Yet, the resistance of some wild accessions such as M. infesta is so promising that intensive selection and breeding may lead to varieties that have a high level of resistance to weevil attack.

Today, Radcliffe says, it appears that interspecific crosses may be the most promising approach. Several sweetclover species screened have proven to be more resistant than the white and yellow sweetclover commonly raised. And within the white and yellow species, some entries are more resistant than others.

If the problems of plant breeding can be solved—such as the problem of sterility barriers between some species—weevil resistant sweetclovers may become a reality.

What causes plant resistance to weevils? Radcliffe suggests two mechanisms. One may be preference of certain species for feeding. Regardless of insect numbers, field studies show, weevils simply refuse to feed as much on one kind as another.

Furthermore, certain species apparently have an adverse effect on survival of weevils and their eggs. On the M. infesta accessions, the weevils survived no longer than they would without food. Weevils might take a chomp from these plants now and then, but injury was slight. Weevils are not repelled by the M. infesta plants as such. They crawl over the plants readily, but don't feed on them as much.

Sweetclover once was a major green manure crop in the Red River Valley, and was used especially in beet production. Sweetclover would be plowed under in non crop years.

Weevils became a major problem in sweetclover in the 1930's, and 12 or 14 years ago they wiped out half the stands in the valley. Insecticides kill weevils, but are fairly expensive and must be used when sweetclover is in the seedling stage, growing under grain.

Research on plant resistance to insects this year has been extended to potatoes. Radcliffe and his colleagues are seeking insect resistance among 472 potato entries.

In the potato studies, resistance is being sought to a variety of insects—flea beetles, Colorado potato beetles, potato leafhoppers, six-spotted leafhoppers, lygus bugs, wireworms and aphides. The studies are in cooperation with horticulturist Florian Lauer, in trails at the North Central experiment station at Grand Rapids.

Many farmers are now raising corn with resistance to corn borers and alfalfa with resistance to aphides. With continuing research, they may in the future have more crops with built-in protection to other kinds of insect pests.

Independence Day

As we observe the public announcement of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, we tend to look back on those days in early American history and believe that all persons living in this country were patriots with a unanimous favor of revolution. This was certainly not the case, however, since approximately a third of the two and one half million people in the 13 colonies were loyal to the English throne and another third were unconcerned about their government.

It was the remaining third, however, composed of men who believed in full independence, who laid the foundation for the nation which has shown progress like no other nation on earth ever has. They took the Declaration of Independence to heart, considered themselves capable of running their own affairs and believed they needed no distant king to tell them what to do and collect their meager earnings in taxation.

Such division of opinion can be understood, for the loyalists were rather favored by the crown and led a fairly good life. They owned land and had a standard of living similar to their English countrymen. The second group—those in the "don't care" category—was comprised of a number of nationalities which had immigrated to the colonies by choice or request. They were making a living and preferred to trouble.

The patriots were primarily farmers who owned their own land, merchants trying to make a living and laborers in the crafts of the day. They were willing to give what it took to achieve independence from the officiousness of distant government, not only for themselves but for all residents of the colonies. The battle was not an easy one, but victory was inevitable and finally was won in 1783.

There are still people in our nation today who seem to think they can improve upon the American system by putting upon the government the responsibilities the founding Americans insisted to be their own. They wanted as little government as possible—just enough to keep order and prevent anarchy and injustice. They could feed and house themselves by their own efforts and by joining their best thinking could run a country suitable to all.

We still have the modern counterparts of the "loyalists" who feel the people should be responsibilities of the government—instead of it being responsible to them. We have the "don't cares" who will play along with whatever happens without any effort to change the course of events. And we have those—fortunately, for America—who insist they can run their own lives, prosper by working at it and holding on to the freedoms that are here for all of us and the envy of millions of oppressed people around the world who are dependent upon their governments.

Independence Day should be every day for Americans. There can be no greater American truth than that "the price of

Love Thine Enemies

There must be a touch of religion in the U.S. government, for the "love thine enemies" admonition is being put into practice. Witness the fact that President Johnson recently authorized the shipment of $37 million worth of surplus food to Egypt. This seems to be a practice a little bit wide from the Biblical thought.

The state department said the President had announced that it was "in the U.S. interest" to fulfill the assistance commitment under a three-year program which expired June 30. The shipment had been held up during a six-month period when U.S.-Egyptian relation were termed "strained."

It might be suggested that food sent to such nations which have "strained" relations with us be strained food, since the temperament and attitude of the leaders of these nations has been demonstrated as suitable for this form of sustenance. They may conform to the theory that it is more blessed to give than to receive, but are firmer believers in the fact that it is more profitable to receive.

Americans will recall that it was in Cairo last November that a U.S. information agency library was burned. It might also be noted that Gamal Abdul Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic, announced in December that he had been sending arms to the communistbacked rebels in the Congo and that he would continue to do so.

Robert J. McCloskey, state department press officer, was asked why the President decided to restore the aid shipments. "There has been a definite improvement in our relations with the U.A.R. since aid was suspended six months ago," he replied. This gives birth to the thought that relations might improve even more if additional time were permitted to elapse.

The Egyptian government was reported recently to have asked the United States to consider a new three-year program providing for up to a half billion dollars worth of surplus food in the 19651968 period. As evidence of improved relations, the Nasser government has promised to pay compensation for the burned library and reportedly has stopped sending assistance to the Congo rebels. To our government, perhaps, this seem like a fair exchange for half a billion dollars worth of aid.

No matter what relations with Egypt are at present, Nasser has a known reputation for dealing with those who are most advantageous to him at the moment. His moods change rapidly. While it may seem Biblically right, it is militarily wrong to provide supplies to an enemy camp.

Effective Censorship?

Censorship in any form is difficult to be made effective. Prohibition was a poor censor of liquor consumption: Press censorship is a poor method of avoiding criticism. Sales censorship is an impossible hope for controlling ownership of firearms.

Censorship applied to reading was discussed recently by H. F. Flanders of the New Jersey Committee for the Right to Read. His comments could well be applied to the proposed federal legislation to control the sale and purchase of firearms.

Flanders said: "The real answer to such a problem deals with behavoral aspects learned from countless stimuli, such as, social, psychological, educational and home deficiencies, many of them immpresed before reading age. And the solutions are much harder than mere censorship—and more costly. A censorial approach may quiet some consciences—but it only postpones the real solution."

North Dakota Congressman Mark Andrews recently quoted a poll indicating that 56 per cent of men polled were against firearms legislation while 54 per cent of the women favored it. We don't hold a great deal with percentages and averages; a person can get in water over his head in a river that averages only two feet deep.

In their fanatical scramble to have their names appear on some sort of legislation, national politicians have prescribed any number of firearms control bills. Most are ridiculous and the rest are worse. We would bet that the poll Congressman Andrews mentioned included a great percentage of men who never owned a gun or experienced the pleasures of hunting. Most of the women favoring controls are likely—out of ignorance—afraid of guns and believe they are "not nice".

Congress will never be able to explain satisfactorily to us why stores in towns along the Minnesota-North Dakota border, for instance, should not be permitted to sell firearms to residents of both states. Nor should a rural hardware store be required to purchase a $100 federal license to sell shotgun shells during the hunting season. Neither, for that matter, should high school boys be denied the opportunity to purchase .22 caliber shells to hunt gophers or rabbits.

If congressmen and senators allow such stupid proposals to become law, they are showing even greater lack of intelligence than the senseless persons who made the proposals in the first place.

All That Service

All we have to do now to have Twin Cities mail delivery the following day is to deposit mail at the post office by 5:30 p.m. Regional post office department officials guarantee that this will result in much faster service than before possible.

Up until July 1, when mail service was taken off Soo Line trains 9 and 10, mail could be deposited at the depot collection box just before train time late at night. Delivery might not always be made the following day, but in most instances it was made then. Postal authorities stated this was impossible unless Twin Cities firms received mail delivery more than once a day, but did not disclose how many firms had only one daily mail delivery.

We would guess that the bulk of business mail leaving Thief River Falls is destined for the Twin Cities area. We would also guess that in the past a large percentage of it was mailed after 5:30 p.m. In many cases this was a necessity, because traffic during business hours did not permit time for correspondence and writing orders. The businessman's working dows not end when he closes his doors to customers.

It is our opinion, in spite of what the postal department says, that the change will result in 24-hour later delivery rather than 24-hour earlier delivery. This will be caused by the fact that businessmen can not complete their correspondence in time to meet the 5:30 p.m. deadline and a day's delay will result.

It is also our opinion that the postal department did not give serious consideration to working the Soo Line schedule into its pattern—either in entirety or in part. The change may have its advantages but they are not in the best interest of Thief River Falls and other communities which have previously been served well by the faithful railroad.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"Most of the beautiful things in life come by twos and threes, by dozens and hundreds. Plenty of roses, stars, sunsets, rainbows, brothers and sisters, aunts and cousins, but only one mother in all the wide world."

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A man who had just been admitted to the hospital heard a sharp knock on the door of his room. He called, "Come in," and a snappy little woman entered.

"I'm your doctor," she said. "Please take off your clothes."

"All of them," he asked.

"Yes, all of them," she replied impatiently.

He removed all of his clothing and she examined him thoroughly from head to toe. When she had finished she said to him briskly, "You may now get into bed. Have you any questions?"

"Just one, doctor," answered the patient. "Why did you knock?"

FARMING TODAY

by your County Agent

Paul Stelmaschuk

PENNINGTON COUNTY CROPS

Seeding in the county was completed last week with the planting of millet and corn. Some fields planted a week earlier were up last week. With higher soil temperatures some crops were reported above ground in five to seven days. Edgar Naplin of Polk Center had some oats emerge in five days. Clayton Mathson of Rocksbury had corn come up in a week.

Some farmers reduced acreages planted due to the lateness of the season. Wet conditions in pockets prevented seeding. An estimated 10 per cent reduction in acreage, which farmers would have planted, occurred in the county. On over 200,000 acres of cropland this is about 20,000 acres.

Generally speaking the late seeded crops have emerged well but will need rains and cool weather to grow and fill. If Jack Frost stays away until September 21, which is the average date for a killing frost, then the late crops could come through. Late-seeded grains need the three conditions—moisture, moderate temperatures and an open fall to reach maturity. Let's hope we get this combination. We are due.

A switch to flax, corn, sunflowers and millet was noted as farmers made adjustments in planting. It's good to have specialty crops like millet and sunflowers to turn to in a year like this.

PESTICIDES REQUIRE PROPER CARE AND STORAGE

Pesticides, when properly handled, are an essential part of the insect control program.

It is extremely important to store and use all pesticides properly, comments John Lofgren, extension entomologist at the University of Minnesota. Children, livestock and adjacent crops may be injured by improperly applied or stored pesticides or by drifts of the chemical.

Lofgren gives 12 general precautions to 4-H'ers and others who will be using pesticides in their gardens this summer:

-Always read the directions on the label completely before using sprays or dust. Note all warnings and cautions before opening the container.

-Store pesticides out of reach of children, preferably under lock and key. Keep the chemical away from food and feed.

-Keep sprays and dusts in original containers only tightly closed.

-Do not smoke or eat while spraying or dusting.

-Do not spill sprays or dust on skin or clothing. If you spill remove contaminated clothing immediately and wash thoroughly.

-Wear protective clothing and mask if suggested on the label. Try not to inhale sprays or dusts.

-Wash hands, face and clothing after spraying or dusting.

-Cover food and water of livestock and pet areas. Do not contaminate fish ponds.

-Use seperate equipment for applying hormone-type herbicides to avoid accidental injury to susceptible plants.

-Dispose of empty containers properly and immediately.

-Keep residue on edible protions of plants within the limit permitted by law.

-Call a physician or get the patient to a hospital immediately if symptoms of illness occur during or shortly after spraying or dusting.

Insecticide recommendations, dilution tables and description of insecticides are compiled in Extension Bulletin 263 "Insecticides and Their Uses in Minnesota," available at your county agent's office.

Green Fee Play Now Terminated At TR Golf Club

Local residents who desire to golf but are not members of the Thief River Golf club are reminded that play for green fees terminated on July 1, according to James Solsten, club president. Local persons may continue to play for green fees on Mondays only for the remainder of the season.

Purpose of this club policy is not to discourage local residents from playing on the course, Solsten said, but rather to encourage them to become full members of the club and help support the club program. The local course is recognized as one of the finest in the area.

Solsten also reminded golfers that the next tournament at the local course will be the Aquacade Open on Sunday, July 25. The shortstop tourney open to all area golfers will be the opening event of the annual Thief River Falls Jaycees Aquacade.

Youths Held on Robbery Charge At Baudettte

Following preliminary hearing in Baudette Monday afternoon, Donald James Jensen, 17, and Allen Edward Levasseur, 17, were bound over to district court by Judge John R. Krouse on a charge of simple robbery. Bale was set at $1,000 for each of the defendants.

The charge arose from an event of June 21. Al Larson of Baudette reported to authorities that as he walked to his home in the village tourist park at about 11 p.m. a large wet rag was thrown over his head and he was thrown to the ground and robbed of all the cash in his possession.

The case of a third youth, 15, investigated by police in connection with the incident, was tried in juvenile court.

Sorensen Attends Land Bank Meet In Minneapolis

Harold Sorensen, manager of the Federal Land Bank association of Warren, returned Saturday from Minneapolis where he attended a conference of Federal Land Bank associations of Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin and North Dakota. He was accompanied by Glenn E. Johnson, assistant manager.

In commenting on the conference, Sorensen stated that the demand for credit in agriculture remains strong, mainly because of farm business expansion and mechanization of operations. He noted that the 75 Federal Land Bank associations at the conference had loaned $61 million through May, or 29 per cent more than the same period a year ago.

The Federal Land Bank association of Warren serves farmers in Marshall, Pennington, Kittson, Roseau and Red Lake counties and has more than $6 million in loans outstanding at this time.

Practices Tour On Conservation Held Last Week

Approximately 35 people participated in the conservation practices tour held in Marshall county last week, according to Frederick L. Heck, soil conservation agent. The educational tour was a combined effort of the county extension office, county ASC office, county SCD office and Warren Chamber of Commerce. Included in the tour stops were:

Alvarado ball park and the weed control in trees with the chemical simazine, done by Charles Bosard; new and old tree shelterbelts and new ditching on the Edman Bros. farm; the A-2 practice of permanent cover; bush willow snow catch on the Dennis Dagoberg farm; and field drainage or C-9 practice on the Arthur Swanson farm;

Also wider spaced trees planted between the Vernon McFarland and Clarence Strandberg farm; one section of carefully planned drainage on the Donald Rivard farm, including a large central drain plus many lateral feeder drains; livestock watering pit on the Clem Zabinski and Son farm and feeder enterprise; effects of high lime soil on newly planted farmstead windbreaks; and livestock watering pit at the Milton Anderson farm. Final stop was at the University of Minnesota experimental planting plus other trees seeded in 1918-1920 on the land of Supreme Court Justice Oscar Knutson.

Andrew Strandquist of the ASC office, John Polley of the SCD office and Fred Heck of the county extension office all gave comments on various practices during the tour.

ASCS area supervisor Evert Shumacher gave a summary of the tour by stating that these practices are a concern of everyone. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is concerned with keeping our soils fertile and protected from erosion. Also, the cost shares paid through ASC are not considered a handout in that most cost sharing is less than 50 per cent of the cost of the practice. Rather, he said, they feel they are purchasing long time conservation many times worth what the public through the ASC office puts into the program.

He also told the group of farmers, homemakers and businessmen that having a good agricultural economy in a rural area is of vital concern to everyone. The businessmen need this and the housewife sees her food dollar go farther.

Gonvick Man Is Beaten Saturday In Farm Robbery

Edwin Sennie, an itinerant farm worker, was jailed by Clearwater County Sheriff Mel Brustad Saturday night following the beating and robbing of Gilbert Svaleson, a hired hand, at a farm south of Gonvick. The arrest was made by Palmer Petterson, a Gonvick police officer.

Charges were brought against Sennie on Monday following investigation of the case by the sheriff's office. Svaleson reported that Sennie came to the Henry Johnson farm, where both men were employed, at about 8:30 p.m. Saturday and demanded money. Svaleson refused, and Sennie started hitting him and continued until Svaleson gave him $15.

During the beating, 14-year-old Robert Johnson came home. Sennie demanded that the youngster drive him into Gonvick, since the party who had accompanied Sennie to the farm had fled the scene when Sennie started beating Svaleson. Sennie was arrested soon afterward.

Svaleson has been employed at the Johnson farm for many years, and Sennie for about two months. Sennie had received his check Friday night, Mrs. Johnson reported, and did not work Saturday. Sennie gave no permanent address to Sheriff Brustad.

There are 168 missionaries serving on seven mission fields with 50 new missionaries in the process of completing candidate training.

The three EFCA educational institutions report an anticipated enrollment for the 1965-66 school year of at least 825 students. Rep. Fitzsimons At Legislative Advisory Meet

Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle attended the regular quarterly meeting of the legislative advisory committee in the office of Governor Karl Rolvaag on Monday of last week. The LAC is composed of the chairmen of the House and Senate finance and tax and the governor comprise the LAC committee.

The Monday meeting was the last meeting of the current biennium of the state as the new fiscal year begins on July 1 for the state of Minnesota. Most of the business was just routine in nature and only a few requests were made for new positions above the regular complement as directed by the legislature.

Two major requests were granted by the committee. The Committee granted $54,451.50 to pay bounty claims that had been received by the state auditor up to June 22. Since Governor Rolvaag vetoed the bounty bill that contained funds to pay bounties for the coming biennum as well as those claims for the remainder of the present biennium, without the action of the LAC committee these claims would not have been paid.

A request from the Railroad and Warehouse commission for $77,928 to implement an efficiency study in the grain inspection division that was the result of an earlier LAC grant was allowed. This request received strong support from the Minneapolis Grain exchange and the Northwest Country Elevator association because the grain business has become highly competitive and Minnesota must exercise every bit of efficiency in its operations in the grain inspection division to maintain its position. This is especially important to Red River Valley farmers and businessmen because of the important position of grain sales in the economy of the area, Rep. Fitzsimons said.

Langen Affirms Patriot Wisdom On July Fourth

Congressman Odin Langen Sunday reflected on the 189th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in his annual Fourth of July statement.

"The men who signed the Declaration of Independence knew that it was quite possible they were signing their own death warrants, as indeed some of them were," said Langen, "but there was no flinching in their bold signatures.

"The years that have transpired have proved the wisdom and vision of that document," he added, "which has since been transformed into our constitutional government and our history of successful democracy.

"In this year of 1965, we are enjoying the comforts and prosperity that resulted from the work and vision of those men 189 years ago. Freedom, however, is never guaranteed forever. It has to be protected and reaffirmed by each succeeding generation if it is not to be lost.

"As we reaffirm the principles of the Declaration of Independence, we are fortunate to be able to draw upon the successful experiences of those who forged the freedoms we now enjoy."

Phone Users Will Have Reduction In Bills in January

Minnesota telephone users will get an automatic reduction in their bills next January when the telephone excise tax is reduced from 10 per cent to 3 per cent, according to Paul A. Rasmussen, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission.

Effect of the bill, repealing many federal excise taxes recently enacted by the Congress, is to reduce the telephone tax from 10 per cent to 3 per cent effective January 1, 1966, and to shave an additional one per cent each January until the tax is completely eliminated by 1969.

In addition, the 10 per cent tax on private communication services will be dropped next January 1. This includes charges for PBX switching and stations and virtually all private line services.

Rasmussen explained that the reduction in telephone bills will be automatic because the excise charges have never been included in telephone rates, the telephone company having been merely a tax collector for the federal government. Therefore, when the reduction takes effect it will be reflected immediately on all telephone services. The telephone users in Minnesota will have their annual telephone bills reduced, starting Jan. 1, 1966, by $11,673,000.

The two men made the trip to become more acquainted with procedures of the department in order to be better qualified as auditors for local school districts. All annual reports by school districts must be audited by independent auditors following the end of the school year on June 30.

Veterans Given Opportunity for Life Insurance

Shouls some unexpected tragedy befall a veteran, he can still be sure that his son will have a good start toward a higher education—and for as little as 75 cents a week, according to John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul.

Murphy was referring to the opportunity certain disabled veterans now have to purchase GI life insurance at extremely low rates if they have less than $10,000 of their original GI insurance in effect.

A $2,000 modified life GI policy can be obtained by eligible disabled veterans for as little as $3.06 a month. In a state university, $2,000 will pay practically all tuition expenses for four years.

A $1,000 modified life policy which would give a youngster a good start toward a college degree can be obtained for as little as $1.74 a month or 44 cents a week.

Murphy pointed out that many disabled veterans eligible for the reopened GI insurance may have decided that a full $10,000 policy is beyond their means, not realizing that a lesser amount may be purchased. A veteran preferring a 20-payment life plan to the modified plan can obtain $1,000 in coverage for $2.86 a month or $2,000 for less than $1.35 a week.

Murphy said that the examples given above were based upon age 45, the average age today for veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict. The cost would be less for younger men and slightly more for older veterans.

For further information, applicants may write, telephone or visit the VA center at Fort Snelling.

Fair Weather To Continue Here; Crops Look Good

Fourth of July celebrators who flocked to the lakes and campgrounds were treated to fine weather during the long weekend. Stiff breezes and cool temperatures were offset by generally fair skies.

Farmers have also benefitted by weather conditions, according to the crop report released July 1 by the Soo Line railroad. The report states that northern Minnesota stands are excellent but two weeks behind average. Moisture is plentiful. Early grain is in the shot blade and potatoes and beets are making excellent growth after a late start.

More of the same is today's forecast. Continued fair skies are predicted today, tonight and tomorrow with cooler temperatures tonight and a warming trend tomorrow. Highs today will range from 75 to 82; lows tonight from 48 to 55.

North Central Airlines recorded the following high and low temperature readings at the municipal airport: 83 and 50 on Saturday, 79 and 62 on Sunday, 74 and 45 on Monday, 79 and 56 on Tuesday and a low this morning of 60. No precipation occurred during the period at the airport, but a heavy shower drenched Thief River Falls about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

ENTERED in the Miss America preliminary pageant to be held Saturday, July 31, at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls is Peggy Grahn, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brynolf Grahn of rural Roseau. Roseau Girl Seeks Title at Aquacade

Times Editor

(Editor's Note: The following is the first in a series of feature articles regarding the candidates for the Miss Aquacade title on Saturday, July 31, in the Lincoln high school gymnasium in Thief River Falls. The winner will reign as Miss Thief River Falls for the coming year and represent the local Jaycee chapter in the Miss Minnesota pageant in Austin next spring.)

Peggy Darlene Grahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brynolf Grahn of rural Roseau, is the first entry in the Jaycee Aquacade pageant. Eldest daughter in a family of eight children, she is interested in music, enjoys horseback riding, cooking, baking and experimenting with hairdressing.

Peggy is 17 years of age, five feet eight inches tall and weighs 130 pounds. She has dark brown hair, brown eyes and a 37-25-37 figure. Her talent number in the pageant will be a vocal solo.

Music has played a major role in Peggy's school acitivities. She studied voice with Mrs. R. S. Rice in Roseau for three years, was a school band member for six years and chorus member four years. As a sophomore she received a B rating for her vocal solo in district music competition and as a junior and senior received A ratings at both the district and state area festivals.

As well as church solo work, Peggy has sung at the prom and other local meetings and school activities. She played second chair clarinet in the concert band last year and was a member of the clarinet sextet which received district and state area A ratings in 1964 and 1965. Her music background also shows membership in the chorus and band councils.

Last year her class presented the play "Tom Jones" which required some elaborate hair styles and Peggy did the hairdressing for the entire cast. She also participated in speech contests for two years and was a member of radio club, Future Homemakers of America and the Girls Athletic association.

Among her hobbies she lists music as a first, but also likes to cook and bake. She makes breakfast for the family every morning and does much of the meal preparation for the household. With three horses on the farm she also enjoys riding, and for two years she skated in the ice follies at Roseau. Badminton, baseball and dancing are other favorite sports, but Peggy believes that hockey can't be beat for spectator thrills—especially when the Roseau Rams are on the ice.

Peggy's father's farm is located five miles southeast of Roseau. Her brothers and sisters include Gary, 16; Patty, 14; Mike, 11; Rebecca, 9; Jonathan, 7; Priscilla, 5; and Stephanie, 1.

Firemen Answer Two Calls; One Is False Alarm

The past couple of days have been interesting ones for Thief River Falls firemen, who were called out on fire-fighting missions early Tuesday and Wednesay mornings.

At 2:25 a.m. Tuesday firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Martin Strom at 402 Red Lake Boulevard where a refrigerator motor on the back porch had caught fire. The fire spread to the porch, but could not get ventilation in the enclosed porch and burned itself out before firemen arrived to the scene. The porch was extensively damaged, and some smoke damage ocurred in the house.

At 4:20 a.m. Wednesday firemen again responded to the wailing siren, but this time the fire-fighting equipment was needed even less. The call came from an individual who had seen insecticide spewing from the city mosquito fogger and mistook the mist for smoke.

Tetanus Clinic Is Slated July 28th

Dr. H. P. Wendt, Thief River Falls health officer, has announced a tetanus toxoid clinic to be held Wednesday, July 28, in Thief River Falls. The clinic will run from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. and will be held in the lobby of the rehabilitation unit in Northwestern hospital. The north entrance of the hospital will be used by persons attending the clinic.

An unique feature will be the use of a hydro-jet gun for administering the shots, Dr. Wendt said. Capable of giving a large number of immunizations in a short time, the machine is hydraulically operated and blows a fine spray beneath the skin surface to provide the tetanus proection. No needle is used for the injection. Cost will be 25 cents per person.

Dr. Wendt emphasized that persons of any age who have not had tetanus immunization in the past six months should receive the shots. Persons subject to puncture-type wounds—particularly children, rural people and sportsmen—are especially encouraged to attend the clinic. These wounds are frequently unattended and are potentially dangerous.

Each year in the United States there are about 200 deaths caused by tetanus (lockjaw). This may be compared with polio which caused no deaths last year. There is no pain or fever reaction to the shots, Dr. Wendt said. The clinic is sponsored by the Northwestern hospital medical staff with clerical assistance to be provided by volunteer workers.

Jaycee Aquacade Committee Holds Meeting Tuesday

Kozojed is in charge of the teenage dance.

Thief River Falls Jaycees have budgeted $2,620 for the annual Aquacade with major expenditures being for publicity, parade, pageant, booklet, dance, trap tournament and Sunday events including the free fireworks display. Income budgeted will be derived from concessions on August 1, pageant ticket sales, program booklet advertising, dance admission and booster button sales. Buttons were distributed at the Jaycee meeting Tuesday evening and are now on sale by members of the local chapter.

Dr. Goodrich called attention to the growth of the Aquacade from a water ski show to the full week of activities planned this year. Last year the parade and pageant were witnessed by good crowds and the fireworks display—the first in this city in a number of years—was viewed by several thousand people.

"We would like the public to note that the pageant and the teenage dance are the only events during the week for which there will bean admission charge," the chairman said. "Entry fees will be charged for the golf tournament and trap shoot but spectators may witness both of these events free of charge. All other events are open to the public without cost. We are relying on our sale of booster buttons to pay the expenses for these events."

Marshall ASC To Accept Winter Cover Practices

On July 19 the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office in Warren will begin to take requests for stubble mulching and winter cover practices, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the county ASCS committee. Anyone who is going to carry out these practices should place his request at the office before starting the practice. The practices are as follows:

D-1. Establishment of vegetative cover for winter protection from erosion.—A good stand and good growth must be obtained in sufficient time to protect the area in the fall and winter of 1965 and must be maintained on the land until the spring of 1966. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted, but none of the growth may be harvested for hay or seed, except that the state committee may authorize the harvesting of the growth for hay or silage in areas where it determines that a serious shortage of hay or silage exists due to adverse weather conditions and the growth harvested is needed for use on forms in the area.

"The minimum seeding per acre for oats, barley or rye is three pecks and for flax one peck. The flax seeding must be made by Aug. 15, 1965. Rye seedings must be incorporated into the soil by June 15, 1966. Volunteer stands will not qualify for cost-sharing. Maximum federal cost-share for oats is $0.50 an acre and $1 per acre for barley, rye or flax.

E-1. Stubble mulching to improve soil permeability and to protect soil from wind and water erosion.—one of the primary purposes of this practice is to encourage stubble mulching of land from which small grain crops or flax have been harvested, rather than having such land fall plowed and left unprotected from wind and water erosion over winter. A stubble mulch must be maintained by performing tillage operations which will leave sufficient crop residue on the surface or mixed in the upper part of the soil to provide protection against wind and water erosion. No federal cost-sharing will be allowed if the acreage has been burned over or grazed. Maximum federal costshare will be $0.50 per acre.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Minnesota concrete drain tile manufacturers, who produce over 30 million linear feet of drain tile each year, are continually looking for ways to insure a uniform quality product.

To help them along these lines, agricultural engineers at the University of Minnesota developed a drain tile testing machine which can accurately determine whether the crushing strength of drain tile will pass a predetermined load requirement.

Philip W. Manson, professor, and Alden E. Domning, senior mechanic, both in the university's department of agricultural engineering, constructed and tested a number of different hydraulic, spring-dynnamometer and beam-type machines.

What was the result? A reliable, low-cost, easy-to-operate machine was developed which incorporates the principle of a simple beam that acts as a lever to apply a predetermined pressure to the tile. Cost of the materials needed to build the machine is about $60.

A description of materials needed plus the manufacturing procedure recommended for construction of the Minnesota simplified drain tile testing machine are available in a report published recently by the university's agricultural experiment station.

Copies of miscellaneous report 62 are available from county agricultural agents or from the Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

According to Manson and Domning, the machine will test tile with diameters up to 36 inches and with lengths up to 30 inches.

They point out, however, that the machine does not have a sliding scale to record the exact crushing-strength load. Instead, weights are placed on the beam stirrup to apply the desired load.

For the testing of drain tile, weight combinations of 700, 800, 900, 1,100 and 1,300 pounds per foot length of tile are recommended. For any set load up to 5,000 pounds, the accuracy of the machine, when properly constructed, is plus or minus two per cent.

The testing machine can accurately and quickly measure whether or not a tile is of "standard quality" by making the crushing-strength test with 800 pounds of pressure per linear foot on the tile.

Manson and Domning explained however, that under no conditions should the crushing-strength test, as conducted on their machine, be construed as the method for determination of "extra quality" or "special quality" tile.

They explain that ASTM specification requires the five-hour boiling absorption test for "extra quality" tile, and both the 10-minute soaking and five-hour boiling absorption text for "special quality" tile, in addition to the crushing-strength test.

One important feature of the machine is a cam and lever arrangement that makes possible the smooth and easy application of the load. Construction of the testing machine is such that it will not easily go out of adjustment.

Development of the testing machine was financed chiefly by funds from the American Concrete Pipe association and the Minnesota Concrete Drain Tile Manufacturers association.

There is little argument among farmers, country bankers or tax assessors that important differences in value exist between different parcels of farm land. This difference in value is usually closely related to soil productivity.

Important as these productivity differences are to everything from tax appraisal to buying land, there has been a lack of concise information on how to evaluate productivity of different soils.

A new regional bulletin, "Productivity of Soils of the North Central Region of the United States," helps fill this gap. The estimated yield tables of this publication for major soils provide a yardstick for converting Webster clay loam and Hubbard loamy sand into bushels of corn and tons of alfalfa.

Since the North Central region covers 12 states from North Dakota to Ohio and Michigan to Nebraska, relatives productivity of soils can be compared over a wide area. The bulletin was prepared by a committee of soil scientists from the Midwest. R. H. Rust, soil scientist at the University of Minnesota, was responsible for assembling the yield tables and served as chairman of the sub-committee during the final steps of publication.

Along with soil differences, the level of management is recognized as an important factor in yield averages. For this reason, two management levels, average and high, have been defined and yield estimates are given for each soil in terms of these levels of management.

Flanagen silt loam, which occurs mainly in Illinois, is assigned the highest corn yield estimate of 108 bushels per acre of the major soils. Tama silt loam ranks highest of any Minnesota soil, with 101 bushels. Since these estimates are for a 10-year period, annual yields may vary 20 per cent above or below these figures.

The important Nicollet and Webster corn soils are ranked at 70 and 67 bushels respectively. Reflecting the usual moisture deficiency in western Minnesota, Barnes loam is ranked at 47 bushels and the more level Aastad at 56 bushels.

A total of 337 soils are included in the tables, and yields are estimated for corn, oats, wheat and soybeans for most soils in addition to hay and pasture crops. Yields of forest crops in terms of board feet or cords of wood are given for selected soils.

This bulletin, North Central Region Research Publication 166, is available from the Agricultural Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 55101. A companion bulletin, NCR No. 76, is also available and provides a map of the soils evaluated. A $2.00 charge is made for each publication.

Questions on community watershed projects can find many answers from local Soil Conservation service technicians in soil and water conservation district offices.

Flood damage during peak storms and periods of high spring runoff are problems facing many communities. Along with floods comes silt.

Where does the silt come from? Usually, from gully erosion and sheet erosion from productive cropland, according to Howard Midje, planning engineer with the watershed work plan party in the St. Paul SCS state office. Through a watershed project, Midje points out, a community's economic condition can be improved by correcting poor farming practices that cause rapid runoff and soil erosion.

Land improvement on individual farms can be brought about by soil and water conservation practices and through measures to control gully erosion. Flood control structures can be constructed to reduce flooding and silt damage. The structures are often to costly for an individual or local group; and public law 566 permits the federal government to share in the cost of building them.

Are land problems found only on sloping terrain? Non, says Midje. Many farms have imperfectly drained soils. Proper agricultural water management, Midje says, can lead to more full utilization of the productive land, with community-wide benefits.

Wildlife habitat development and trout stream improvement can be included as part of a watershed project.

Many small communities seek more industry, but may be limited by lack of water. Many industries require a large water supply for processing or for cooling and air conditioning. Without an ample water supply, Midje says, a town cannot expect to grow.

Furthermore, with industry comes population increase which steps up the uses of the precious water supply.

Then there are recreational developments, more important in the last few years. In addition to providing outdoor recreation, public parks and recreation areas help build the economy of the area surrounding them, according to Midje. Many farmers are turning to recreation as source of supplemental income.

Through a watershed project, Midje continues, water reservoirs can be constructed for multiple uses. These structures can provide flood control, water supply and recreational facilities. Such reservoirs usually provide considerable downstream benefits as well, he adds.

One result may be reduced cost in sizes of culverts and bridges. Another may be lower cost of future construction in the flood plain areas. Multiple purpose structures of this type are eligible for federal cost sharing.

Taking the Work Out of Gardening

Tending the home landscape can be a pleasurable and relaxing task—or it can be sheer drudgery. With the new concepts and garden aids available, the home gardener should have more time to enjoy his garden.

One common error in gardening is to increase the size or quantity of plants as time-saving devices are used. Don't increase the size of flower beds when time is already the limiting factor. If you resort to power equipment, use it to make existing work easier and to save time, not to enlarge your plantings. Select equipment on the basis of the job to be done.

Weeding the lawn can be done with chemical weed killers. Most of the broad-leaved weeds will be killed with 2,4-D chemicals. Be careful when using all chemicals. Be sure to read the label for instructions on time, rates of applications and special precautions.

Chemical crabgrass killers should be applied this spring. Hand weeding can be laborious this summer.

Tired of weeding the flower garden? Then consider a summer mulch. A mulch layer of two to three-inch thickness will control the weeds, as well as conserve moisture and reducing watering. Mulch materials such as commerical peat, sphagnum moss, ground corn cobs, compost or well-rotted manures are effective.

One suggestion for watering the flower garden is to use semi-permanent watering devices. Have them distributed so that the garden is watered uniformly at one time. This eliminates the moving of hoses and movement in the flower beds.

Postal Service - Curtailed

After serving us well for many years the Soo Line has to discontinue delivering our mail. However the post office department seems to think the trucks will be cheaper. Being our national holiday came on Sunday I can't send the news on Monday being there is no postal service today. The first mail trucked in came on Thursday, July 1. What really hurts is the transfer which will soon be made for our depot agent, Alton Henrickson, who is a good citizen, school board member; church usher, etc. and losing school aid for three students, not counting the assistance his wife has given to various community affairs. The small town will soon be a thing of the past.

Why Self-Service?

Furniture is not a commodity that is purchased every day and every week, and therefore furniture buyers are interested mainly in two things — Quality and Value.

Poppler's Self-Service Furniture Will Feature Quality and Value.

The New Store will make available to all buyers the best values in the price range they seek.

The Store must be stocked to meet the needs of all prospective buyers in terms of both quality and value.

IT WAS FOR THESE REASONS THAT POPPLER'S STRESSED SELF-SERVICE IN THEIR NEW STORE

One of our biggest expense items in the Furniture Business is in the delivery of purchases.

By cutting down on delivery costs we can offer better values, and a larger selection to our customers.

Merchandise Will Be Sold At A Special Self-Service Price

Free delivery will still be provided but a 5% discount will be given to all customers who will provide their own delivery service rather than asking for delivery service provided by the store. This, we hope will encourage self-delivery service.

TO JUSTIFY OUR EXPANSION WE MUST HAVE A GREATLY INCREASED VOLUME OF SALES. WE HOPE TO DESERVE THAT INCREASED VOLUME, WHICH CAN ONLY BE SECURED FROM SATISFIED CUSTOMERS.

Duck Count Indicates 78 Per Cent Increase

An aerial count of resident breeding ducks during the month of May showed a 78 per cent increase over 1964, with the greatest increase noted south of the Minnesota river, the Minnesota division of game and fish reported this week.

Ducks were counted from the air by flying transects or strips totaling 3,100 miles. Thirty-two such east-west transects were flown at 12-mile intervals between the Iowa and Canadian borders. The survey covered most of Minnesota except the northeastern one-third of the state which has low use by breeding ducks.

In addition, counts of ducks were made in waters along 540 miles of automobile census transects in 10 west-central and north-central counties. Because of the heavy storm and wet weather this spring there has been a 17 per cent increase in water areas, much of this being in depressions that are often dry.

Additional water has resulted in only a little increase in duck use of more permanent potholes and lakes, but there has been considerable use of the newly flooded areas, especially those that also held some water last year.

Blue-winged teal, which are normally the state's most abundant breeding duck, showed the greatest increase and are especially abundant in the southern, southwestern and extreme western portions of the state. Mallards, the state's second most numerous breeding duck, are at about the same level as in the two preceding years.

Although there was a considerable increase in mallards in northwestern Minnesota, this has been offset by decreases elsewhere. Breeding populations of diving ducks such as ring-necked duck, redhead and canvasback remain about the same or slightly lower than last year.

There is some increase in redhead ducks in southwestern Minnesota and a decrease in ring-necked ducks in the central part of the state. Pintail and shovelers which are primarily prairie ducks show an increase, although they are still not abundant.

Despite the increase in numbers of breeding ducks in Minnesota and reports of increases from the Dakotas, the duck population in the Mississippi Flyway is still considerably lower than it was in the 1950's, state game officials said.

Reports from Canadian breeding grounds, which have suffered from drought for several years, indicate good water conditions but little or no increase in breeding birds. This will affect waterfowl hunting because birds raised in Canada supply a large part of the bag of Minnesota hunters.

120 Have Tickets To Race Program In Winnipeg Sat.

More than 120 tickets have been secured by Thief River Falls area residents for Thief River Falls day at the races to be held Saturday at Assiniboia Downs in Winnipeg. Free tickets are available at the local Chamber of Commerce office and may be secured by any area residents desiring to attend the eight-race program which starts Saturday at 6 p.m. Daylight Saving Time.

Seven of the eight races will be named in honor of the visitors, reports Bruce Boreham, director of public relations at the track. A feature race will be named the City of Thief River Falls race and Mayor Orin Green will present a horse collar blanket inscribed with this city's name to the owner of the winning horse.

Boreham also reports that there is a dining room in the grandstand which opens by 4:30 p.m., and that there is plenty of parking space immediately south of the grandstand. Traffic delays may be avoided by taking the Perimeter highway cut-off south of Winnipeg and following this road directly to Assiniboia Downs.

Also of local interest is the fact that Al Holzknecht and Randall Carpenter of Thief River Falls have horses racing in Winnipeg. The Holzknecht horses have made 15 starts and recorded four firsts, seven seconds and two fourths—bringing home a check in 13 of 15 starts. Carpenter stable horses have made nine starts and recorded one first, one second, two thirds and two fourths—bringing home a check six times in nine starts. Holzknecht's "Final Jest" has won $2,715 with a first and two seconds.

All members of the club are asked to bring their horses if possible and to dress impersonating a western movie or television star such as "Hoss", "Kitty", "Paladin etc. Slides of the trip to Assiniboia Downs in Winnipeg will be shown by several club members.

Wild Goldfish Frequent Lakes Near Albert Lea

Wild goldfish are now common in the Shell Rock river and connected lakes near Albert Lea, the state game and fish division reported this week. Fisheries biologists Art Peterson, who has been working on watershed surveys in southern Minnesota, said the fish range in color all the way from gold to the olive bronze color of the original wild goldfish of Asia.

Peterson said they are probably descendents of fish thrown into the river from someone's goldfish bowl. Goldfish are closely related to carp, although they do not grow as large. The maximum size in lakes is about 18 inches and the top weight is 3½ pounds.

It is illegal in Minnesota to use goldfish as bait.

Beef Testing Is Offered Farmers By University

Minnesota's beef cattle breeders have an opportunity to participate in a beef testing program, a new educational offering of the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service. The program is being initiated this spring and summer for both purebred and commercial breeders.

Purposes of the program are to help cooperators as follows:

1. Identify superior cows and bulls that produce heavier and high grading calves.

2. Supply themselves with a stock of known background and proven gaining ability, efficiency and carcass merit.

3. Produce an end product acceptable to the consumer.

Breeders wishing to participate may do so through their county extension agents. The program is conducted, roughly, as follows:

First, cows and calves are identified and birth dates are recorded for all calves. After that, the program has three main phases.

At weaning time, about 205 days of age, calves are weighed and graded. At about a year of age, the yearling weights and grades are recorded. Some of the progeny, usually steers, are fed out and the carcass data is collected.

Selection of calves and culling of cows is done at each point. The carcass data helps primarily in progeny tests of sires. Sires that do best are the ones from which replacement heifers are selected.

The program is explained in detail in extension pamphlet 208 from the University, "More, Heavier, Meatier, calves through Beef Testing," authored by C. J. Christmas, R. E. Jacobs and R. L. Arthaud, extension animal husbandmen. County extension agents have copies.

Local Clerk Is Cited as Expert Figure Consultant

Mrs. Ann Gunderson of the J. C. Penney company in Thief River Falls has received her certificate as an expert figure consultant, according to Morris Goddard, store manager.

Mrs. Gunderson began her training by attending a two-day clinic last August, followed by three days of practical experience under the supervision of Jan [illegible]son, the company's foundation training director.

Following three months of actual store experience, Mrs. Gunderson passed a written test and received further supervised training. She then assisted with a clinic in Fargo, N. D., in May, at which time final evaluation was made.

Cost-Sharing on ACP Wildlife Practices Grows

Agricultural Conservation program cost-sharing assistance, primarily for wildlife practices, is being used increasingly by farmers to provide benefits to non-farm people, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. Such practices include establishing food, nesting and cover plots, developing or restoring shallow water areas for wildlife and building ponds for fishing.

Dahl pointed out that under this phase of the program, 1964 fiscal year expenditures for cost-sharing with farmers amounted to more than $1.4 million, or double those for the previous year.

In some areas, the program has generated considerable interest among sportsmen's groups. In one county, local sportsmen's clubs released a number of pheasants on land owned by wildlife practice participants. Where there is increased interest in the program it is sometimes possible for the county to be allotted extra financial assistance for additional ACP cost-sharing.

Chairman Dahl reminded farmers that ACP wildlife practices benefit them by improving the farmland, protecting it from wind and water erosion and by bolstering their income by providing additional recreational opportunities for non-farm people.

Girls Drowns in New Roseau Pool

After being open only a few days since completion, the new Roseau swimming pool has already been the scene of a drowning. The body of eight-year-old Carol Wiskow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wiskow of rural Roseau, was found floating in the pool Friday. The pool was crowded with youngsters at the time.

Lifeguards and a [illegible] applied artificial respiration, but were unable to revive the girl. Police chief Ted Heyen said there was a report that another youngster said Carol had slipped and struck her head against the side of the pool, but this was not verified since the witness could not be located.

Otter Tail Power Company Requests Rate Reduction

Otter Tail Power company this week filed an application with the North Dakota Public Service commission for permission to place into effect as of September 1 new electric rates which will result in net annual savings of approximately $312,000 for its customers in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota.

The voluntary reductions, together with others effected by the company since mid-1963, brings the total annual customer savings from the rate reductions to more than $800,000.

Because of changing characteristics of the cost of serving various types of electrical load, the largest portion of the savings resulting from the current rate reduction—about $255,000 annually—will go to combined light and power customers of the company. Similarly, while all combined light and power customers will receive rate reductions, proportionately larger reductions will go to those customers located in smaller communities and in rural areas.

In addition to the savings being made available to combined power and light customers of the company, nearly $56,000 in net annual savings will go to residential customers. Other small amounts will go to various other classes of customers.

Langen Deplores Aid for Egypt

"Egypt's Nasser has outsmarted us again," Congressman Odin Langen said this week. "This unfriendly dictator must be laughing up his sleeve as he dips one hand into the pockets of the American taxpayer and embraces the Soviet Union with the other."

Langen was referring to published reports that cheering crowds greeted the first Soviet-aid wheat shipment to Egypt last week just a day after silence greeted the unloading of 21,000 tons of U. S. wheat at the same port. "The U. S. wheat is part of a $37-million food gift to Egypt," Langen explained, "and is being presented to Nasser in spite of last year's action by Congress condemning such foolish practices.

Congressman Langen noted that the Russian gift of wheat was originally purchased from Australia while the U. S. gift comes directly from the taxpayers of America, "which only proves again that sales of commodities to Russia cannot be depended upon to feed or benefit the Russian people, but might rather be used as competition for markets and favors with other nations around the world."

Bobby Ruud Is Talent Winner

Ten-year-old Bobby Ruud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chesile Ruud of Gatzke, won first place in the talent show held Friday evening at Stephen and received a $25 cash award. His winning number was a vocal solo and was selected from 12 numbers presented.

Since it didn't exist 25 years ago there is no fair way to estimate the cost. The same reasoning applies to the cost of today's prescriptions. Stronger Beef Market Is Expected for 1966

Judging from current beef cattle trends, several implications seem to hold for cattlemen in coming months, according to the economists at the University of Minnesota.

1. It appears wise to carry cattle to as high a finish as they deserve in the next few months. Underfinished cattle shouldn't be sold because of fear of market decline.

2. Low quality feeder cattle should continue to be avoided if they will go to slaughter in 1965. The price spread between high and low quality fed beef is wider than usual.

3. Cattle feeders should consider feeding programs that will send cattle to market during the first half of 1966, which may develop into another strong price period.

4. The futures market will probably continue to move up to where feeders may want to use it to hedge cattle now on feed for market toward the end of the year.

Extension economists Paul Hasbargen and Kenneth Egertson at the university base these implications on the current cattle situation and outlook.

Total marketings out of feedlots in the first three months of this year were five per cent above 1964, although the number grading choice or better was down 15 per cent -- largely because of a 50 to 70-pound weight reduction.

Lower marketing weights reduced total steer and heifer beef production of grades good or better by about 10 per cent, contributing to the 10 per cent improvement of prices over a year ago. Also, the price spread between grades has been much greater than the small differences existing a year ago when much heavy beef was marketed.

In contrast with fed beef, cows have been bringing lower prices than a year ago until just recently, because of a continued step-up in cow marketings. Currently, beef cows bring about the same as a year ago, while choice steers are $6 or $7 higher.

What, then, is the outlook? Cattle feeders reported that they intended to market almost half the total cattle on feed April 1 during the second three-month period of 1965. This would mean a four per cent reduction in total fed beef marketings compared with 1964. However, the lower market weight is holding actual fed beef supplies to levels about 10 per cent lower during this quarter.

During the third quarter, the situation points to total fed cattle marketings at about the same level as last year, but lower in the North Central states.

The number of cattle on feed in the weight group aimed at the fourth quarter of the year is expected to remain above year-ago levels on the July 1 cattle on feed report. But as the end of the year approaches, the October 1 cattle on feed report is expected to show a much smaller increase in this group than is now indicated.

Therefore, in projecting prices, the economists expect that choice beef prices will remain very strong during the summer months. The price peak is expected about midyear. The somewhat heavier supplies of both beef and pork will probably push beef prices down somewhat toward the end of the year.

Greenbush Man Named Law Clerk

Peter A. Quist of Greenbush, a June graduate of the University of North Dakota law school, has been appointed a law clerk to the Supreme Court of North Dakota, it was announced by Thomas J. Burke, chief justice of the court. The clerkship appoint was made pursuant to legislation passed in the last session of the state legislature authorizing the supreme court to employ two law clerks to provide judges with needed assistance in legal research.

SBA Authority Given to Approve Loans of $100,000

Effective July 1 the Minneapolis office of the U. S. Small Business administration will have full authority to approve direct loans of up to $100,000 and loans in participation with banks of up to $240,000, according to Harry A. Sieben, SBA regional director.

The regional office also has authority to handle servicing of accounts, including extension of term or other actions necessary, Sieben explained.

"This is the result of decentralization of SBA to bring the decision-making closer to the businesses being aided and to speed service," Sieben explained. "In addition the agency expects to save $2.7 million a year starting in fiscal 1966 by eliminating duplication of paperwork in Washington and the 68 regional offices and from continued improvement in employees' work performance."

The decentralized system permits continued improvement in the use of manpower, Sieben added. "Area administrators are in close touch with their field offices and can quickly shift personnel to eliminate impending bottlenecks and give speedier service."

"Another benefit is the authroity of the area administrators and regional directors to tailor their small business and related programs to the needs of communities."

SBA is charged with helping small firms to obtain financing, to overcome the effects of disasters, to buy from or sell to the federal government and to strengthen their management and production capabilities.

Haugsted on FBI Most-Wanted List

Allen Wade Haugstad

Allen Wade Haugstad, a hot-tempered Minnesota baker charged with a deadly family crime rampage, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Late on the night of February 19, 1965, Haugstad allegedly invaded his mother-in-law's home near Willmar, shot his estranged wife in the chest and head, killing her, and murdered his mother-in-law with three more gunshots, in addition to severely clubbing her about the head. Haugstad also allegedly shot his 7-year-old daughter in the head, seriously wounding her, and inflicted a superficial gunshot wound on his brother-in-law. This bloody spree of violence occurred three days after divorce papers were served on Haugsted and two days after he allegedly purchased a .22 caliber automatic pistol at a Willmar, Minnesota, store.

Upon indications that Haugstad had fled interstate, a federal warrant was issued at Minneapolis on March 3, 1965, charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

Haugsted, an accomplished baker, has also worked as a cook, handyman, janitor and motion picture projectionist. He has a lengthy juvenile arrest record for thefts and, in 1950, after conviction for grand larceny, he was sent to the Minnesota State Reformatory with a seventeen-month term.

A white American, who was born at Minneapolis, Minnesota, on January 13, 1931, he is 5' 10" tall, weighs 200 pounds, has a heavy build, medium complexion, brown hair and blue eyes. He has a small scar at the back of his head above the neckline, reportedly wears full dentures and walks at a quick, nervous pace with his toes pointed outwards. Haugstad is known as an avid outdoorsman and camper and a skilled cabinet maker.

In view of the brutal nature of the crimes for which he is sought and since he may be armed with a .22 caliber automatic pistol, he should be considered extremely dangerous.

Spare Tire Can Be a Lifesaver

That spare tire in the trunk of the car can be a lifesaver when it comes to rescuing someone at the lake or seashore this summer, according to the Minnesota AAA.

Water rescue demonstrations by police and safety groups have shown that a spare tire—wheel and all—can support four grown men in the water. It also is just as effective in the winter for rescuing persons who have fallen through the ice.

The AAA advices motorists to keep the spare at proper pressure, however. In addition to its use as a lifesaver, it does come in handy too....if the car has a flat tire.

Traffic Fatality Toll In State Is Down from 1964

At the end of April Minnesota was one of five states leading in the reduction of traffic fatalities for the year, according to a report by the National Safety council.

Minnesota showed a 19 per cent reduction in traffic deaths for the first four months of the year, according to the report. Rhode Island led with a reduction of 48 per cent; then came North Dakota, down 34 per cent; Oklahoma, down 25 per cent; and Montana, down 20 per cent.

Twenty-four states showed reductions and 26 showed increases in total deaths for the first four months. Throughout June, Minnesota was holding its fatalities at abou 20 per cent below the same period a year ago, according to the Minnesota highway department.

The nation as a whole was faring better on the highways for the first four months of the year. While traffic fatalities were two per cent above the 13,450 a year ago, preliminary reports indicate that travel was up three per cent. This indicates a rate of 5.0 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles of travel, slightly down from the 5.1 for the first months of 1964.

The safety council also reported there were about 500,000 disabling injuries for the first four months of the year. These were injuries that disabled persons beyond the day of the accident and do not include minor injuries.

"It is only by an effort of reason, to which fancy is averse, that I bring myself to believe that the sun shone as bright, that the sky was as blue and the earth as green two thousand years ago as it is at present. How ridiculous this seems; yet so it is!"

Free Enterprise Needed

More and more business leaders have been expressing deep concern over what they feel is a lack of understanding of the workings and values implicit in our free enterprise system of doing things. This worry is based, in substantial part, on surveys that indicate a woeful misconception of what that system has achieved, particularly among young people.

An eloquent appeal for better understanding was made by Robert C. Kirkwood, chairman of the board of the F. W. Woolworth company. Addressing a group of business and professional men, he set his stage in these words: "Those who have enjoyed the tremendous benefits of the free enterprise system . . . would be particularly remiss if, at this critical point in the nation's history, they failed to speak out in support of the concept that has made possible the highest standard of living achieved by any nation at any time in history."

Kirkwood fully realizes that the system is not perfect, but it has done an outstanding job of correcting deficiencies and righting wrongs. It is, in his words, " . . . the most remarkable method ever devised for producing and distributing wealth, goods and services . . . " As examples, he cites the fact that more than 70 million people are employed, despite the growth of automation; that our nation produces more than one third of all the manufactured goods in the world; and that our investment in capital plant, including such institutions as schools and hospitals as well as factories, is about three times as great now as when we entered World War II.

Despite all this, misinformation concerning our system abounds. Here Kirkwood also cites examples. Only one person in three thinks that investment in factories and machinery makes a major contribution to economic growth. More than half of the adult population believes that net profits of most business firms are equal to or exceed total wages paid, while fewer than one tenth know that payrolls substantially exceed profits. And a survey of high school seniors showed that too many of them thought American business was monopoly-ridden and that profits were exhorbitant.

These errors of belief matter deeply, in Kirkwood's view, " . . . because if the United States is to maintain its economic leadership, the private enterprise system must be permitted to function freely. And, since the attiude and action of present and future government administrations and Congress are actuated by public opinion and political pressure, it is essential to muster active and constructive support for the free enterprise system."

The Human Sacrifice

Farmers in the citrus and vegetable growing areas of the nation have been offered on the altar of the Great Society as an appeasement to the political gods in Washington. It is another example of how the individual is being trampled upon in the rush for popularity with the masses.

Government decree has forbidden the use of crops in the West. For years the "braceros" have assisted with harvest of these seasonal crops, providing farmers with a relatively sure labor supply and assuring that the crops will be harvested on the essential "right now" basis so necessary to profitable production.

People among the ranks of the unemployed in the West apparently considered it beneath their dignity to work in the fields. It has been more lucrative for them to collect their relief and welfare doles than to earn their keep in honest toil. With the elimination of "bracero" labor came an increase in wages—giving the fruit and vegetable farmer a one-two punch in the pocketbook.

Bureaucrats don't look at the situation in this light. Rep. Jeffery Coheland of California stated that increased wages and greater domestic employment on farm jobs "far have been claiming". He said " . . . the increased wages and increased employment have probably resulted in an increase in income of about $20 million this year for our farm workers — extra income going to that portion of our population that needs it most."

It is easy to understand why a good many farmers have had a belly full of government interference in their business. For some reason or another, the federal fathers have agreed that the farmers' investment in land, seed, fertilizer, irrigation, sprays, dusts, equipment and storage facilities come second. Primary consideration must be given, they believe, to those who have neither the ability nor the courage to take the same risks and who, more often than not, have been content to take the easy way out, take what is given to them and complain about their sad position in life.

We expect politicians to have broad views and to look beyond minute areas and problems. In some cases this must be done, and individuals will get hurt. It is a gross injustice, however, for these politicians to refuse to admit that damage has been done. We suppose the losses claimed by growers in the West are not so serious—unless you happen to be a grower. In that case they would be serious enough.

Citrus and vegetable farmers are not the only ones being hurt by federal fiat. Our own farmers in this area and those throughout the nation have been bewildered by the maze of farm programs developed, it is assumed, with their well-being in mind. The loudly-heralded salvation professed for each program to solve a problem has created more problems, more bureaucratic red tape, more controls and smaller income.

If the situation was not so tragic it would be humorous. By Washington standards, farmers are not people. They are statistics; they are units that can provide a given amount of food and fiber for a given number of people in a given amount of time; they are machines that can be regulated, turned on or off or traded in on better machines. If there is a human sacrifice in the world today, it is the American farmer.

Clank of Coins

Within about a year the familiar and welcome jingle of coins in a person's pocket may turn to a listless clanking. This will be the result of change in the nation's change—coins, that is. They're taking the silver out of money.

The coinage act of 1965 calls for the elimination of silver in dimes and quarters and reduction of the silver content in half dollars from 90 per cent to 40 per cent. Pennies, nickels and silver dollars would not be changed, but only the dollar has silver in it now.

It was announced that the proposed new dimes and quarters would be similar to the present nickel. They would consist of a core of copper with an outside lamination of a copper-nickel alloy. The new half dollar would have an outer layer of high silver content and a core with low silver content. As might be expected, it will will continue to be minted in the image of the late John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Shortage of silver is listed as the main reason for changing the coins. The government, under the present system, required up to six times the total annual production of silver for coinage alone. Industrial use of silver, for which no synthetic is available, has also increased. It is used in the manufacture of photographic film, dental supplies, mirrors and a number of industrial products.

We have not heard how the change will affect the delicate systems in coin-operated vending machines, but we are sure there will be some problems. One thing is sure with the new coinage proposed—the jingle of coins in the pocket will be replaced by a dull clanking. There is one consolation, however—church collections probably won't be as noisy as before.

More Than Fair

There were 37,235 firemen working in freight and yard service when the arbitration award went into effect. Today there are about 21,000. What happened to those who left

More than 90 per cent have been given other jobs on the railroads, or have taken some of the biggest severance allowances ever made in American industry and gone on to outside jobs, self-employment, college or other training.

Less than eight per cent are unemployed, according to the federal government's Railroad Retirement Board.

Of the men with more than 10 years' service who kept their jobs until promoted, retired, etc., about 6,300 have already been advanced to engineers' jobs, or removed by natural "attrition."

More than 5,000 with less than two years' service received severance pay that averaged more than $1,000 each.

2,250 part-time firemen had their choice of rights to available jobs or severance pay. Almost 1,100 took severance pay averaging $2,200 each.

Working firemen with two to 10 years' service keep their jobs until offered comparable positions with no loss in pay for five years. Of the 5,400 oofered such jobs, 83 per cent chose instead to take severance pay which averaged $5,600 each.

In total, the railroads have paid out $30,000,000 in severance pay to the firemen.

There should be no question about the railroads' treatment of its no longer needed firemen. The choices offered were more than fair.

"Swimmer's Itch" Now State Health Problem

Cases of schistosome dermatitis, better known as "swimmer's itch", are being reported to the Minnesota department of health by physicians, according to Dr. D. S. Fleming, director of the division of disease prevention and control.

Main symptoms are itching and a rash. The rash can be mistaken for poison ivy rash, chigger or insect bites, but it does not spread and it does not form watery blisters. It can occur on almost any part of the body. It appears most frequently on parts of the body unprotected by clothing.

"Swimmer's itch" usually begins with a prickling sensation when the water begins to evaporate from the skin. Welts with mild or intense itching may appear in 24 hours but it can take as long as 13 days before the rash appears. Most cases of "swimmer's itch" are mild and last only a few days. In severe cases there is intense itching, fever, pain, and swelling.

Children are more susceptible to "swimmer's itch" than adults, largely because their skin is thinner and they tend to stay in shallow water where the parasites concentrate. The simplest way to avoid "swimmer's itch" is to keep out of parasite infested lakes. Staying in the water for short periods of time with a hard rubdown with a coarse towel immediately after leaving the water reduces chances of infection. Phenolized calamine lotion often reduces itching.

Once a person contracts the infection, on successive exposures he tends to become increasingly allergic. In highly sensitized persons, even a small number of parasites on limited areas of the skin can cause severe reactions.

"Swimmer's itch" is caused by minute parasites in the water. These parasites, barely visible to the naked eye, are the larvae of certain schistosomes (blood flukes of birds and rodents.

During bird migration in the fall, schistosome eggs are deposited in surface waters with bird droppings. Each egg has a ciliated embryo. When the egg hatches, the embryo swims around in search of a suitable species of snail. After penetrating the snail, the embryo lives dormant in the snail until it is ready to leave the snail during the summer. To complete its life cycle, the parasite must re-enter the tissues of the proper bird or animal. Man is infected by mistake.

During the summer, myriads of these little tadpole-like organisms may be found floating on water surfaces over snail beds. Especially high concentrations occur during the afternoon or early evening. When the parasites make contact with the body, they burrow into sub-layers of the skin within 15 minutes. They usually die in 24 hours. They do not enter the bloodstream.

"Swimmer's itch" becomes a problem largely because some beaches most attractive for swimming also attract migratory birds and provide a natural environment favorable to the parasite-infested snails.

In some areas outbreaks can be controlled by removing snails from beach sites. Chemical treat*ment of lakes with wholesale de*struction of the parasites or snails is generally the most effective way. A permit must be obtained from the Game and Fish Division, Minnesota Department of Conservation, State Office Building, St. Paul 1.

Land Owners Buy 15,389,720 Trees

Of the 28,385,000 trees distributed from Minnesota forest nurseries this spring, nearly twice as many were purchased by private land owners as were supplied to public lands. Private land owners purchased 15,389,720 tree seedlings, over one-half of the total nursery production.

Nurseries are operated by the state forestry division of the conservation department and are located at Willow River, Badoura and the Carlos Avery wildlife area north of the Twin Cities.

Only four weeks were required to ship out all 28 million trees this year, while the usual shipping season is six to seven weeks. The start of the shipping season was delayed two weeks, however, because of the weather and nursery workers had to hurry in order to remove trees from the beds and ship them before new growth began to develop on the seedlings.

Forest nurseries re-seeded to replace over two million seedlings lost as a result of heavy rains in early June. The nursery beds were also seeded to supply trees for the spring distribution of 1968 when it is planned to have 35 million trees available.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Who would guess that just out of sight there's a six-lane turnpike! Thousands of people drive past this peaceful place every day, and never know it exists. Occasionally, through a break in the sheltering trees, someone glimpses shining water and green pastureland in the distance . . . then the road curves, and the lovely scene is forgotten.

Many travellers hurry along life's road with empty hearts and unseeing eyes, never realizing what the transforming beauty of the Christian faith could mean to them. Because they always expect to find happiness around the next bend, they overlook the still waters of spiritual peace.

In the quiet, hallowed atmosphere of the Church, God answers man's deepest needs. Through prayer and worship, our souls are strengthened and restored. And when we continue our journey, we are not alone, God is with us.

Rufus Olson Elected To Head School Board

Thief River Falls board of education completed its final business of the 1964-65 fiscal year Thursday evening and adjourned to permit the new board to organize for the 1965-66 year. Rufus Olson was elected chairman of the board to succeed Lloyd Howick.

Dr. Goerge Martin, elected to the board at the school election this spring, was elected vice chairman to succeed Morris Owen. Robert Bredeson was reelected clerk and Owen was elected treasurer to succeed Olson. Other board members are Howick, John Burtness and newly-elected D. H. Stewart. Stewart and Dr. Martin succeed Howard Hoel and K. Russell Anderson on the board.

Presenting his financial report which was approved subject to audit, Rufus Olson noted that the combined balance in all funds was $444,509 as compared with $380,405 at the end of the last fiscal year. Balance in the building fund was $201,479 as compared with $235,702 a year ago.

Much of the increase in the balance resulted from restoration by the 1965 legislature of the five per cent cut-back in state school aids ordered by Gov. Karl Rolvaag shortly after he took office. Since the local board was unable to anticipate the added income, it had set its budget for the past year on the basis of the cut-back ordered by the governor

Salary for school board members was also set at the meeting at the same rate as the previous year. Clerk and treasurer will each receive annual salaries of $250 each and the remaining board members will receive $5 per meeting up to a maximum of $75 per year. Treasurer's bond was again set at $25,000.

L. W. Rullen was reappointed as school district attorney with Union State bank and Northern State bank designated as official depositories for school district funds. The Times was again named the official newspaper for the district. Official meeting date for the board was set at the second Monday of each month.

ASC Community Elections Slated Monday, August 2

Minnesota ASC state committee, with Ben M. Wichterman of Plum-M. Lang of Mankato and Russell A. Johnson of Cokato as members, has set Monday, August 2, for ASC community elections. A community is generally a township, but in some sparsely populated areas it is comprized of multiple townships. Elections will be of the open meeting type with nomination and election by secret ballot.

In nomination, voters will place the name of any person they wish to nominate on a ballot. The three persons receiving the most votes will be the nominees and will subsequently be voted on. The person then receiving the most votes will be elected to a position on the community committee. Each position, from chairman to second alternate, will be voted on individually. Community committee terms are for one-year duration.

The one major change in committee duties is that all three community committeemen will be voting delegates to the county convention to be held August 9, at which time the county committee will be elected. In previous years only the community committee chairman was the delegate. Another major change, and perhaps most significant, is that county committeemen will be elected for a three-year staggered term instead of one-year terms.

Inasmuch as 1965 will be the first year to implement this new policy, it will be necessary to elect one committeeman for one year, one for two years and one for three years. The two alternates will be elected for a one-year term each. After the delegates have elected the three regular county committee members, the delegats will also vote to organize the county committee by electing a chairman, vice chairman and regular member.

Exhibits Sought For County Fair To Open July 22

Sixty-fourth Pennington county fair will open Thursday, July 2 for a four-day stand, according to Ray Oen, president of the fair board.

Imporvements in several departments have been made and superintendents again expect record entries. In the crops division, with Wilbur Hallstrom and Edgar Naplin in charge, the premuim money has been doubled. Exhibitors will now get two dollars for first premium and one dollar for second premium for all grains, flax, corn, sunflower, mustard, millet, sudan grass, grass and legume exhibits.

Premiums are also doubled for hay, legume, grass or mixed hay, silage, and haylage exhibits. Farmers are invited to bring in sheafs of these crops or seeds.

Garden exhibit premiums have also been doubled to one dollar for first and fifty cents for second premiums.

In exhibiting grain seeds, exhibitors must bring one quart samples. Seeds exhibited may have been grown in 1964 or 1965. The variety of seed must be attached. Sheafs of grain, grasses or legumes must be three inches in diameter. Hay samples are to be a three-inch slice of a bale or an equal amount of loose hay. Silage exhibits are to be one gallon in size. Garden exhibits vary depending on what is shown.

Everyone interested in showing crops or garden produce is urged to pick up a premium list at Thief River Realty, local banks, county extension office or from the superintendents in charge. The premium book covers amounts of crop or garden material to show and how to prepare the exhibits.

All area residents can show crops and garden exhibits without any fee charged. Further revisions, improvements and coverage of county fair events will be carried by the Times in the future.

Reelect Officers At School Board Meeting in M.R.

At the annual organizational meeting of the Middle River board of education, all officers were returned to their present positions. Anneus Nelson was again elected chairman and Milton Lundquist, vicechairman. Elected clerk was Charles A. Collins and named treasurer was John Sandberg. John Cwikla and William Halvorson are the other members of the board.

The Middle River State bank was designated official depository, while the Middle River Record was voted official publication. The treasurer's bond was set at $10,000.

In other actions, Supt. Robert Prickett and Anneus Nelson were designated to attend the July 13 meeting in Minneapolis called by department of education in reference to the recently-enacted federal legislation pertaining to schools. After some discussion, bids for tiling were tabled until the next meeting pending the receipt of further information.

John Sandberg, treasurer, reported that upon completion of the annual audit the district had a balance of $53,857.71. This compared with a balance of $44,010.91 a year ago.

Local Men Make Washington Trip

Lloyd Nelson and Fred Sorenson both of Thief River Falls, are among 85 men from 50 Minnesota counties scheduled to participate in the second Rural Minnesota "Legislative Fly-In" to Washington, D. C., July 18-20. The group will be made up about equally of businessmen and farmers, but will also include several professional men and state legislators.

The trip, like an early one June 13-15, is being arranged by the Minnesota Farmers Union, and will lobby for renewing and improving the farm programs. The group will travel by chartered airlines, arriving in Washington Sunday afternoon, July 18, and will be scheduled for two full days of visits and conferences on Capitol hill. Sessions are planned with Senators Eugene J. McCarthy and Walter F. Mondale, members of the Minnesota House delegation and key leaders on the agricultural committees.

Edwin Christianson, president of the Minnesota Farmers Union, said the series of "Fly-In" trips is designed to highlight the importance of farm income to the community and to the economy of the state and nation and to emphasize the need for farm legislation in this session of Congress.

Funds Provided For Red River Basin Program

The sum of $70,000 to be matched by federal funds has been appropriated by the 1965 legislature to develop a coordinated water use program for the Red River basin in northwestern Minnesota, according to Rep. Richard W. Fitzsimons of Argyle. The appropriation was made to continue the

The study, to be completed in 1968, will cost a total of $360,000 with the state and federal government sharing the costs equally. The appropriation made by the legislature this year will finance the third and fourth year of the study.

Rep. Fitzsimons outlined some of the specific considerations of the study being made by the U.S. Geological Survey and the Minnesota Conservation Department's division of waters. "The study is expected to establish the feasibility of a reservoir on Red Lake near Huot to provide additional flood control and to furnish water for domestic and industrial use, recreation, conservation of wildlife and water quality control.

"It includes consideration of the advisability of constructing a detention area in Clay and Norman counties to prevent flooding in the flatter western areas of the counties and the feasibility of a multiple purpose reservoir on the Wild Rice river to alleviate flooding and manage the water supply, as well as investigation of the entire Thief River basin to reduce flooding and improve drainage." The Wild Rice and Thief Rivers are manor tributaries of the Red River.

Furniture Plant On Reservation Being Considered

Negotiations are under way to build a furniture plant at Red Lake that would eventually employ more than 500 workers, according to a recent announcement from U. S. Senator Walter F. Mondale.

Sen. Mondale said a meeting was held in his office between representatives of Elsen Brothers, a Hoboken, N.J., furniture maufacturer, and representatives of the Red Lake Indian reservation to discuss the proposal. The Red Lake development corporation and the furniture firm are in the process of reaching a formal agreement. Then they will apply for a federal development loan to finance construction of the plant, the senator said.

The furniture plant would provide immediate employment for 200 to 300 residents of the reservation and eventually would employ more than 500, Mondale said.

Welfare Board Adopts Budget of $984,724

TROOP 53 of St. Hilaire, the newest Boy Scout troop to be formed in the area, received its official charter at a meeting in the St. Hilaire council room Tuesday evening. Morris Owen of Thief River Falls (center), member of the Lake Agassiz council executive board, is shown presenting the document to Richard Nelson, institutional representative of the St. Hilaire PTA, while Scoutmaster Harry Sjulson looks on. The troop was started by Cub Scouts of Pack 59, Thief River Falls, who lived in St. Hilaire and who, as they reached age 11, graduated into Boy Scouting. The troop now has nine members, but membership is expected to increase substantially in a short time. Assistant Scoutmasters are David Sorvig and John Drury.

Tasa Is Elected Board Chairman At Annual Meet

Adoption of a budget calling for an increase in expenditures of $152,000 in 1966 and election of officers for the coming year took place at the annual meeting of the Pennington county welfare board held Thursday morning at the county courthouse in Thief River Falls. Of the total increase, about $15,000 will come from county funds.

Glenn Tasa of Trail was elected chairman of the welfare board to succeed Odin Hanson of Thief River Falls. Carl Anderson of Red Lake Falls was elected to succeed Donald L. Olson of Thief River Falls as vice chairman and Merle Lindberg of Thief River Falls was reelected secretary. Other board members include Hanson, Olson, Mrs. H. O. Chomie of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Arvid Dahlstrom of St. Hilaire.

Budget is $984,724

The resolution adopted by the board was to accept the budget of $984,724 presented by Ronald Mooers, director, and to recommend adoption of the budget by the county board of commissioners. The total compares with a budget of $832,088 for the 1965 calendar year.

Discussion was held on a new financial assistance plan called Medical Aid for the Needy (MAN), which is included in the Medicare bill now being considered by the federal Congress. Passage of the bill is anticipated, Mooers said, and the MAN program is being incorporated into welfare programs in the nation. This program will provide medial payments previously made under old age assistance, aid to families with dependent children, aid to the disabled, aid to the blind and medical aid for the aged.

Because of increased federal and state participation in the welfare budget, and anticipated county surplus in excess of the budgeted amount, it is expected that the county can reduce its welfare levy by 1.8 mills next year. The surplus expected this year will more than cover the increased county expenditures budgeted for 1966.

Reasons Listed

Mooers listed several reasons for the $152,000 increase budgeted for 1966 over the 1965 budget. They included the following:

(1) Counties must pay full cost of persons over 65 in state institutions for mentally ill and tuberculosis. This is expected to average $200 per month per case, compared with the previous county share of less than $10 per case, the increase is expected to be more than $22,000.

(2) An increase of 10 per cent

Rep. Skaar Tells Lions Club of State Session

Thief River Falls Lions club met Wednesday at the Elks clubrooms with president Phil Kays in charge of the noon luncheon. Following the introduction of guests, president Kays turned control of the meeting over to program chairman Dr. Edward Gilbert. He had as his guest Rep. Andrew Skaar who spoke to the group on the 1965 session of the Minnesota legislature.

Rep. Skaar started his talk by going into some detail on the recent reapportionment bill adopted by this session and some of the attempts to defeat any type of reapportionment.

Skaar was also critical of the metropolitan press which seemed to project a poor picture of this session of the state legislature. He said the press made claims to the effect that the legislators were dragging their feet and not getting the job done. Much legislation was adopted, however, and Rep. Skaar felt a creditable job had been done by the legislators.

The representative went on to tell of other laws enacted by the session, and among them was the bill to establish a junior college in Thief River Falls. He also spoke on the appropriations of the session in regard to education and other state requirements on the fiscal budget.

Stage lighting and change of costumes will add to the effect of the presentation. Marvin Honore, the director, who has appeared at Metropolitan opera house and Carnegie hall, has toured America and Canada directing orchestral ensembles and singing groups for several years. Auto Thrill Show To Appear at Fair In TRF July 22

1965 Joie Chitwood Thrill show is scheduled to appear at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls Thursday, July 22, with a group of the nation's top stunt drivers displaying their skill and daring.

The 20 event program features new automobiles and motorcycles and almost every stunt possible in the way of daredevil driving will be attempted.

Highlight of the show will come when Jimmy Canton, acclaimed as the world champion of stunt drivers, broad jumps a stock model Chevrolet from one elevated ramp placed 85 feet down the race track. As his car flies through the air another new car will pass directly underneath in an aerial criss-cross.

As part of the stunt exhibition, stock cars will be crashed end-over-end at high speed while the drivers remain at the wheel in what is known as the crash-roll contest. Bumps Willert of Tipton, Iowa, has rolled his car over as many as 11 times in this event.

Another daredevil will attempt the slide-for-life when he leaps from the rear of a speeding car into a pool of flaming gasoline. In addition, motorcycles will be crashed through flaming board walls and leaped over parked cars.

LOOKING for someone? His residence might not be so difficult to find if there is a sign posted like the one above, located two miles northwest of Gatzke on the Gatzke-Middle River road. Painted by 83-year-old Anton Hall of Thief River Falls, the sign was featured in a national farm magazine and was recently the object of an inquiry from a county agent in Kansas. A similar sign is located near highway 89 on the Gatzke-Grygla road.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

You've been thinking about going places and doing things; about vacationing—via mental transportation (books) or physical transportation. You've undoubtedly been flying, physically or mentally, ever since summer began. Maybe you're tired of going places or thinking about going...so how about reading about...just people! Not just plain, ordinary, everyday people, but those who've ambled different avenues of life from your own hectic boulevard!

Your library has some new ones ready for the shelves...just about people! There is one just to suit your fancy!

Try "My First Hundred Years in Hollywood" by Jack Warner, with Dean Jennings, collaborator. The latter has two best sellers on his record "Confessions of a Happy Man" (the Art Linkletter story) and Warden Duffy's "The San Quentin Story". Jack Warner's story is interesting, amusing and full of what might be called 'name dropping". Warner has been acquainted with every great, near-great and most of the unknown of Hollywood and the rest of the world. His story is one to read if you'd like to know what goes on "inside—inside Hollywood" and the other side of the mountain.

Now, from the "royalty" of Hollywood, you might desire to visit the "royalty" of Europe. If so, borrow "The Mountbattens" by Alden Hatch. This is a three-generation biography and covers 100 years of spectacular royal history. This the author's 29th book, is certainly to be considered one of his best. The intimate story of one of England's greatest families is well worth reading...all 458 pages of it.

Another book about European royalty is one by Ian Vorres entitled "The Last Grand Duchess". This one, about her Imperial Highness Grand Duchess Olga Alexandrovna, gives the reader an interlude in Russian history that is tremendously interesting.

"Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy" by Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer is now on the shelf. This biography of the 31st First Lady of our land will have a waiting list for sure so better get your name on it early! Though written before the subject's widowhood, this book does take you through the doors of the White House and ends with the birth of "John-John". You'll see a side of Mrs. Kennedy you knew existed...her courageous one ...you'll find she's had it from the beginning of her life!

Two that are a bit different from the general run of stories about just people include "This Is My Country Too" by John A. Williams. The author is an American, traveling in his native land, driving a new white car. He's a Negro. Read his side of the story.

Truman E. Moore has written about people, too...two million strong! These are the migrant men, women and children and he has called his book "The Slaves We Rent". This one might set you back on your heels...just a bit!

There are those who enjoy historical figures as their "book-people". They should try "Men Against the Mountains". Alson J. Smith has written about Jedediah Smith and the Great South West Expedition of 1826-29. The hero of the book led the first Americans to reach California overland, if you recall.

"Salt of the Earth" by John H. Fenton (of New York Times Fentons) writes a lively informative volume on Richard Cardinal Cushing (a high-school drop-out, by the way, who became quite a well-known figure)!

Try "The Murder of Admiral Darlan" by Peter Tompkins if you care for dramatic international conspiracy. You'll catch up a bit on World War II history, and the author reveals some secrets...kept mighty quiet up 'til now!

So, visit your library for new books about people...people from sensation-seekers to historical heroes, poeple you've heard about, but have'nt had the opportunity to become really acquainted with...that is until now!

We'll see you at the library... where you always meet your old friends and have the chance to make so many new ones!

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

In a recent press conference, Minnesota's Hubert Humphrey came out definitely in favor of control of state legislatures by the large cities. As reported by Nick Kotz, staff correspondent for the Minneapolis Tribune, writing from Washington, Humphrey stated:

"Government is designed to represent people, not counties. The Supreme Court's 'one man, one vote' ruling was the best thing which has happened for the welfare of cities in many years." According to Kotz, Humphrey said the Supreme Court ruling requiring state legislatures to be apportioned on the basis of population gives cities the opportunity to have representative state government to cope with their problems. "The decisions being made now in reapportionment will determine the course of social progress in America for the next 100 years."

Acording to Humphrey, "It has been my experience that urban representatives have had consideration for rural people and their problems. Perhaps they have been more considerate than have rural legislators in considering the problems of cities."

Humphrey emphasized that by 1975, 80 per cent of the nation's populaton will live in cities.

That sums up quite clearly the thinking of Humphrey, always the adroit politician, and just what his campaign tactics will be during the coming decade. During that period he will give lip-service to his great love for agriculture and the smaller communities as he seeks to advance his own personal fortunes. But Hubert Humphrey has been, and is, one of the most dangerous men in America today. As one who seeks the highest office in the country, he already is appealing to the group that he believes will give him the greatest support.

My guess is that Hubert is guessing wrong in this instance and that he will not have solid support in the large cities on the basis of his appeal. Not all of the people in the heavily populated centers of the nation are shortsighted. A majority of them recognize, I believe, the wisdom behind the constitutional provision that requires representation in our federal Congress based on both population and area. In our federal Senate the small state, such as Minnesota, has just as much representation as the large states. The larger states, in turn, have more representation, in the lower house, based on population. That is as it should be.

Headlines shrieking about 500 arrests at resorts in six states highlighted the story of our Independence Day celebration. This story no doubt was flashed 'round the world to give aid and comfort to our enemies. The riots, it seems, were closely associated with excessive drinking that was carried on through the early hours of the following morning. There must be a remedy for this sort of thing. Maybe there is justification for a return of the public whipping post.

Several of my "friends" have asked me for my personal opinion about the justification for the salary boost the members of the legislature voted for themselves. While the question involves some of my former associates I will not "duck" the issue.

I am satisfied that some of the members deserved the higher salaries, and I am also satisfied that some were already overpaid. A smaller pay raise across the board probably could have been justified, which is another way of saying that the big pay raise they did vote themselves was excessive.

As state expenditures go the increase for the members of the legislature was a drop in the bucket. It was bad mainly because it opened the door for other spending increases that in the aggregate added up directly to a large sum. This increase made it impossible to hold the line on other state payroll requests.

It's greatest evil however probably will prove to be its influence on other payrolls thruout the state, both public and private. To whatever extent it encourages future pay increases, raising the bases and increasing the overall costs without regard to merit, will prove to be inflationary, adding fuel to the flame of inflation that already threatens our economy.

And so, to my friends, I will state that in my opinion the big pay increase was a blunder.

The Financial Post of Canada calls attention to the possibility possibility that, by 1975, "Canada and the U.S. could very well be in an unsplended isolation as the only two countries in the world still measuring in pounds, quarts and yards."

That, according to the Financial Post, certainly is a prospect if Britain goes through with its apparent determination to change over to the metric system. It is likely that Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, all of which rely heavily on trade with Britain, would also switch over.

Britain now does 70 per cent of its trade with countries using metric standards, and this, according to the post, justifies the change. And it asks the reasonable question, if Britain goes metric, can Canada and the U.S. stay far behind. Maybe it would be well here in our own backward country to start placing greater emphasis on the metric system in our own educational systems, starting with the elementary classes.

Walter Lippmann, writing in Newsweek, reminds us that he has visited Europe twice in recent months and he is far from happy with the present attitude of Europeans toward our country and our nation's present approach to international problems. In these recent months we have lost the confidence of many of our former friends he says, stating:

"—In that period of time there has been a spectacular decline in respect for United States foreign policy. Gaullist France is the only one of our European allies that can afford to be openly critical But we cannot enjoy any illusion about the kind of approval and support that we get officially from London, Bonn and Rome."

Lippman states that the official support and approval of these countries does not reflect conviction, but expediency and deference to our power and he concludes:

"Off the record in responsible quarters of government, in business, the arts and journalism, there is expressed a great loss of confidence in American leadership."

And Lippmann concludes his report with the following words of caution that deserve the serious consideration of all thinking American. He says,

"As our involvement in Asia mounts, as the casualties make our commitment deeper and wider, as we have to draw more and more heavily upon our military reserves, as the alternatives become victory or defeat, as face-saving and compromised solutions become more impossible, it will be increasingly evident that our primary preoccupation is the war in Asia. This is bound to mean to Europeans that we cannot and will not be able to play a great role in Europe. The West Europeans, including the West Germans, are bound to look less to the United States for leadership in a European settlement and more and more to a settlement that they themselves negotiate with the Soviet Union."

Welfare Board Adopts Budget For 1966 Year

in medical costs is anticipated for the coming year over 1965 costs.

(3) The state welfare department has authorized a nine per cent increase in food allowances for 1966.

(4) Increases are expected due to legislative action which removed the statutory limits on old age assistance and aid to the disabled.

(5) Costs of distribution of surplus commodities, a program recently instituted in the county, are in the 1966 budget.

(6) There is an expected increase in the general case load with monthly cases expected to total 240 on old age assistance, 76 on aid to dependent children, 25 on aid to the disabled and eight on aid to the blind. It is expected the new medical aid to the needy program will have an average of 406 cases per month at an average of $96 each.

Payments for recipients in 1965 will total $845,201 as compared with $695,610 last year. Current costs, including $63,838 for administration, are budgeted at $932,689 as compared with $780,174 last year. Surplus expected at the end of 1965 is $52,035 with a surplus of $51,914 budgeted for 1966. Surplus is used for the first months of operation in a new year until tax settlements are made.

Financing of the program next year will include $693,266 from government agencies—a substantial increase from $555,574 last year. Total income from county financing is budgeted at $287,158 in comparison with $271,564 in 1965.

Senator McCarthy Introduces New Bill on Dairying

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy said recently the dairy bill he has introduced in the Senate would provide benefits to dairy farmers and add flexibility to the existing dairy program. Senator Walter F. Mondale joined Senator McCarthy as a sponsor of this measure.

The measure would provide four changes in existing legislation:

1. Establish authority and procedures for federal marketing orders for milk used for manufactured dairy products. At present, marketing orders are only for milk for fluid use.

2. Establish a federal marketing order base plan for Class 1 milk. This would permit amending of federal market orders so that producers, instead of receiving a uniform blend price, would receive a higher return on milk for fluid use covered by allotments and a lower return for milk in excess of allotments.

3. Establish a butter subsidy provision to authorize the secretary of agriculture to make payments on butter fat at the processing level as a means of reducing prices to consumers, resulting in increased consumer purchases.

4. Authorize the President to order purchase of dairy products at a level abouve price supports when required to meet program requirements for foregn distribution of suplus dairy products. The President would exercise this authority after it had been determined that there is reasonable prospect for the development of commercial export markets by supplying surpluses to assist needy persons and social welfare and non-profit school lunch programs in friendly nations, Sen. McCarthy explained.

structed to call for bids on carpeting for the remodeled library at Lincoln senior high school. Sealed bids will be received until 3 p.m. on July 21 when they will be opened by the board.

A resolution was adopted by the board to participate in the National Defense Education act which provides funds for several school programs.

Salaries for faculty members conduction extra-curricular activities were set by the board and total $17,000—an increase of about $3,000 from the previous year. These activities include coaching for athletics dramatics, some musical activities and supervision for other activities other than normal academic or classroom work.

Activity fees were set at $4 for senior high school students and $3 for the junior high school. These fees permit students to attend athletic contests and several lyceum programs.

Secretaries at the four elementary schools in the city were placed on permanent salaries of $210 per month from September to June, based on a 40-hour work week. A high school equivalence certificate was granted to Earl Hellie. The Insurance company was awarded the insurance contract on school vehicles including school buses.

Supt. Hankerson also discussed with the board an application made under the Economic Opportunity act for a school psychologist, vocational counselor and speech therapist.

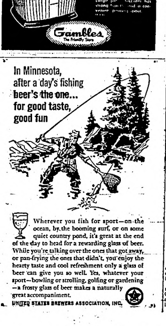
Gambles The Friendly Store



In Minnesota, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

Conservation Center To Teach State Youth

A limited number of 13 to 15 year-old Minnesota boys will have a unique experience in learning about Minnesota's natural resources this summer, according to Ted Shields, director of the game and fish division of the Minnesota Conservation department.

The first of four sessions at the new Long Lake Conservation center in Aitkin county will start July 11, Shields said, with an enrollment of 30 boys from throughout the state. Sessions will continue until the end of August.

The conservation department's game and fish division will supply professional resource scientists as instructors for the 1965 sessions, along with other state and federal resource management agencies and certain private organizations.

Boys will attend classroom sessions and take part in field trips to learn about the status and management of water, soil, forests and wildlife and the inter-relationship of these resources. The 10-day sessions will take place at the newly-constructed conservation center on Long Lake northwest of McGregor.

Shields said a considerable number of openings still exist for boys in the sessions starting July 25, August 8 and August 22. Boys interested in attending may obtain information by writing the Aitkin County Park Commission, Aitkin, Minnesota. Organizations and individuals interested in sponsoring boys may write to the same address. A registration fee of $35 per boy will cover his lodging, meals and all other expenses.

Most of the boys already registeres for the sessions are being sponsored by sportsmen's clubs affiliated with the Minnesota Conservation federation by the Kiwanis clubs. The Kiwanis organization donated the 200 acre camp site and other facilities for the camp, which now covers some 600 acres on Long Lake.

Camp director for the 1965 sessions is Donald Wagner, recent University of Minnesota graduate and a biology teacher at Edina high school. State game warden Jim Marcum is camp supervisor and Kern Ridlington, Aitkin forester, is secretary of the county parks commission.

While the 1965 sessions will be restricted to 13-15 year-old boys with an interest in natural resources conservation, the camp program will be tailored to training elementary and secondary school teachers in conservation education starting in 1966.

Walleye Feeding Habits Reviewed By Fish Biologist

Most walleye fishermen who angle with minnows, worms or artificial baits are not aware of the many kinds of foods used by fish and the continuous competition for food that goes on, according to John Dobie, state fisheries biologist.

Studies on Minnesota lakes by the state game and fish division show that production of fish foods and competition for food affects both the size of the walleye crop and the fisherman's success. During the first half of the summer after walleyes are hatched the small fish feed mostly on tiny water fleas and aquatic insects. When they are about an inch and a half long they shift to eating fish—mostly young perch.

It has been found that a good perch hatch is usually necessary to produce a good walleye crop, Dobie said. Oddly enough, he points out, young suckers are seldom eaten by walleyes even though they are used extensively for walleye bait. Apparently the walleyes cannot catch them as easily as they can perch, Dobie said.

Adult walleyes also feed mostly on perch, although they will take minnows, and in spring and early summer feed a great deal on the nymphs or wrigglers of mayflies which are common on the bottom of many lakes.

These are the same wrigglers that are sold as live bait for crappie and sunfish fishing in the winter and which emerge in the summer as the mayflies or fishflies that congregate around lights.

Dobie said smallmouth bass have feeding habits quite similar to the walleye. For this reason it is a direct competitor for food and can even replace walleyes in lakes where there are extensive spawning areas for bass.

Suckers also compete with walleyes for insect foods and a study is now underway at Wilson lake, Itasca county, to determine if sucker removal will benefit the walleye population. Rock bass, which are also found in walleye lakes, feed mostly on crayfish, Dobie says.

Applications for GI Insurance Now Total Over 5,000

Veterand Administration center at Ft. Snelling has received approximately 5,000 applications for the reopened GI insurance which went on sale May 1. John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center, said that applications nation-wide have already exceeded VA estimates.

The VA had expected 80,000 applications for policies by the middle of June. As of June 18, however, the VA had received more than 90,000 applications from across the country for the new policies.

Eligible veterans are those with service-connected disabilities or, where the disability is nonservice-connected, those who are so disabled they cannot obtain commercial insurance at the highest rates.

Murphy said that veterans will have until midnight, May 2, 1966, to obtain these policies. Further information may be obtained at the VA center at Ft. Snelling.

VFW Team Holds Undefeated Mark In Softball Loop

Defeating Bea's Food Market 5-2 last week, the VFW softball team continued its undefeated hold on first place in the Thief River Falls softball league. Hartz shaded Hamm's 9-7 to hold second place with a 4 and 1 mark. In the only other game last week, Schmidt's whipped Bridgeman's 7-3.

Games this week will have Bridgeman's meeting the VFW team on Monday, Hamm's playing Bea's on Tuesday and Schmidt's facing Hartz on Wednesday.

Current standings include the following: VFW, 5 wins and no losses; Hartz, 4 and 1; Schmidt's, 2 and 3; Bridgeman's 2 and 3; Hamm's, 1 and 4; and Bea's, 1 and 4.

Three-hitters on the Bridgeman's team lead the league batting race. John Drury, Elroy Frolland and Jerry Erickson each have five hits in 12 trips to the plate for .416 averages. Others in the top ten, with times at bat, hits and percentage listes respectively, include the following:

Llewellyn Bakke, Karlstad, Retires From Soo Service

Llewellyn Bakke of Karlstad, employee of the Soo Line railroad since 1925, worked his last day with the section crew on June 25, retiring after 40 years of service to the railroad.

He began working on the section crew in May of 1925, when Andrew Larson was foreman. For the first eight years he worked only in summer, but in 1933 he started working full-time as a member of the section crew replacing ties and rails in all extremes of weather. In the course of his railroad career, he has also been a night watchman and a depot caretaker.

Bakke has worked under several foremen during his years on the crew. After Andrew Larson left, he worked under Hjalmer Carlson, who came to Karlstad in 1939 and worked on the section until his death in 1948. After working under a number of temporary foremen, he worked for several years until his retirement under Lloyd Bostrom.

Research Begun On Size Question In Dairy Cattle

Do milk production and size of dairy cattle go hand in hand? This is a question long debated in dairy circles, and a new research project at the University of Minnesota's southern school and experiment station at Waseca is attempting to help settle the issue.

Dairy cattle geneticis C. W. Young said at the station's visitors day that a major purpose of the project is to learn what happens to size and meat production of large breed dairy cattle when they are selected for milk yield.

"Experience with dairy beef in this country suggests that the larger dairy breeds may be relatively efficient in producing meat as well as milk," he said. "However, little is known concerning the effect of continued selection for milk yield on the meat producing potential of these breeds.

"The answer to this question is likely to have considerable bearing on the future goals of dairy cattle breeders," he said.

Cattle in the project will include 100 large-breed animals in a base population, which will be divided into two breeding groups. Each group will be fed, managed and milked together so that all differences should be entirely genetic.

One group will be improved in milk yield through intensive selection, so that the end of the first 10 years—in the third generation—this group will average about 2,000 pounds production per cow more than the other group, which will serve as a control.

The project will also allow for measuring other factors correlated with milk yield. Furthermore, it will help estimate the genetic progress attainable for milk yield through using the best proven sires available and using advanced methods of cow evaluation.

The project is under the leadership of Kenneth P. Miller, station staff member, and Young.

Crops and Soils Day At Crookston Tuesday

Tuesday has been designated as the annual Crops and Soils Day at the Northwest agricultural experiment station, Crookston. An invitation is extended to all farmers, county agricultural agents, vo-ag instructors and other interested persons to visit the experiment station and tour the crops and soils plots and gain first-hand information about new ideas in crops and soils.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m., CDST, and tours of the plots will start immediately. Plots of small grains, forages, specialty crops, sugarbeets and potatoes reportedly are making good progress despite poor seeding conditions and inclement weather. The tours will be conducted by Olaf C. Soine, Freeman K. Johnson and B. C. Beresford, research staff at the experiment station. A luncheon will be served at noon and refreshments will be available in the registration area during the morning.

Garden club members and other women are invited to take the special tour through the horticultural gardens. The tour will be conducted by Bruce C. Beresford, station horticulturist, and several staff members of the department of horticulture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul campus.

Featured again this year will be the plant disease, weed, insect and soils clinic. Farmers and other persons seeking the latest information on these problems are encouraged to bring specimens of plant diseases and insects and seek answers to their questions. Specialists from the U of M agricultural extension service will be in charge of the clinic.

A brief program beginning at 1:15 p.m. will bring residents of the area up to date on developments for the new college-level technical institute being launched at the Northwest school, Crookston. Speaking on the subject will be Dr. Keith N. McFarland of the University of Minnesota.

North Central To Buy 10 Jets for Airline Service

Hal N. Carr, president of North Central Airlines, has announced a 10-jet program for the company. The airline has ordered Douglas DC-9 jet aircraft for inauguration of service on its sytem early in 1967. North Central serves Thief River Falls.

The agreement with the Douglas Aircraft company includes an initial purchase of five of the new 80-passenger twin-jets, including parts, at a cost of $20 million and an option for five additional aircraft.

"The flight equipment needs of each airline are different," Carr explained. "For several years the company has made an extensive evaluation study of the jet aircraft that could meet North Central's particular requirements. The factors which had to be considered were capacity, speed, range and design features of the aircraft; operating costs and purchase price; and adaptability of the plane to the airline's route system and existing airport runways. Our analyses indicated that the DC-9 is the most suitable jet aircraft for our operation."

The DC-9 cruises at 560 miles an hour. Wingspan is 87 feet and the over-all length is 104 feet. The trim jetliner will bring a new look to many air terminals served by North Central. Distinctive physical features are the high-level "T" tail and the two engines mounted at the rear of the fuselage.

Seating facilities are for 80 passengers.

North Central's present fleet consists of 27 Convair 440 aircraft and 18 DC-3's. Over 80 per cent of the airline's seat miles are now flown with Convairs. By the spring of next year, this will be increased to 90 per cent. By early 1967 the new DC-9's will be in operation along with the company's Convair fleet.

Since inaugurating service in 1948, North Central has carried more than 10,795,000 passengers and flown 1,766,000,000 passenger miles without a single injury or fatality to passengers or crew members. North Central serves 90 cities in 10 Midwest states and Canada over its 7,000-mile route system.

CONSERVATION News & Notes

by Bob Farmes
Area Game Manager
Division of Game & Fish—Minn. Conserevation Dep't.

One of the questions frequently asked of us is: "Just what do you do?" I hope that over the coming months I may be able to answer this question in this column.

It might be best to first explain that the state is divided into four regions for game management purposes. Each region in turn is further divided into three or four game management areas. This is Game Management Area II or Region II and includes Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Norman, Mahnomen and Becker counties. Area headquarters is at Thief River Falls and there are two assistant game managers in this area: Orville Nordsletten at Detroit Lakes and Gerald Maertens at Crookston. Vern Gunvalson is the regional manager with headquarters at Bemidji.

Our primary work in this part of the state involves the planning, acquisition and management of the wildlife management areas, popularly known as the wetlands program, although we are concerned areas is to preserve some game with upland habitat as well as wetlands. The purpose of buying these areas is to preserve some game habitat and to provide public hunting areas.

In this area to date we have acquired 85 wildlife management areas totaling over 53,000 acres. This does not include the major units such as Thief Lake and Roseau River wildlife areas where there are permanently stationed personnel. Total cost to the sportsman who pays for these areas with one dollar surcharge on the small game hunting license has been less than $12 per acre. Acquisition of private lands is by negotiation with the land owner who is paid a fair market price.

I will go into this and numerous other aspects of our work involving wildlife in future articles.

Attention Duck Hunters!

Application for the special permit required to hunt teal during the experimental early season which begins September 11, must be mailed to the conservation department by July 15.

Length of the season and bag limits will not be announced until it is known how many hunters intend to take part. Federal regulations say the season cannot be longer than nine days and the bag limit may not exceed four daily and eight in possession.

Only blue wing, green wing or cinnamon teal may be taken during the early season. Thus it is necessary for those hunters taking part in this special hunt to be able to accurately identify ducks. One of the best aids I know of for this purpose is the book "The Ducks, Geese and Swans of North America" by Francis H. Kortright. Waterfowl identification aids may also be obtained from the conservation department and the federal fish and wildlife service.

To apply for the permit, hunters must use a regular U.S. Postal card, print the word "teal" at the top and print their name, address, including county of residence and write their signature at the bottom of the card. The card should be mailed to the Minnesota Conservation Department, 390 Centennial Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, 55101.

Persons Over 65 Should Check on Social Security

Anyone 65 or older who has not already applied for social security benefits should inquire now, says Clifford Kytelson, district manager.

Every inquirer should bring proof of his age. A wage earner is advised to bring his 1964 withholding statement. The self-employed individual should bring his 1964 federal income tax return and cancelled check showing payment of the tax.

If proposed social security changes now before the Congress are approved, social security offices will have more work than they can handle later this year, said Kittleson. For this reason, 65-year-olds who have not applied before are wise to come in now to establish entitlement before the big rush.

"He who fears criticism is hopeless. Only those who do things are criticized. The idler is lost sight of the march of events, but the doer is watched and criticized. To hesitate for fear of criticism loses the battle while the doers march on to victory and triumphs. Indecision is a great harbinger; but to hesitate for fear of criticism is cowardly. If you cause is right, be not afraid of criticism; advocate it, expound it, and, if need be, fight for it. Critics always have been and always will be, but to the strong-minded they are a help rather than a hindrance."

—Thomas Jefferson

Postal Discontentment

Editors of papers around the area have expressed something less than satisfaction with the new mail procedures which went into effect July 1. In general it is felt that this end of the state has been provided with poorer service as a result of the change —certainly not what the postal department claimed was improved service.

The Karlstad Advocate stated: "We see the new mail truck is just pulling in behind the local post office, bringing our new and improved mail service about an hour late of its scheduled arrival and about two hours later than service and postal department tells us was poor service....we've been gone a week, thus ever since the new system of bringing mail was inaugurated, but they tell us the truck has been late every day since the new system started.

"We don't believe it is the local trucker's fault, but we had better face the fact that no matter what the Washington postal department tells us, we're due for much poorer service than we have been accustomed to."

The Warren Sheaf stated: "Under the present system which was started on July 1, we understand, Warren is the only town in the county that receives incoming mail from the south on Sundays or holidays and that is only because the post office department is continuing to use mail service on the Great Northern.

"Star route mail trucks do not operate on Sundays and holidays in these parts and these routes carry the mails to and from all of the other towns in the county.

"Another complaint: Until now, mail dispatched at Oslo and Alvarado for Warren late in the afternoon would be left in Warren for distribution to people renting boxes. Under this new-fangled system, this west mail is carried through to the Thief River Falls sectional center where it is re-worked overnight and returned here the following morning along with much mail from the south and east."

Memo to the Great White Fathers : It would appear the natives are getting a little resless.

Where Will It Lead?

Americans are waiting expectantly to see what effect the new civil rights law will have on residents of the United States. This law was loudly hailed by the administration as vital and necessary legislation to bring equality in our nation. It is to prevent discrimination because of race, creed or sex.

Apparently we will have to await a court case to find out if it is really necessary under the law for restaurants to hire male waitresses, airlines to train male stewardesses, business firms to hire male receptionists, railroads to hire women section hands, brakemen and engineers, highway departments to employ patrolwomen and municipalities to hire garbagewomen.

It is to be assumed that "His" and "Hers" will be banned on bathroom towels, pillow cases and restroom doors. While man is not physically endowed to produce children, we can foresee doctors entering a maternity waiting room and annoucing to the nervous new father "It's an it."

Think of the problems which will arise in professional athletics. There should not be, we would expect, any more contests strictly for men or for women. The American Bowling Congress and WIBC should surely have to merge. Tennis doubles teams would have to consist of one man and one woman. Imagine the Minnesota Vikings listing Fran Tarkenton as 6' 0", 200 pounds, 36-34-38.

Beauty contests would be a thing of the past. No judge would take the job of determining a winner if he was under penalty of facing a federal court and proving that he did not make his selection on the basis of sex.

Leave it to Congress to create confusion. They have set fire to the house to cover up the evidence that they were naughty by playing with matches. No one can tell where the civil rights act will lead.

Is It Discrimination?

A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has something of unusual interest to say about the drive to repeal section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act—the section which permits states to adopt right-to-work laws. Last year, he recalled, Congress passed a law outlawing job discrimination on the basis of color, race, religion, or sex. But now, he went on, the present Congress is debating "whether to legalize discrimination in employment because of membership or the lack of membership in a private organization—a labor union." It will be interesting to see how Congress can double-talk this issue.

It is difficult to see how anyone could reconcile repeal of 14 (b) with Congress' previous legislative action. To discriminate against a man because he does or does not want to join a union is certainly as bad as to discriminate against him because of the color of his skin or the church he attends. No man is free when he right to earn a living is conditioned upon forced membership in any organization.

A good union has nothing to fear from 14 (b). It will gain and hold its membership on the basis of services rendered. But when membership is compulsory, there is no need to provide good and effective service—the rank and file are helpless. Right-to-work provides them with an invaluable protection.

Run on the Bank

So far, the stressed goal in the war on poverty program has been aid to the Appalachian region. However, says Senator Cotton of New Hampshire, six more Appalachias are being considered, among them the deep South, northern New England and the Ozarks.

The Senator goes on to say: "The fly in that ointment is that i's like at run on the bank. The funds will be long gone before many in line reach the window. This is especially true of Uncle Sam's bank which is already borrowing money to keep enough in the till to pay the tellers."

In other words, the administrative costs of such programs have a habit of biting deeply into the funds provided. One sometimes wonders if the principal beneficiaries aren't the armies of bureaucrats, some very highly paid, who manage to jump on the bandwagon.

Beyond that, ending poverty demands far more than any conceivable government program. The long-range, lasting cure is an expanding, vital and vigorous economy which enternally creates more jobs and opportunities.

Such an economy goes far beyond any government attempts to create a false economy by providing make-work jobs through such agencies as the Office of Economic opportunity. This merely a political move to recruit more government dependents and to artificially inflate the nation's employment total. The jobs are not lasting and the expenditure is tremendous.

We seriously question the need of government "stimulation" for projects in a number of cases. Making huge sums of money available creates a false demand for funds. This was evidenced when Thief River Falls was advised of a large government appropriation and, as a result of this notice, submitted applications on a number of projects which, in time, were to be undertaken by the community itself. This procedure was multiplied throughout the nation, and bureaucrats immediately pounced upon these solicited applications as a cry for help from the nation's communities.

In many cases appropriations have been far beyond what was actually needed. The grant for new library construction in this city was offered rather than requested. Additional funds were allotted for the project here because another state was given more money than it could use. Uncle Sam's bank would never pass an audit.

Poor Crystal Gazing

FOR SALE CHEAP—Crystal ball used for predicting the future. Needs adjustment to clear foggy image and improve accuracy. Last used to predict tax receipts. Contact Karl F. Rolvaag, State Capitol, St. Paul, Minn.

Minnesotans, particularly school boards and school administrators, will remember that Governor Rolvaag's estimates of tax revenue were used as his reason for ordering a five per cent cut-back in state expenditures—including those for school aids—during his first year in office. The decision to cut back expenditures was made in spite of higher estimates by Rolland Hatfield, state tax commissioner.

It has now been revealed that tax receipts for the two-year biennium were $10.5 million above even the tax commissioner's estimates—the estimates which the governor called high. In fact, the governor was liberal in his verbal abuse of Hatfield for presenting such high estimates.

A man who has been wronged deserves an apology, and it would seem that a gentleman would certainly extend that courtesy to the man he has wronged. Where the governor is concerned, however, we imagine it will be sub-zero in Hades before any such apology is forthcoming. We don't expect to find it among the news releases emanating from the state capitol.

Governor Rolvaag has acted in poor taste so many times that the state is getting accustomed to it. You expect to get socked by a wet blanket when you hang out the wash on a windy day.

"Oh, how nice," smiled his wife. "What did you buy"

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Although soil residues from weed-killing chemicals are no major problem in Minnesota, scientists at the University of Minnesota are keeping a vigilant eye on possible sources of such residues.

Two chemicals being studied carefully in regard to the residue problem are the herbicides (weed killers) atrazine and simazine. They are triazine compounds, and are selective; they control certain weeds, if used properly, without injuring the crop.

Each of these chemicals sometimes presents a carryover problem. Some of the chemical applied one year may remain in the soil, sometimes for a year. This residue could be harmful in succeeding years to crops susceptible to these chemicals.

Among the scientists studying these chemicals are agronomist Richard Behrens, soil scientist Russel Adams and plant physiologist A. J. Linck.

Atrazine and simazine are used largely as pre-emergence herbicides. They are applied to the soil, usually after the crop is planted but before it emerges. Atrazine may also be used, although less extensively, as an early post-emergence herbicide.

Much of the research is at a fundamental level, to determine how these chemicals affect plants, how they are taken up by the soil and how they persist over time.

Adams has found that adsorption of simazine, and its persistance, varies among soils. Simazine residue is more persistently held in montmorillonite clay than in illite clay. Both types occur in Minnesota. Silt has negligible ability to hold a chemical residue and with sand this holding power is almost nil.

Adams says a variety of factors may be involved in the carryover problem in fields. One is the weather and another may be the PH, or level of soil acidity. A calcareous soil may be characterized by stronger adsorption than others.

Organic matter is probably very important in retention of triazine chemical residues in soils, Adam says. Organic matter may, in some cases, serve to tie the chemical up in a residual form. In other situations, organic matter may stimulate microbial activity, breaking the chemical down and dissipating it from the soil.

How do these chemicals dissipate from the soil? Apart from leaching, Behrens says, the loss could be by photochemical or chemical deactivation, microbial breakdown, plant removal, volatilization, or soil adsorption.

Behrens suggests that the way dissipation of residues occurs may depend on the time of year and the time after the chemical has been applied. Shortly after application, volatilization may be especially important. But a month or so after the chemical has been in the ground, microbial breakdown may be more important.

Both Behrens and Linck are studying the process by which triazine chemicals kill or at least control weeds. In general, these chemicals control weeds by interfering with the photosynthetic process.

Linck and R. H. Shimabukuro studied the movement and toxic effects of atrazine. They found that even though atrazine is taken up through the roots, it may not have a direct effect on root tissues themselves. Injury to root tissues, leading to disruption in the absorption mechanism and eventual death is more likely a secondary effect, resulting from primary injury to the top part of the plant.

Various approaches are used to get around the residue problem. One way is to use a mixture of half atrazine and half linuron, another chemical.

At full rate, linuron might damage corn. However, by mixing it with atrazine, a farmer in effect uses a half rate of linuron and virtually eliminates injury to the crop. Then by using a half rate of atrazine, he reduces the carryover.

Another possibility being examined is the use of oil or other additives in early post-emergence applications of atrazine. The additives make possible the use of a lower rate of chemical, so that the herbicidal effect may be obtained with less danger of residue.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Take a tip—"Bee wise", suggests the Minnesota State Medical association. Whether you are working in the garden, out on a picnic, biking, swimming or playing golf, you're a target for wasps, hornets and bees.

To minimize the chances of getting stung wear white or light colored clothing. Hair oils or perfumes attract insects, dark colors seem to provoke bees and all of them seem to be irritated by suede or other leather materials. Experience has also shown that stinging insects are more likely to attack a moving object. If a bee or a wasp approaches you, don't swing wildly or attempt to swat the culprit, keep calm and walk slowly away.

If you get stung by a bee or a wasp, remove the stinger as soon as possible. Ordinarily a temporary feeling of discomfort and inconvenience is the only after affect. Occasionally some individuals are allergic to insect stings. Symptoms which may indicate sensitivity include a feeling of faintness, nausea, the appearance of hives, and general itching.

As a rule, milder reactions will respond to systematic medical treatment including the use of antihistamines, antipruritics and sedatives. The severely sensitive patient may on rare occasions react by lapsing into a state of shock. The customary shock symptoms including pallor or cyanosis, fainting, or loss of consciousness may be present.

Excessive perspiration, a cold and clammy skin, a slower rate of breathing are also among the symptoms which may indicate an insect bite sensitivity reaction. The doctor may initiate a desensitization program to prevent more serious reactions which could result from future exposures.

Mosquito and chigger bites will disappear in time if just left alone. Avoid scratching that breaks the skin. The danger of an infection increases after the skin is broken by scratching.

To minimize the discomfort of itching caused by minor insect bites, try this soothing treatment: Apply aromatic spirits of ammonia directly to the bite. This preparation and other soothing lotions are available at all drug stores.

The first aid treatment for a sensitized person includes the following procedures: Apply a constricting bandage to the arm or leg above the sting. Use a strong, wide piece of cloth. Wrap the cloth around the limb just above the sting. Tie a half-knot; place a short stick on the half-knot; tie a full knot over the stick; twist the stick. A pulse should be present below the bandage, and the bandage should not produce a throbbing sensation. Loosen the bandage for a few seconds every 15 minutes, apply ice pack or cold cloths to area; remove stinger with tweezers, and seek medical attention as soon as possible.

Total number of living veterans dropped below 22 million in December, 1964, and was 21,897,000 on March 1, 1965, the Veterans administration reported. The average less than 46 years of age.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—Are members of veterans' families admitted as patients to VA hospitals?

A—Not unless the members are also veterans in their own right. VA hospital care is for veterans only except, naturally, in cases of emergency that happen in the vicinity of the hospital.

Q—Can World War II or Korean conflict veterans get college or similar educational training under the law?

A—The educational programs for both World War II and Korean conflict veterans have come to an end. The only educational program now being carried on by VA applies to the children of service connected deceased or totally disabled veterans. Note: Vocational rehabilitation of veterans with service-connected disabilities is a permanent program still going on and is not to be confused with the educational programs.

Q—I was retired from the Air Force because of disability in December of 1964 after three years service. Will I be eligible for the National Service Life Insurance which went on sale May 1?

A. No. This insurance is available only to disabled veterans who had service between Oct. 8, 1940 and Dec. 31, 1956. You might be eligible for a special type of insurance available to veterans with disabilities incurred in service after April 25, 1951. You would have one year after the VA notifies you that your disability is service-connected in which to apply.

Q—I have received an insurance application and a pamphlet from the VA, generally describing the provisions of the new insurance law. I already have $10,000 worth of government insurance. Am I eligible for more insurance?

A—No. VA sent applications and general information to veterans on the compensation rolls on the basis they are the group having the greatest potential eligibility. The mailing was conducted from records maintained by our automatic data processing office. These records do not show the insurance status of the veteran.

Q—I have government life insurance on the term plan. When will I be told of my eligibility for the new modified life plan which became available May 1?

A—Generally, veterans with term insurance will be notified of the new modified life plan when their policy is scheduled for renewal on the term plan; however, conversion may be made at any time. For further information, you may write, telephone or visit your nearest VA office.

Q—My military service started subsequent to January 1, 1957. Am I eligible for the insurance I have heard so much about?

A—No. The insurance you refer to is available only to certain veterans having service between October 8, 1940 and January 1, 1957, and who meet other requirements established by the VA.

Q—How can I get in touch with a friend from the service days?

A—If you know any of the following: his service serial number, his date of birth, his dates of entrance into and discharge from the service, the VA may be able to locate him if you have his full name, including middle name. The VA can then forward your letter to the veteran, since regulations forbid giving out a veteran's address.

Q—Phony rumers about a dividend have thousands of veterans writing the VA. What's the story on this?

A—It is an old insurance dividend paid in 1950. Some 99.7 per cent of those eligible have already received it. The remainder, unreachable at that time due to address changes, has grown smaller since then due to deaths. From time to time rumors spread that a vast horde of veterans failed to receive this dividend and VA is flooded with mail from forgetful veterans. A recent check of 14,000 such inquiries turned up only two veterans who had not collected.

Q—I have term insurance, which will get too expense as I get older. What can I do?

A—You can convert all or part of it to any of six permanent plans that have been available for a number of years. A new modified life plan became available commencing May 1, 1965. This plan requires a premium, higher than term insurance but less than ordinary life insurance, which does not increase as the policyholder gets older. The full modified life premium is payable for life even though the amount of insurance is reduced to one-half at the policyholder's 65th birthday.

By the year 2000, three of every five veterans in civilian life will be World War II veterans and the other two will be Korean conflict veterans, the VA predicts.

Of every 10 veterans now living, eight will survive until 1980, four will be alive in the year 2000, and one will still be living in 2015, the Veterans administration estimates.

There were only 17,000 Spanish-American war veterans surviving on Jan. 1, 1965. The average age of Spanish-American war veterans is 86.6 years, according to the Veterans administration.

Marshall Co. Fair Opens on Friday

Marshall county's 59th annual free gate fair will open in Warren Friday and will continue through Sunday offering an array of out- and educational exhibits.

Exhibits at this year's fair give promise of surpassing all previous events in the many departments. Commercial and institutional displays will be more numerous and will tax the capacity of the buildings on the spacious fairgrounds. More than 600 4-H club members will display their projects this year, according to Kenneth Nelson, fair board secretary.

The fair opening will be on Friday afternoon when the Warren Saddle club will direct a horse show which will include numerous horse races for saddle bourses and also a challenge chariot race.

Friday night's program will be presented by the Marshall county 4-H clubs and will include 10 variety acts selected from among winners in the annual search for talent contest held last spring. The style queen dress revue with 150 participants will be a feature of this program.

The second annual tractor pulling contest, limited to 40 tractors, will provide the program Saturday afternoon. The tractors are entered into six different weight classes for this educational event. Purses for the contests total $700. This contest was a thriller last year and should be even more so this year because of the experience gained by drivers, Nelson said.

Country music will occupy the stage Saturday night when George Morgan, recording star, will headline the Grand Ole Opry show from Nashville, Tenn. Morgan gained fame for his rendition of "Candy Kisses", "Room Full of Roses" and others. He will be complemented by The Cantrells, Leon Douglas and Larry Good and the Country Three.

The ever popular Browning family, comprising 10 family musicians will play a return engagement at the fair on Sunday for afternoon and evening programs. They appeared at the fair two years ago and were prevailed upon to return this year. One of the daughers was selected as Miss Missouri in 1964 and she will be with the family at the fair in Warren.

The fair's midway will again feature the popular William D. Stanley shows, recognized as one of the best carnival companies appearing in the middle west. Stanley features 15 thrill rides plus concessions and shows.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Gribble and children of Milwaukie, Ore., spent the past week visiting at the homes of Oscar Ranum and Lloyd Hanson.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month, Peters said.

There were 26 herds on test during May with a total of 809 cows and an average of 31 cows per herd in the Pennington association. 88 per cent of these cows were milking. Average amount of milk produced per cow was 1,002 pounds which tested 3.7 per cent fat. This amounted to 36.9 pounds of BF per cow.

There were 14 owner-sampler herds on test with a total of 321 cows, 86 per cent of which were milking.

Two cows finished with over 500 pounds BF during the testing year, in a 365 day or less lactation. They were as follows

	Days	lbs. Milk	lbs. Fat
Adolph Peterson	326	14,310	507
Myron & Mylo Carlson	330	14,710	568

Note: Due to an oversight, the Wallace Relerson herd which should have been listed in ninth place in the top ten herds for April with a hard average of 1,074 pounds of milk and 40.7 fat average was omitted in last months report.

188 4-H Members Enrolled in Dairy Foods in County

Just about every 4-H girl at some time decides to try her hand at a dairy foods project. This is proved by the large enrollment in the national 4-H dairy foods program since its introduction 18 years ago. Peak enrollment was well over three-quarter million in a single year. Pennington county has 188 enrolled in the six phases of the project this year.

The dairy foods project fits in well with other cooking and meal planning programs offered in 4-H and at the same time develops for the youngsters an appreciation of adequate nutrition and the importance of milk in the daily diet, according to the national 4-H service committee. Girls and boys from 9 to 19 years of age are enrolled in this project.

Dairy foods are particularly popular during the summer months when cooling milk drinks, ice cream desserts, cottage cheese salads, cream soups and cheese sandwiches are so much in demand. In fact, 4-H'ers discover hundreds of ways to use dairy foods year 'round for main courses, snacks and party menus.

This project usually gives the young cooks an opportunity to demonstrate newly learned skills in preparing dairy dishes in competition with other members. The best all-around project can win one of several awards provided by the sponsoring company.

Up to four county medal winners can be named, and one state winner will receive a wrist watch. State winners can then compete for sectional honors which are 18 trips to the national 4-H club congress at Chicago next fall. Six national scholarships of $500 each also are offered. The cooperative extension service selects all award recipients.

Safety Council Plans Booth for Pennington Fair

Innovations for the booth to be erected at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls July 22-25 were decided upon at the regular meeting of the Pennington County Safety council held Monday evening at the Rex cafe in Thief River Falls.

This year's booth will feature an electronic display showing the proper manner of using exit and entrance ramps on a cloverleaf interchange, according to Police Capt. Alan Noreen, council secretary. Improper driving on the interchange is a frequent cause of traffic accidents on the freeways, Capt. Noreen said.

The background of the booth will consist of mutilated signs which have been brought in for repair or replacement by the county highway department. Included in the display of signs will be information in regard to cost for the replacement or repair.

Council members also marked continued effort to obtain traffic control devises of some type for the Soo Line railroad crossing on Eighth street.

Attention of council members at the session was also called to the number of cars which are parked on the wrong side of the street in the residential areas of the city. It was noted that this causes a hazard due to the likelihood of the vehicle being struck while parked and the problem caused by the vehicle pulling out into the proper traffic lane.

State law requires parking on the right-hand side of the street, it was noted at the meeting. Owners of parked cars struck by moving vehicles have frequently been found negligent if their cars are parked on the left side of the street and have been required to pay for damage to their cars.

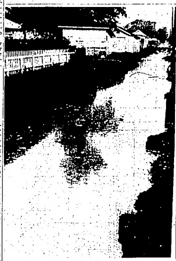
County Board Changes Six Common Districts



APPEARING to be a canal in Venice, this is instead an alley in Thief River Falls, which was excavated during a phase of the extensive storm sewer and street improvement program now being carried out in the southeast portion of the city, and was filled with water as a result of the Monday morning thunderstorms which dropped more than three and a half inches of rain on the city. The alley is located between Crocker and Tindolph avenues in the 400 block. Due to the digging and piling of earth involved in the street construction, drainage ditches in this area were blocked and the rain water sought its own drainage pattern. A constant flow of water at the north end of this trench completely filled it by Tuesday morning. Pieces of the soft earth periodically gave way, causing the banks to be undercut and treacherous. Culverts and other objects placed along the edge of the ditch fell into the water, including some debris from two garages which overhang the edge. Residents of the neighborhood were concerned about the hazard presented to children.

The same arrangement was made for district 1559.

Consider Resource Funds

Rep. Andrew Skaar and Robert Farmes, area game manager, appeared before the board and reviewed possibilities for natural resource work for which state and federal funds have been appropriated. Robert Edman, coordinator for the Minnesota Natural Resources commission, will be contacted to consider Pennington county, resources in a coordinated effort for the area. It is expected he will arrange local meetings and advise county boards on action which might be taken.

A petition presented by William Palmquist and several other from River Falls and Wyandotte townships in regard to a request for bituminous surfacing of SAR 17 and SAR 2 in that area was taken under advisement by the board. A long-range program for road surfacing has been adopted by the board.

Four bids were received for the season's supply of No. 5 fuel oil for courthouse heating and Consumers Cooperative was issued the contract on a low bid of 11.09 cents per gallon.

Change Oakland Park Dist.

Adoption of Chapter 406 of the Minnesota laws of 1965 was also accomplished by the board, removing Red Lake and Roseau counties from the Oakland Park nursing home district and establishing operation by Pennington and Marshall counties. The law will become effective upon filed approval by all counties involved.

Participation in the mental health center at Crookston was approved in the amount of $3,353 and an appropriation of $1,400 was made to the county civil defense fund for which a $2,600 budget was approved. Also approved was an appropriation of $1,109 for operation of the probation office for the area which is located in Thief River Falls.

Elected county officials were granted a salary adjustment increase of $100 per year on the basis of the consumer's price index recently received. Meeting of the county board of equalization was deferred from July 19 to August 17 at 10 a. m.

Pay Early Bounties

Commissioners also approved the payment of fox bounty for animals certified as taken before June 30. Payment of these bounties will be made upon presentation of the bounty certificates which have been signed by state game wardens.

Under reorganization of the Inter-County Community council, a local unit organized under the Economic Opportunity act, M. R. Hankerson and Merle Lindberg of Thief River Falls and James Gavin of St. Hilaire were reappointed to the council. The board also adopted a resolution approving President Johnson's beautification program but objecting to the method of financing by diverting secondary road funds allocated to counties.

starting local FFA scrapbook, FFA Foundation awards program, and operating the concession stand at all local football and basketball games. Our member was honored with the State Farmer degree as well as the District Star Farmer award.

A new adult educational program for farmers was started in the Middle River school under the agricultural department when 10 local farmers enrolled in the Farm Management I-course. A series of meetings was held in January and February to encourage a more businesslike approach to farming in local farm management.

This was also a busy year for the agricultural instructor. In addition to the regular day time teaching of five classes to the school students, a goal of 90 students on-the-farm visitations and 26 adult farm visitations were made. A total of 8,375 miles was traveled, in either the personal car or school car. In addition to the adult farm management classes, Milsten also conducted three radiological monitoring classes with 37 local adults attending. Milsten attended a total of 48 meetings during the past year in the community.

At the present time Milsten serves as a member of the Marshall Sheep association, President of the Agricultural Educators in Marshall county, the local Boy Scout, scoutmaster and local 4-H leader.
